

Steps have been taken to organise the manufacture of fishing vessels in the country. A scheme has been drawn up for subsidising deep sea fishing vessels constructed in the country. Under Centrally aided state plan schemes the most important programme is that of mechanisation of fishing vessels. Five thousand boats are expected to be introduced under this programme in the Fourth Plan period in addition to about eight thousand five hundred boats already introduced and in operation. A survey of India's export potential of marine products has been conducted recently by the Indian Institute of Foreign Trade. Their report is expected to be finalised shortly. The Inland fishery development programmes are directed towards increased production of fish seed, reclamation of derelict water areas for fish farming and development of reservoir fisheries. It has also been proposed to bring in large areas under intensive pisciculture and also to take up a pilot scheme for development of brackish-water fisheries.
