PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

SECRETARY : Sir, I lay on the Table a copy of the President's Address to both Houses of Parliament assembled together on the 23rd March, 1971.

Members of Parliament,

1. It gives me pleasure to address this Joint Session of the Fifth Parliament of our Republic and summon you to new endeavours.

The General Election has once again demonstrated that durable political power in a democracy has only one source—the people. It has proved the people's confidence in themselves and their faith in the processes of democracy.

2. Our people have made their choice.
They have asserted their sovereignty through the ballot box. And theirs is a massive mandate for change, peaceful change that must swiftly and visibly alter the picture of poverty and alienation in our land.

3. We have begun this work. But now we have to address ourselves afresh to evolving perspectives, policies and practices even more closely and concretely related to the needs of our people and our times.

4. My Government have been returned to office on the clear pledge that the central objective of our policy must be the abolition of poverty. To achieve this, my Government are firmly committed to implementing the economic and social transformation outlined in the manifesto which has received such overwhelming support of the electorate.

5. The Government will soon frame specific policies and programmes arising out of the mandate of the electorate. A mid-term appraisal of the Fourth Plan will be made. This appraisal will enable us to review and reorient the plan in order to increase the pace and effective use of investment in the economy. As part of this exercise, Government will also identify the specific directions in which developmental programmes could be further reinforced in a determined effort to deal with the problem of unemployment.
The Crash Scheme for Rural Employment which is to be implemented from the commencement of the next financial year will form the nucleus of a comprehensive programme for the expansion of employment. This programme will be linked to schemes for raising the productivity of agriculture. The construction and renovation of minor irrigation sources and the provision of basic amenities such as drinking water supply and link roads will form part of this programme. The problem of the educated unemployed will receive special attention.

6. My Government are convinced that land reforms are vital for the promotion of an egalitarian social order and for maximising agricultural production. In recent months, various issues relating to land reforms have received special attention of my Government. A Central Land Reforms Committee under the chairmanship of the Union Minister of Food and Agriculture has been set up. As a result of the
