(a) whether the Crop Competition Scheme sponsored by the Government of India has helped increase in the yield of foodgrains during the last two years in the State of Orissa;

(b) if the answer to part (a) above be in the affirmative, the yield of additional produce during the above period; and

(c) the additional acreage of land brought under cultivation during the above period?

The Minister of Food and Agriculture (Shri Kidwai): (a) to (c). Unlike works and supplies schemes which directly increase foodgrains production, crop competitions lead to increase in production only in an indirect manner, by fostering healthy competition amongst cultivators and thereby inducing them to achieve higher yields per acre. It is not, therefore, possible to estimate the actual increase in production resulting from these competitions.

In Orissa crop competitions have been organised since 1950-51. For the reasons already stated it is not, however, possible to give any idea of the actual increase in production achieved or of the additional area that might have been brought under cultivation, as a result of these competitions.
