The prices compare quite favourably with the prices of imported bicycles of similar quality.

(c) It is not clear what exactly is meant by "co-ordination". If it means co-ordination between the small-scale manufacturers of cycle-parts and the leading manufacturers of complete bicycles, the answer is in the affirmative.

The products of the small-scale manufacturers are being tested for quality by the manufacturers of complete bicycles from time to time for their suitability or otherwise, for incorporation in the bicycles manufactured by them. Simultaneously these parts are also being sent to the Government Test House for a detailed metallurgical physical and comparative tests. The deficiencies reported are pointed out to the firms for improvement. The major consumers like the Post and Telegraph Department are asked to give periodical reports regarding actual service on the road given by cycles used by them.

The Indian Standard Institute have also taken up on hand the drafting of Indian standard specifications for the cycle-parts.

The Government is also assisting the industry in the import of the right type of raw materials which are not available from indigenous sources but for which some of the manufacturers have been using indigenous substitutes.
