Statement

Exemption to Appear in Hindi Granted to North Eastern Region Candidates in All India Services Examinations

Hindi is not a compulsory subject in the Civil Services Examination through which recruitment is made for appointment to the IAS, IPS and several Group 'A' and Group 'B' Central Services. However one of the Indian languages to be selected by each candidate from among the languages included in the Eighth Schedule to the Constitution is a compulsory paper in the written part of the Civil Services (Main) Examination. This paper is of Matriculation or equivalent standard and is only of qualifying nature and its marks are not counted towards ranking of candidates in preparing the merit list. As none of the languages ordinarily spoken in Manipur, Meghalaya, Nagaland, Arunachal Pradesh, Sikkim and Mizoram is included in the Eighth Schedule to the Constitution of India, candidates from that region would be placed at a disadvantage, if no special dispensation is made in respect of them till such time as they are in a position to acquire proficiency to the required extent in any one of the languages included in the Eighth Schedule to the Constitution. Therefore, candidates hailing from these States/Union Territories have been exempted from appearing in the above mentioned paper of the Civil Services (Main) Examination since the new scheme of examination was introduced in 1979. This exemption is now available upto the examination to be conducted in 1985.
