Master Plan for Delhi

Shri Subodh Hansda:

Will the Minister of Health be pleased to state:

(a) whether the Master Plan for Delhi has been finalised;

(b) if so, the broad outline thereof; and

(c) how many years will be needed for its implementation?

The Minister of Health (Dr. Sushila Nayar): (a) Yes, Sir.

(b) A statement is laid on the Table. [See Appendix annexure I No. 11].

(c) The Master Plan for Delhi is for the development of Delhi upto the year 1981 and its implementation, which will be taken up in stages, will, therefore, extend upto that date.

1339 (A) L.S.D.—1.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Will the Master Plan be integrated or dovetailed with the five year plans of the country? If not, is there a plan or blue-print for a phased implementation of the Master Plan?

Dr. Sushila Nayar: As I have stated, it is a long-term plan, certain schemes will be implemented under each five year plan. Naturally they will be dovetailed, some into the Third Plan, some into the Fourth, some into the Fifth and so on.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Have the Master Planners devised or advised a machinery for implementation of the Plan and its organisational set-up also? Or is Government considering having a separate machinery on its own?

Dr. Sushila Nayar: At the moment, the Delhi Development Authority, which has prepared the Plan, has indicated certain land uses. So far as the actual implementation to the extent of building houses etc. is concerned, it will be done by different agencies, some by the Corporation, some by the Government of India for offices and residential houses, some by private agencies and so on.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Very unclear.

Shri Shree Narayan Das: The hon. Minister has stated that different aspects of this Master Plan will be executed by different agencies. I would like to know the agencies that have been named so far.

Dr. Sushila Nayar: There is no question of naming the agencies. All that I am saying is that the broad outline is prepared by this Authority. The Authority says, this is the area where industry will come, this is the area where residential houses will be located, this is the area where business houses will be sited and so on. Having demarcated that, the construction etc. will be taken care of by the agency which gets the land.

श्री प्रकाशवीर शास्त्री : पीछे समाचार-पत्रों में कुछ ऐसे समाचार प्रकाशित हुए थे कि इस मास्टर प्लान में उत्तर प्रदेश और पंजाब के भी कुछ भाग आ गये हैं, और उस समय उन प्रदेशों की सरकारों ने अपने भाग देने के सम्बन्ध में कुछ असहमति व्यक्त की थी। क्या मैं यह जान सकता हूँ कि इस को अन्तिम रूप देने से पहले दोनों प्रदेशों की सरकारों की स्वीकृति ले ली है? यदि ले ली है तो उसकी रूपरेखा क्या है?

डा० सुशीला नायर : फाइनल रूप तो इसको दे दिया गया है। प्लान स्वीकृत हो चुका है। जहाँ तक उत्तर प्रदेश और पंजाब के थोड़े से एरिया का सवाल है, वह ग्रेटर मेट्रो-पोलिटन एरिया में शामिल होता है। उसके बारे में उन से पहले सलाह मशविरा हो चुका था और उसके लिए एक हाई पावर्ड बोर्ड भी बनाया जा चुका है उस हाई पावर्ड बोर्ड को स्टेट्यूटरी रूप देने का सुझाव है उसके बारे में होम मिनिस्ट्री उनसे बातचीत कर रही है। और अगर ऐसा करना होगा तो उसके लिए पार्लियामेंट के सामने कानून आयेगा, और वह कानून आने से पहले उनकी सहमति प्राप्त कर ली जायेगी।

Some Hon. Members rose—

Mr. Speaker: The whole Master Plan cannot be discussed during Question Hour. It will be difficult for me to allow so many questions.

Shri D. C. Sharma.

Shri D. C. Sharma: From the statement, I find that only 0.3 per cent of the area is reserved for agriculture and 8.0 per cent for public and semi-public facilities.

I want to understand on what basis these figures have been arrived at—agriculture almost zero and public and semi-public facilities 8 per cent.

Dr. Sushila Nayar: The idea is that Delhi is a metropolitan area, and the agricultural area is confined to the so-called green belt round Delhi, which has a certain depth. It is for this purpose that most of the area in Delhi is to be utilised for non-agricultural purposes. The facilities mentioned by the hon. Member, that is public facilities, naturally include parks, green areas and the like.

Mr. Speaker: Yesterday also we covered only 13 questions. I would request hon. Members to get along more quickly.

Locust Invasion

 - Shri Mohan Swarup:

 - Shri Basumatari:
 - Shri D. C. Sharma:
 - Shri P. R. Patel:
 - Shri D. J. Naik:
 - Shri Chhotubhai Patel:

Will the Minister of Food and Agriculture be pleased to state:

(a) whether locust invasions of Northern India are expected on an unprecedented scale this year;

(b) if so, what steps are being taken to save crops in the threatened areas; and

(c) whether any foreign assistance has been sought to supplement Government's own resources for this task?

The Minister of State in the Ministry of Food and Agriculture (Dr. Ram Subhas Singh): (a) Yes, Sir. Locust invasion has already commenced. 1

(b) A statement is laid on the Table [See Appendix I, annexure No. 12].

(c) No.

Shri Indrajit Gupta: From the statement certain information is available about the precautionary measures which were taken. There is nothing in it to show how the actual invasion, which has begun as the Minister said, has been tackled. I would like to know to what extent crops have been affected already, and to what extent these measures have been successful in saving them.

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: Actually, the most effective measures that have been taken are taken by the farmers themselves, and we have also detailed some planes and some other instruments which are operating there in Punjab, U. P., Rajasthan and also in certain parts of Bihar and Madhya Pradesh.

Shri Indrajit Gupta: Is it not a fact that in the areas which have already been affected, almost 75 per cent. of the crop has been damaged?

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: Actually, it is not a fact because most of the locusts are going from place to place. Unless and until they start laying eggs and the hoppers come up, not much damage can be done. It is a fact that some damage has been done.

Shri P. C. Borooah: What is the nature of the assistance, if any received from the FAO in this regard?

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: A team of the FAO is likely to come some time this month, and with their help we will start operation in the areas bordering Pakistan.

श्री सरजू पाण्डेय : इस स्टेटमेंट में यह नहीं बताया गया है कि टिड्डियों ने प्रदेश के किन किन भागों में किसानों की फसलों को कितना कितना नुकसान पहुंचाया है। क्या ऐसी कोई सूचना सरकार के पास है, और यदि है तो वहां पर किसानों को रिलीफ देने के लिए क्या कार्रवाई की गयी है ?

श्री० राम सुभग सिंह : जितनी सूचनाएं चाहिए सारी सूचनाएं सरकार के पास हैं। और हर जगह जिला मजिस्ट्रेटों को बतला

दिया गया है कि जिस चीज की जरूरत होगी हम भेजने को तैयार हैं, और बहुत सी चीजें भेजी भी गयी हैं, प्रादेशिक सरकारों भी अपनी ओर से इन्तिजाम कर रही हैं। जैसा कि मैं ने पहले कहा, हर खेत में सरकारी यंत्रों का पहुंच पाना सम्भव नहीं है। इसलिए बहुत ज्यादा मुफीद होता है किसान का अपना प्रयास। और जो चीज दवा वगैरह किसान चाहें हम देने को तैयार हैं।

Shri Hem Barua: May I know if it is a fact that a liaison with Pakistan for advance information of the winged menace is maintained; if so, whether Pakistan gave any information about this particular invasion?

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: We are always keeping liaison with Pakistan. A meeting was scheduled to be held with Pakistan, Iran and Afghanistan early this year, but Iran and Afghanistan did not send their representatives. So, that meeting was held only with Pakistan. Again, a meeting was held with Pakistan representatives a month or two back, and we are going to meet again in the third week of August to review the entire situation. When locust swarms try to come towards India, they do occasionally intimate us, but, as you know, it is not possible for anybody to always send correct information.

श्री बागड़ी : क्या मंत्री महोदय यह बताने की कृपा करेंगे कि टिड्डी दल के इस खतरे को मिटाने के लिए प्रान्तीय सरकारों के साथ मंत्रियों के साथ कोई बातचीत की गयी है और कोई प्रोग्राम बनाया गया है, और यदि बनाया गया है तो क्या ?

श्री० राम सुभग सिंह : असल में प्रचनकर्ता महोदय के कृपि मंत्री, सामुदायिक मंत्री तथा और भी मंत्री और अफसरों से मैं ने हाल में बातें कीं और उनके प्रदेश का व्यापक भ्रमण भी किया और उन के प्रदेश पत्राच में तीन हवाई जहाज हम लोगों ने भेज दिये हैं। एक हवाई जहाज जालन्धर के नजदीक बादामपुर

ग्रह से जालन्धर, गुरुदासपुर, लुधियाना, अमृतसर और भाँटडा वगैरह स्थानों में दवा गिरायेगा। दूसरा यहाँ अम्बाला से अम्बाला के समीप जिलों में खास कर करनाल वगैरह और तीसरा यहाँ पालम से उत्तर प्रदेश के कुछ पश्चिमी जिलों में और पंजाब के इस हिस्से के जिलों में गुड़गांव वगैरह में जो भो दवा आदि की जरूरत होगी वह वहाँ पहुँचायेगा।

Shri Inder J. Malhotra: May I know whether any special financial assistance is being given to the State Governments to build up their equipment and to improve their locust fighting equipment?

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: Yes; we have consulted the State Governments long ago; and, recently, we have sent a circular. We have called a meeting also on the 13th. And, anything that the States require in fighting this locust menace will be made available to them, if they are physically possible to be purchased here.

Shrimati Savitri Nigam: In the reply to one of the earlier supplementaries the hon. Minister stated that the success of the control of these insects depends on the cooperation and active interest of the farmers. I would like to know if the farmers are being given any training in this operation.

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: Actually, I would like to be pardoned if I say that the farmers do not want to be trained. They can train others. If the hon. Member goes into the fields she will be happy to notice children of even 5 years beating the drums etc. And, they do that work more efficiently than any aged person.

Dr. M. S. Aney: I have read in the papers that in some parts of Punjab these locusts have settled down for a day or two. I want to know whether the Government of India have information of these particular places and what is the extent of the damage done where they have settled?

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: That is a fact. I have seen some of these areas. The locusts have settled down in some parts of Ludhiana, Jullundur and Gurdaspur and, maybe, in Kaithal areas of Karnal district. As I said before, we have deputed our officers and sent as much of insecticides as are needed by the State Government. And, if any further demand is made by the State Government, we will be meeting that.

श्री राधेलाल व्यास : मैं यह जानना चाहता हूँ कि जो विदेश से टिड्डी दल आये हैं वह भारत की भूमि में कितनी एंटी लोकस्टपोस्ट्स पर सैटिल हुए हैं और कितनी पोस्ट्स पर ऐग लेयिंग हुई है अर्थात् अंडे दिये हैं और कितनी पोस्ट्स से स्वार्म्स डेवलप होकर देश के दूसरे भागों में आये ?

अध्यक्ष महोदय : इतने लम्बे सवाल का इतना लम्बा जवाब देने की जरूरत नहीं है।

डा० राम सुभग सिंह : जवाब तो मैं छोटे में दे दूंगा। अब तक केवल ७८ टिड्डी दल यहाँ पर आये हैं और खेती वाले क्षेत्र में जितनी दूरी में उन्होंने अंडे दिये हैं उस का क्षेत्रफल १६४६ गांवों का है और दूसरी जगहों में जो होपर्स हुए हैं उस का क्षेत्रफल १६३ गांवों का है। इन सारी जगहों में दवा छिड़क रहे हैं।

श्री राधेलाल व्यास : मैं ने पूछा था कि हमारे देश के जिन मुकामों पर टिड्डियों ने अंडे दिये हैं वहाँ से कितने स्वार्म्स देश के दूसरे हिस्सों में गये ?

डा० राम सुभग सिंह : थोड़े जाते हैं।

Mr. Speaker: Order, order; the question that I have not allowed need not be answered.

डा० गोविन्द दास : अमी मंत्री जी ने यह कहा कि किसान लोग स्वयं अपने यहाँ पर इस बात का प्रयत्न कर रहे हैं कि टिड्डी दल से उन को नुकसान न पहुँचे तो क्या उन को कोई वैज्ञानिक ढंग से यह बात समझाई जा रही है कि उन को क्या करना चाहिए और क्या

उन्होंने अभी तक सरकारों से कोई मदद मांगी है और क्या वह मदद उन को दी गई है ?

डा० राम सुभग सिंह : असल में कोई भी बात वैज्ञानिक ढंग की शिक्षा देने की अगर टिड्डियों के आक्रमण से पहले प्रबन्धकर्ता महोदय पूछे होते तब तो जरूर हम लोग इंतजाम कर दिये होते लेकिन आज जब खेतों पर टिड्डियों का आक्रमण हो गया और तब वैज्ञानिक शिक्षा की बात आती है तो पता नहीं कि जब तक वैज्ञानिक शिक्षा दी जाय उस वक्त तक उसका सारा खेत खराब हो जाय। इसलिए अभी तो किसान खेतों में रहेगा और जो चीज वह मंगायेगा दवा वगैरह उन सारी दवाओं का यहाँ खाद्य और कृषि मंत्रालय की ओर से प्रबन्ध किया जायगा।

अध्यक्ष महोदय : इस पर बहुत कुछ पूछा जा चुका है। मेरा खयाल है कि अब तो यह चली जायेगी।

Call-Queueing Equipment for Trunk Booking

*51. Shri P. R. Chakraverti: Will the Minister of Transport and Communications be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government propose to install Call-queueing Equipment for trunk booking;

(b) if so, when and where the initial process will start; and

(c) whether the introduction of this system will save the callers from the 'Engaged' signal?

The Deputy Minister of Transport and Communications (Shri Bhagavati)
(a) Yes.

(b) The Call-queueing Equipment for Trunk booking is proposed to be initially installed at the four Trunk Exchanges at Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi and Madras.

(c) The purpose served by the Call-queueing Equipment is not the prevention of 'Engaged' signals. This equipment ensures that all signals received by operators are answered in the order in which the calls are originated by the subscribers.

Shri P. R. Chakraverti: What arrangements have been made by the Government for making available adequate supplies of improved machinery for such installations?

Shri Bhagavati: Government have already installed one such machinery at Madras in January 1962 and the other stations will also be equipped with this equipment in the coming few months.

Shri P. R. Chakraverti: Will the Government examine the possibility of introducing our own machines for this purpose and if so, what are the costs involved?

Shri Bhagavati: Yes. The costs involved for these four installations will be Rs. 81,000 and no foreign exchange is involved.

Shri A. P. Jain: Is there a programme for the manufacture of this equipment at Bangalore?

Shri Bhagavati: Yes.

Shri Heda: What safeguards are there in this equipment for the particular-person calls?

Shri Bhagavati: That depends upon the number of lines. When all the lines are used by the subscribers then it is bound to be that engaged signals are shown. So, instructions have been issued to provide adequate lines and I think that they will give proper quality of service.

Will the Minister of Food and Agriculture be pleased to state:

(a) whether crop insurance has been introduced in any part of the country even on an experimental basis;

(b) if so, the main features of the scheme; and

(c) whether any State Government is participating in the scheme?

The Minister of State in the Ministry of Food and Agriculture (Dr. Ram Subhag Singh): (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) The Punjab Government intend to implement a pilot scheme for crop insurance in that State. Details of the scheme are being worked out by them.

Shri B. K. Das: In view of the fact that insurance is a Central subject may I know whether any legislation is under consideration by the Central Government so that the Punjab Government may be able to implement the scheme?

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: This is a question which has been in the minds of the Government for a long time and it has been found workable and useful also, but due to financial stringency experienced by the Central and State Governments, it has not yet been adopted even as a pilot scheme. If the hon. Members desire, the Food and Agriculture Ministry will request the Planning Commission to find out funds for it.

Shri B. K. Das: May I know whether the Punjab Government will be given financial help by the Central Government and if so to what extent?

Dr. Ram Subhag Singh: As I said in the original reply, this matter is being examined by the Punjab Government. They are examining it from all points of view and if need be the Central Government will also discuss the matter with them.

श्री स० ला० द्विवेदी : प्रश्नी मन्त्री महोदय ने कहा है कि प्राथिक कठिनाइयों के कारण यह योजना चालू नहीं की जा सकी। मैं यह

जानना चाहता हूँ कि क्या सरकार ने यह भी प्रयत्न किया है कि किन्हीं प्राइवेट कम्पनियों के द्वारा इन्डोरेंस कम्पनियाँ चलाई जायें, जो कि फ़सलों का बीमा कर सकें और अगर इस दिशा में कोई प्रयत्न किया जा रहा है, तो वह क्या है।

डा० राम सुभग सिंह : इन्डोरेंस के मानी ये हैं कि प्राकृतिक प्रकोपों के कारण किसानों को फ़सल की जो क्षति हो सकती है, उससे उनकी रक्षा की जाये। इस वक़्त सरकार का उद्देश्य है समाश्रवादी ढंग के समाज की स्थापना उसमें प्राइवेट कम्पनियों का सवाल कम आता है। इन्डोरेंस (बीमे) के क्षेत्र में जो प्राइवेट कम्पनियाँ थीं, उनको भी ख़त्म करके एक सरकारी बीमा कम्पनी बनाई गई। सरकार सोचेगी कि किस तरह से वाजिब ढंग से किसानों की सहायता की जा सकती है, बजाये इसके कि यह काम निजी कम्पनियों को सौंप दिया जाये।

Shrimati Yashoda Reddy: May I know from the hon. Minister whether the Government of Andhra Pradesh has sent any schemes for this crop insurance and also what is preventing the Central Government from introducing pilot schemes at least in places where there is regular famine?

The Minister of Food and Agriculture (Shri S. K. Patil): This question of crop insurance is not a very light matter, because, in the first place, apart from the money that has to be made available, regular statistics have to be submitted. Statistics is the very breath of insurance. We have not got any statistics worthwhile in this country to know the consequences. That is why we are trying to make a beginning. Punjab has started it, and it is a subject in which the Government of India is very vitally interested because in all the developmental schemes that we have got in respect of agriculture, a farmer can never be induced to put more money until he knows that his crop is safe. Not that we are not interested in this subject, but, as I said, we are attempting in this direction and a beginning will be made in Punjab.

Shri Yallamanda Reddy: May I know whether the Government has made any assessment of the financial commitment in this regard and, if so, what is the amount?

Shri S. K. Patil: So far as this question is concerned, it is only to be started in Punjab. Half the administrative expenses will be shared by us. Actually, the insurance money is a matter which is a very difficult thing and no blind commitment could be accepted.

Shri Inder J. Malhotra: May I know what steps the Central Government have taken to collect the necessary statistics required for implementation of this scheme?

Shri S. K. Patil: Those statistics are being collected wherever the scheme is in progress. For instance, we have been asking Japan to send some experts to come here and help us in order to do that. There is a greater necessity for this in this country, in India, because, as I said, in any developmental scheme of agriculture, without crop insurance we cannot make much progress.

Some Hon. Members rose—

Mr. Speaker: I find several eminent persons standing up and trying to ask supplementaries. Nearly in every question, we find the names of eight, 15 or even 20 hon. Members who have tabled the question. So, it becomes difficult for me to go outside it. Though I would try to call every Member who has tabled the question, to put a supplementary,—it is open to the whole House to know the answers—if it is not possible for me to call all those that have given notice of the question, they will excuse me if I am not calling all of them.

Shri Tyagi: In cases where the number of Members is too large, the other Members cannot get the benefit of any supplementaries.

Mr. Speaker: I have not ruled that out, that I would not allow the opportunity to other Members. I would like to say that in England at least it is not considered good form to take out the questions of others and try to put supplementaries. We have not followed that practice. We make it open to all here, but a decision was taken earlier that we should try to cover more question. Here, every question is jointly tabled by ten or more Members sometimes.

Shri Bhagwat Jha Azad: It is in your discretion. You have been allowing supplementary questions on only two questions for fifteen minutes. It is our privilege to stand for chance and it is for you to disallow. That is all we want.

Shri D. C. Sharma: You can please tell us what good form is, here!

Mr. Speaker: There were so many locusts and therefore I had allowed several supplementaries! Next question.

Will the Minister of Food and Agriculture be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that there is much difference in the wholesale prices and retail prices of foodgrains in the country;

(b) if so, the steps taken by Government to check any unjustifiable increase in the retail prices; and

(c) in particular the steps taken to arrest the rise in prices of foodgrains in U.P. and of rice in West Bengal and Orissa?

The Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Food and Agriculture

(Shri Shinde): (a) The difference between the wholesale and retail prices of foodgrains constitutes the cost of handling and transport of foodgrains from the wholesale centres to the retail distribution centres and also the margin of profit of the retailer. If these factors are taken into account, the difference in the wholesale and retail prices of foodgrains at present does not on the whole appear to be excessive.

(b) and (c). It is through judicious distribution of foodgrains from Government stocks at the prescribed retail prices that the Government try to influence the open market retail prices and prevent them from rising unduly high in various States including U.P., West Bengal and Orissa.

Shri S. M. Banerjee: The hon. Parliamentary Secretary stated that the difference is not excessive. I want to know what is the actual difference between the wholesale price and the retail price in the case of wheat and rice in U.P., West Bengal and Orissa?

Shri Shinde: There is not any material difference between the prices which were prevailing last year and those prevailing this year. There is a slight variation in the prices which prevail in West Bengal and Orissa in respect of rice. But in respect of other grains, the prices are practically the same as those which prevailed last year.

Shri S. M. Banerjee: At least I expected that there will be a statement. The Minister does not say what is the difference.

Mr. Speaker: He said it is almost the same.

Shri S. M. Banerjee: It is not quite correct. In that case, he should have provided statistics. I want to know what is the actual difference in the wholesale and retail prices of wheat in U.P.

The Deputy Minister in the Ministry of Food and Agriculture (Shri

A. M. Thomas): I shall give certain figures regarding U.P. in which my friend is very much interested. In regard to farm average quality wheat in Lucknow, in June, the wholesale price was Rs. 14.39 and the retail price was Rs. 16. The difference was Rs. 1.61. In the previous month, the difference was Rs. 1.45. With regard to rice also, the difference comes to Rs. 1.50 to Rs. 2.

Shri Subodh Hansda: May I know whether Government have any machinery to check the rise in prices and if so, whether Government is aware that in West Bengal in the last three months, the price of rice has gone up very appreciably from Rs. 6 to Rs. 8 per maund?

Shri A. M. Thomas: The only way by which we can now control prices is by distribution of larger quantities through fair price shops. There are a large number of fair price shops in West Bengal and the overage off-take that was estimated in July was 12,000 tons. We have made available a quantity of 15,000 tons.

Shri Surendranath Dwivedi: The rise in price may not materially affect the Government, but it does affect the people. There is a rise in price of rice in Orissa in the last few months. I want to know what steps have actually been taken to curb this rise in the price of rice.

Shri A. M. Thomas: With regard to Orissa, the State Government have got stocks which they have locally procured. We are also supplying from central stocks. Recently we have made available 3,000 tons to the Orissa Government to be moved on high priority basis from Calcutta, so that it will relieve the difficulties of Orissa to some extent.

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: May I know whether Government has a regular method of checking on the retail prices in the villages in various seasons and find out what is the actual difference between the retail prices prevailing in the villages and in big cities at the time of harvest and at later dates? Is there any regular machinery by which Government finds this out?

Shri A. M. Thomas: Yes. With regard to the prevailing wholesale prices, we get daily reports from the various State Governments. Besides, the Economic and Statistical Directorate has got in its possession various reports regarding retail price. It was from these reports that I mentioned the figures and the difference.

Shri Tyagi: Do Government propose taking any effective steps to guarantee that the prices of foodgrains in U.P. do not rise further on account of the proposal of the U.P. Government to raise the land revenue by at least 50 per cent or so? Will that element be allowed to go into the price of foodgrains or would Government think of some plan to check that?

Shri A. M. Thomas: Whether the increase in land revenue would have any perceptible impact on the price level is a larger question. But, as far as the present state of affairs is concerned, with regard to Uttar Pradesh, I may submit, the prices are prevailing at a reasonable level and there is no room for any anxiety on that account.

Shri A. M. Thomas: My information is that as far as . . .

Shri M. L. Dwivedi: I am giving you the correct information.

Shri A. M. Thomas: As far as the price of wheat is concerned, it is prevailing at a very reasonable level in all the centres in India.

The Minister of Food and Agriculture (Shri S. K. Patil): This House knows that the minimum price of wheat guaranteed by the Government of India is Rs. 13. If anybody is selling for Rs. 12, he has to thank himself.

Shri Priya Gupta: If somebody is selling above that price?

Mr. Speaker: Order, order. Without being identified hon. Members should not begin to put questions.

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: May I know what the Government of India has done regarding the recommendations of the Asoka Mehta Committee about the stabilisation of prices of foodgrains? May I know whether the Government of India have considered that report and whether they are prepared to lay on the Table of the House a statement showing what recommendations they have accepted and those that they have not accepted?

Shri S. K. Patil: The most practical thing, Sir, is to have more food. We have food just now. Therefore, we need not go about with stabilisation of prices. We release more. We have got abundant stocks with us. There is no difficulty except perhaps sometimes, owing to the bottle-necks in railways and other things, a little time-lag is there. That is a different matter. Therefore, there is no need now.

(c) if so, whether the matter has been enquired into?

The Deputy Minister of Civil Aviation (Shri Mohiuddin): (a) There was a great rush in the booking of air passages for going to U.K., throughout the month of June, 1962.

(b) and (c). Reports had appeared in the press of alleged black-market in the air tickets to U.K. No enquiries were made as all such enquiries are fruitless due to even the aggrieved party not coming forward with a complaint.

Shri P. K. Deo: May I know if it has been brought to the notice of the Government that Air India was a party to this racket?

Shri Mohiuddin: It is absolutely wrong.

Shri Indrajit Gupta: May I know whether Government's attention has been drawn to a statement issued by the Air Travel Agents' Association saying that they had represented to Government that the Reserve Bank should be asked not to give sanction in the case of passages which are booked through air lines not recognised by the IATA? The allegation made is that the Government is not at all sympathetic to this proposal. May I know what is the Government's reaction to this?

Shri Mohiuddin: I am not sure what representation the hon. Member is referring to. I do not remember to have seen any representation on that account.

Mr. Speaker: That is a different question.

Shri P. K. Deo: May I know the reasons why Air India has increased its number of flights from 5 to 7 every week in spite of the sharp decline in the passenger traffic?

Mr. Speaker: That is quite a different question.

Shri Subodh Hansda: May I know whether the World Bank Team which visited India came only to assess the foreign exchange requirements for the development of the port or it came to assess the entire requirements for the development of the Port?

Shri Raj Bahadur: The IDA assistance is limited to the foreign exchange component of the development schemes.

Shri S. C. Samanta: May I know whether the 18 million dollar credit that will be available for this project can be spent for other schemes like the dredging of the harbour channel which have been mentioned in the statement?

Shri D. C. Sharma: May I know how long it will take to complete the modernisation of the plan?

Shri Raj Bahadur: This will have to be completed before the end of the Third Plan. As a matter of fact, the closing date itself of the loan is 31st December 1967. So, we have to finish it before that.

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: It is stated in the memorandum that Rs. 8.57 crores have been granted to the Government of India for the dock development schemes and only one port project, namely, the Bombay Port Project has been discussed. Are we to take it that this amount of money will be used for the modernisation of other ports in India also?

Shri Raj Bahadur: No. This particular loan has been for the Bombay port. For the ports of Calcutta and Madras similar arrangements have been made with the World Bank, not with the IDA.

Shri Hem Barua: We are told that the International Development Association is offering some financial assistance. What are the renovations that the Government propose to effect, so far as the Bombay port is concerned, from this particular assistance?

Shri Raj Bahadur: I could not follow what he meant by 'reservation'.

Shri Hem Barua: I said "renovation".

Shri Raj Bahadur: If the hon. Member wants to know the details of some of the schemes, the eastern side of the Alexandra dock will be extended by another 1.180 feet to provide for additional berths; then, a new ferry wharf will be completed to release space for a cargo ship; we shall also deepen the sea. Will the Minister of Health be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that the problem of water shortage in Delhi was discussed with the Punjab Irrigation Minister;

(b) if so, what results have come out of the discussions;

(c) whether it is also a fact that the Punjab Minister has suggested that the shortage could be solved by constructing the proposed 760 feet high Dam on the Tons river;

(d) if so, when the proposed dam is likely to be constructed; and

(e) what are the other measures Government are taking to overcome the difficulties of water shortage to the Capital?

The Minister of Health (Dr. Sushila Nayar): (a) Yes, Sir.

(b) and (c). It was pointed out in the meeting that there was some doubt on the engineering side whether the river linking scheme could be successfully executed. But if that scheme was not feasible, a dam across the Yamuna or the Tons might have to be constructed which might involve an expenditure of over Rs. 10 crores according to the suggestion of the Punjab Government.

(d) This proposal requires detailed consideration.

(e) The Punjab Government have agreed to release 325 cusecs of water from the Western Yamuna Canal Feeder Project by the summer of 1964 if their original plans are not changed. The Uttar Pradesh Government have also been approached to give 200 cusecs of water from the Ram Ganga Scheme.

एक माननीय सदस्य : रात को भी बन्द कर दिया जाता है ।

Shri Rameshwar Tantia: Considering the fact that Delhi is the capital city, and many outsiders come here, may I know why Government made such inadequate arrangements for the water supply? May I also know by what time the supply will be all right?

Dr. Sushila Nayar: If I May say so, the water that is being filtered has been increased to 96 million gallons per day from Wazirabad, which is a considerable increase on the original supply. However, this supplies only 37 gallons per head to the population of Delhi, and we want to supply 50 gallons per person. To supply 50 gallons, we need 130 million gallons, and for that, we are negotiating with Punjab and U.P. to have more water released from the Yamuna.

Shri Bhagwat Jha Azad: May I know whether the Punjab Government, while putting forward the proposal for such dams, also assured that they would be able to bear a certain percentage of the cost of construction of such dams on the Tons and other rivers?

Dr. Sushila Nayar: I have stated already that the suggestion about the dam on Tons etc. is a new suggestion, which has not been examined in detail in our irrigation Ministry. In fact, the Punjab authorities have not even sent up the detailed scheme as yet, which they are supposed to do. However, I might mention to the House that when the waters of the Indus basin and the Yamuna river were being distributed, somehow or the other, Delhi was forgotten, and all the water was allocated to Punjab, Kashmir, Rajasthan and U.P. Therefore, to get water supply for Delhi, we have now to go to one or the other of these Governments. However, there is a proposal for utilising the waters of the Ghaggar river and some of its tributaries waters which are still unallocated, and we are exploring the possibilities of utilising those waters for the Delhi water supply.

डा० मुशीला नायर: जी हां, पूरा हिसाब लगाया गया है और उससे ऐसा मालूम पड़ता है कि अभी ५० गैलन प्रति व्यक्ति देने के लिये हमें १३० मिलियन गैलन की अभी जरूरत है, और आगे चल कर जैसे जैसे पापुलेशन बढ़ती जायेगी उस हिसाब से सन् १९७१ में १६० मिलियन गैलन और सन् १९८१ में २७५ मिलियन गैलन की हर रोज जरूरत होगी। इसके मुताबिक ही पानी के क्यूसेक्स भी बढ़ाने पड़ेंगे। सन् १९८१ में ५२५ क्यूसेक्स की जरूरत पड़ेगी।

Shri Tyagi: Why not try tube-wells?

अध्यक्ष महोदय : उनका सवाल यह था कि आप कब तक पूरा पानी दिल्ली वालों को दे सकेंगे।

डा० मुशीला नायर : मैंने प्रश्न किया है है कि अगर कोई प्लान बदलेगी नहीं तो सन् १९६४ की गर्मी में पंजाब ने ३२५ क्यूसेक्स देने का वादा किया है। वह अभी के लिये पूरा होगा।

Shri P. C. Borooah: May I know whether it is a fact that decision for the construction of a dam on the Tons has been finally taken and for that, outside assistance is also coming in?

Dr. Sushila Nayar: My hon. friend who belongs to that Ministry tells me that it has not only not been finalised, but even the detailed project has not been received by him.

Shri Tyagi: Has the possibility of getting water through a chain of tube-wells in Delhi been tried or examined?

Dr. Sushila Nayar: There was a proposal that a number of tube wells should be sunk in the Loni Block area and water brought to Delhi by an open channel. That was considered to be undesirable by experts from the economic as well as the hygienic points of view and that scheme was abandoned.

श्री रा० शि० पाण्डेय : माननीय मिनिस्टर साहबा ने बतलाया कि रिजर्वायर में पानी तो है लेकिन सकारी पाइप लाइन होने की वजह से वेलासिटी आफ वाटर उतनी नहीं है कि पूरी सप्लाई हो सके। मैं जानना चाहता हूँ कि आखिर कितना वक्त लगेगा और वह नई पाइप लाइन कब तक डाली जायेगी जिससे वेलासिटी भी बढ़े और सप्लाई भी बढ़े।

डा० मुशीला नायर : सारे के सारे पाइप्स वगैरह के डालने की कोशिश तो हो रही है लेकिन मुझे यह स्वीकार करना होगा कि जी० आई० पाइप्स की डिलीवरी की परिस्थिति कुछ सन्तोषजनक नहीं है। दो या

Accidental	7

(c) A detailed statement regarding accidents involving casualties is laid on the Table. [See Appendix I, annexure No. 14].

I might add that this figure of 181 includes all types of accidents even minor derailments in loco yards and sheds, trains running over cattle and all that.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: In those cases where investigation has been completed and a report has been submitted to the Government, what action has been taken by the Government in each case against those responsible for the accident?

Shri Shahnawaz Khan: Action is taken to find out the causes of each accident and if it is due to the mistake or fault of any Railway employee, stringent action is taken against him.

Mr. Speaker: The information wanted is whether in cases in which the inquiry has been completed and the conclusions have been arrived at there is any case where action has been taken against the delinquent officer.

Shri Shahnawaz Khan: There is a large number of cases. Action is taken invariably on every accident.

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: What will be the actual number of those cases in which action has been taken?

Mr. Speaker: Would it be possible for the hon. Minister to lay a statement afterwards on that particular question?

The Minister of Railways (Shri Swaran Singh): I will lay a statement in two days' time. I might add that this question relates to a recent period, that is, the period after the 23rd June and it takes some time before the inquiry is completed. In many of these cases which are listed in the statement even the inquiry has not been completed. But I am collecting that information and I will be able to lay a statement on the Table of the House in about two days' time.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: On a point of order, Sir. There is an apparent contradiction in the statement made by the hon. Deputy Minister and the statement made now by the hon. Minister himself. The hon. Deputy Minister, if I heard him aright, said that there are some cases in which it has been completed and the hon. Minister says that the inquiry has not been concluded. I do not understand this.

Mr. Speaker: There is no contradiction. He has said that in 98 cases the investigation is still pending. In others it must have been completed. But they might be only minor cases where derailment has taken place in the yard etc.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Who is responsible? Nobody?

Mr. Speaker: I do not say that. About that he has said that he will lay a statement in two days' time.

Shri Bhagwat Jha Azad: In such cases where it has been proved beyond doubt that such accidents were due to wilful negligence and gross inefficiency of the staff, what action has been taken by the Government by now?

Mr. Speaker: That has still not been found and a statement will be laid later on.

Shri Namblar: From the statement placed on the Table we find that several accidents of the same type of collision, that is, one set of rolling stock waiting on one line and engines dashing against the stationary wagons on the same line, have taken place. Have Government taken steps to see that interlocking and signalling arrangements are properly improved to avoid such collisions?

Shri Shahnawaz Khan: The improvement of the signalling standards is a continuing process and is being done on a programmed basis.

श्री भक्त दर्शन : श्रीमान्, पिछले तीन महीनों के अन्दर इस देश में जो रेल दुर्घटनायें हुई हैं उनके कारण आम जनता में बड़ा आतंक और आशंका फैल गयी है। मैं जानना चाहता हूँ कि क्या रेलवे मंत्रालय ने उन विशेष कारणों का पता लगाने का प्रयत्न किया है जिनकी वजह से पहले के बनिस्बत ज्यादा दुर्घटनायें हो रही हैं ?

श्री शाहनवाज खाँ : जैसा मैंने पहले अर्ज किया है, हर एक एक्सीडेंट के बाद एक बाकायदा इन्क्वारी होती है जो जो सिफारिशें उस एनक्वारी रिपोर्ट में की जाती हैं उनको पूरा किया जाता है। अगर किसी रेलवे कर्मचारी की गफजत से ये एक्सीडेंट होते हैं तो उसके खिलाफ कड़ी कार्यवाई होती है।

Shrimati Renu Chakravarty: May I know if this statement which the hon. Minister is going to lay on the Table in two days' time will also include information as to how many are workers and how many are officers and whether the entire question of responsibility of that particular department is taken up even up to the officers level?

Shri Swaran Singh: I will try to collect that information and will place on the Table whatever information is available. I will indicate the types of officials against whom action has been taken. From that hon. Members can judge whether we have taken action only against what the hon. lady Member is suggesting, namely, the lower rungs of the staff or against the higher ones also.

श्री रामसेवक यादव : मैं माननीय मंत्री महोदय से जानना चाहूंगा कि अब तक की जो नववारी हुई हैं इन दुर्घटनाओं के सम्बन्ध में, उनमें कुछ बड़े अधिकारियों

को भी जिम्मेदार पाया गया है और क्या उनके खिलाफ भी कार्रवाई हो रही है ?

श्री स्वर्ण सिंह : यह बड़ा जनरल सवाल है। मैं बाकयात हासिल किये वगैर इस बारे में कुछ नहीं कह सकता।

श्री प्रकाशबीर शास्त्री : कल डिप्टी मिनिस्टर साहब ने राज्य सभा में इसी प्रकार का एक वक्तव्य दिया था। उसमें बताया था कि पहले छः महीनों में जो ट्रेन्स की दुर्घटनायें हुईं और जी अब बाद के ६ महीनों में हुईं हैं, उनमें कुछ कमी हुई है। मैं जानना चाहता हूँ कि पिछले ६ महीनों में जो एक्सीडेंट हुये उनमें मेजर एक्सीडेंट कितने थे और बाद के ६ महीनों में जो एक्सीडेंट हुये उनमें मेजर एक्सीडेंट कितने थे ?

श्री शाहनवाज खाँ : यह सवाल राज्य सभा में किया गया था।

श्री शाहनवाज खाँ : एग्जैक्ट फिगर तो मुझे इस वक्त याद नहीं है, लेकिन जहां तक मुझे याद है सन् १९६१ के आखिरी ६ महीनों में जो एक्सीडेंट हुये, उनके बनिस्बत इस साल के ६ महीनों में एक्सीडेंट कुछ कम हुये हैं -

Shri Sivamurthi Swamy: May I know whether the inquiry into the recent Hubli accident has been completed? If so, what are the findings?

Shri Shahnawaz Khan: The inquiry has been completed. The finding of the Assistant Commissioner of Railways (Safety) is that it was due to sabotage.

श्री रघुनाथ सिंह : आपने कहा है कि इस साल के ६ महीनों में इससे पहले के ६ महीनों से एक्सीडेंट कम हुये हैं। मैं जानना

चाहता हूँ कि हाताहतों की तादाद इस साल के ६ महीनों के एक्सीडेंट्स में ज्यादा थी या इससे पहले के ६ महीनों के एक्सीडेंटों में ।

श्री शाहनवाज खाँ : इस साल के ६ महीनों में जो एक्सीडेंट हुए हैं उनमें सन् १९६१ के आखिरी ६ महीनों के एक्सीडेंट के मुकाबिले में ज्यादा मौतें हुई हैं ।

श्री त्यागी : मैं यह दरयाफ्त करना चाहता था कि इन एक्सीडेंट्स के बाद गवर्नमेंट ने या रेलवे मिनिस्ट्री ने अपनी कोई खास पालिसी बनायी है जिससे आइन्दा इनको रोकने का इन्तजाम किया जा सके, और अगर बनायी है तो क्या क्या प्रकाशनरी स्टेप लिये गये हैं ?

श्री शाहनवाज खाँ : जैसा मैंने पहले कहा जो एक्सीडेंट होता है उसके बाद एन-क्वयरी की जाती है कि किन कारणों से वह एक्सीडेंट हुआ और जो उसकी यजुहात होती है उनको दूर करने की कोशिश की जाती है । जितने रेलवे के एक्सीडेंट हुए हैं उनमें से ६५ फीसदी फेल्योर आफ एलीमेंट या फेल्योर आफ इक्विपमेंट की वजह से हुए हैं जहाँ रेलवे कर्मचारियों की गफलत से एक्सीडेंट होते हैं वहाँ हम यह देखने की कोशिश करते हैं कि उनकी ट्रेनिंग में तो कोई कमी नहीं है । और एक रेलवे सेपटी आरगनाइजेशन है जो हर स्टेशन पर जा कर देखता है कि स्टेशन रूल्स ठीक हैं और इक्विपमेंट के बारे में फैक्टरियों में जहाँ वह बनता है जाकर देखता है कि ठीक मीटीरियल इस्तेमाल होता है या नहीं । जो भी मुमकिन कोशिश है वह की जा रही है ।

श्री त्यागी : यह तो पहले से ही हो रहा है ।

श्री शाहनवाज खाँ : और जैसा कि शाउंस को पता है, श्री हृदय नाथ कुंजरू की अध्यक्षता में एक कमटी कायम की गयी

1339 (A) LSD.—2

है । वह जो सिफारिशें करेंगे उनको भी माना जायगा ।

Shri P. K. Deo : From the statement, we find that most of these major accidents are taking place in the eastern part of the country, either on the Eastern Railway or North-Eastern Railway or the South-Eastern Railway. May I know if any steps are being taken by Government to ensure that travelling in that part of the country becomes safer?

Mr. Speaker : And it will become worse in the other parts? Wherever accidents take place, precautions have to be taken, whether it is in the east, west, north or south.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath : Or centre.

Dr. L. M. Singhvi : What are the nature and details of the sabotage which caused the accident at Dumraon?

Some Hon. Members : Hubli.

Dr. L. C. Singhvi : Yes, Hubli.

Mr. Speaker : It is under investigation. Shri S. M. Banerjee.

An Hon. Member : No, Sir, it is completed.

Shri S. M. Banerjee : May I know whether apart from the railway authorities, some other expert opinion is being sought for ascertaining the reasons leading to these serious accidents?

Shri Swaran Singh : I do not know what other expert opinion would be there. Expert opinion must be of people who are concerned with the running of the railways, who know something of the railways. I do not think non-railway people can give expert opinion on a highly technical and complicated matter like this, where apart from theoretical considerations actual and living problems of transportation at a very high pitch are involved.

Shri Priya Gupta: On a point of order, Sir. If what the hon. Minister has said is right, how can the Railway Minister and the Deputy Minister come from non-technical people and not from railwaymen themselves?

Maharajkumar Vijaya Ananda: Will the Government consider sending a pilot before mail trains to avoid accidents or at least minimise them?

Shri Swaran Singh: I do not think it will be necessary to have this duplicate running of some pilot train, and we should concentrate on eliminating the causes by improving our operation and arousing safety-consciousness. It will, I think, be a great wastage if we were to run pilots to ensure safety.

क्या यह बात भी सच नहीं है कि एड-मिनिस्ट्रेटिव आफिसर द्वारा स्टेशन बकिंग क्लस के खिलाफ भी नीचे तबके के एम्प्लॉईज को काम करन के लिय मजबूर करने की वजह से भी एक्सीडेंट्स होते हैं ? माल सप्लाइ न होने की वजह से और अनरिपेयड लोको कोच, पटरी और स्लीपर्स जो कि ड्यू फार रिपेयर्स एंड ओवरहॉलिंग हैं और जिनके स्तमाल करने में एक्सीडेंट्स हो जाने का खतरा रहता है उनको क्यों ऐलाऊ किया जाता है । खुद रेलवे मिनिस्टर साहब ने भी कहा है कि रेलवे के बहुत से स्लीपर्स और पटरियां खराब हैं और उनके कारण एक्सीडेंट्स हो सकते हैं तो मैं जानना चाहता हूँ कि इन लेप्सेज के लिये एडमिनिस्ट्रेटिव अफसरान के ऊपर क्या कार्यवाही की गई है ?

अध्यक्ष महोदय : इसका जवाब देने की जरूरत नहीं है । यह तो लेक्चर है ।

श्री प्रिय गुप्त : अध्यक्ष महोदय जी नहीं
12 hrs.

अध्यक्ष महोदय : ब्रांडर, ब्रांडर ।

		Shri Yashpal Singh:
		Shri P. C. Borooah:

		Shri A. N. Vidyalankar:

Will the Minister of Food and Agriculture be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that a consignment of flour was sent by philanthropic societies in the U.S.A. to their representatives in this country:

(b) if so, the quantities thereof and the names of the societies, which donated the flour;

(c) whether it is a fact the consignment of flour has been contaminated;

(d) whether any inquiry has been initiated to find out the source and place of contamination;

(e) whether it is a fact that over 600 people in two districts in West Bengal and another in Assam were recently struck by paralysis after eating chapatis made from imported flour;

(f) whether it is also a fact that 180 boys of Chotapu Khuri Mission School in Assam, who ate chapatis made in the school kitchen out of a consignment of all purpose flour donated by the people of U.S.A., suffered from partial paralysis of the limb; and

(g) if so, the details thereof and the action taken by the Government pertaining thereto?

The Deputy Minister in the Ministry of Food and Agriculture (Shri A. M. Thomas): Sir, the answer comes to about four typed pages.

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: He may read it. We have got so many questions.

Mr. Speaker: Has the statement been laid on the Table of the House?

Shri A. M. Thomas: With your permission, I can lay it on the Table of the House.

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: Unless he reads it, how can we put questions?

Mr. Speaker: I cannot allow—and the Members would agree with me—the Minister to read a four-page statement. The Members would also like to know what it contains in order to be able to put questions. I would suggest then that the statement of four pages might be laid on the Table of the House, and tomorrow I will give opportunities to Members to put questions.

Shri A. M. Thomas: Sir, I lay the answer on the Table. [See Appendix I, annexure No. 15].

श्री बागड़ी : भ्रान ए प्वाइंट आफ आर्डर सर

अध्यक्ष महोदय : इस वक्त प्वाइंट आफ आर्डर नहीं हो सकता ।

श्री बागड़ी : स्पीकर साहब, मेरी बात मुन लीजिये, मेरी भ्रजं मुन लीजिये । भ्रजं यह है कि मैंने खाद्य पदार्थों की मिलावट के बारे में कालिग एटेंशन नोटिस और शार्ट नोटिस क्वेश्चन दिया था जो कि यह दिल्ली में सोडा वाटर की बोटल में छिपकली और मक्खियां और डबल रोटी में जंग लगी हुई मिलती है उन के सम्बन्ध में था ।

यह इसलिये नामन्जूर कर दिये गये कि आज की लिस्ट आफ क्वेश्चंस में ७४ और ८८ नम्बर के सवाल इसी बारे में थे लेकिन

वह सवाल प्राये नहीं और क्वेश्चन टाइम खत्म हो गया । अब शार्ट नोटिस क्वेश्चन देने का मतलब ही यह होता है कि वह महत्वपूर्ण है और वह अवश्य सदन में प्राये । यह खाद्य पदार्थों में मिलावट का प्रश्न बहुत अहम और महत्वपूर्ण है और इस पर बहस करने के लिये दिन जरूर रख देना चाहिये । चूंकि यह देश की जनता के स्वास्थ्य से सम्बन्ध रखता है और यह बहुत अहम सवाल है इसलिये इसके उपर अलाहदा से दो, घंटे या तीन घंटे का समय बहस करने के वास्ते रक्खा जाये ताकि सभी लोग इस पर अपने विचार प्रकट कर सकें और किसी नतीजे पर पहुंच जा सकें ।

अध्यक्ष महोदय : जो मेम्बर इस पर अलाहदा से बहस चाहते हैं उनको इसके वास्ते नोटिस देने का अधिकार है । जब वह नोटिस देंगे तभी उस पर फैसला होगा । इस तरह महज जबानी कहने से कोई जवकत मुकर्रर नहीं किया जा सकता है और न ही बहस हो सकती है ।

दूसरा सवाल मेरे और माननीय सदस्य के दरमियान यह हमेशा तनाजा रहता है कि प्राया जब मैं उनको इजाजत दूं तब वह बोलें या जब वह खड़े हो जायें तो मैं बैठ जाऊं और मुझे उनको जरूर बोलने की इजाजत देनी चाहिये । इस बात का निर्णय पहले हो जाना चाहिये क्यों कि कोई प्रोसीज्योर तय करके ही काम हो सकता है वैसे हाउस में कोई काम नहीं हो सकता है । मैं तो यह समझता हूं और मेम्बर साहबको भी यह समझ लेने की जरूरत है कि जब स्पीकर साहब बोलने की इजाजत दें तभी वह बोलना शुरू करें और ऐसा न करें कि मैं तो उन्हें बंद करता हूं और वह बोलना शुरू कर देते हैं और मुझे बैठ जाना पड़ता है । मैं यह चीज किननी दफे बर्दाश्त करूँ? मैं माननीय सदस्य से यह विनय करना चाहूंगा कि इस बात के लिये पहले फैसला होना चाहिये कि जिस मेम्बर साहब को स्पीकर इजाजत देंगे वही बोलेंगे

और जब तक उसे बोलने की इजाजत नहीं मिलती है तब तक उसे बोलना नहीं चाहिये। मेरा खयाल है कि आज से आगे ऐसा ही होगा।

श्री रामसेवक यादव : अध्यक्ष महोदय, मेरा इस बारे में निवेदन यह है कि जब माननीय सदस्य ने प्वाइंट आफ आर्डर उठाया और आप बैठ गये तो उन्होंने यही समझा कि आप शायद उनको बोलने की इजाजत दे रहे हैं और उम लिये उन्होंने अपनी बात कही।

अध्यक्ष महोदय : उन्होंने जो समझा वह अपने हिसाब से उन्होंने ठीक ही समझा।

श्री वागड़ी : स्पीकर साहब, चूंकि मेरे से यह बात सम्बन्ध रखती है इस लिये मैं इसे साफ कर दूँ...

अध्यक्ष महोदय : वगैर मेरी इजाजत के आप नहीं कर सकते।

Will the Minister of Irrigation and Power be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that the Damodar Valley Corporation has not yet repaired the canal damaged in 1958-59;

(b) if so, the reasons therefor; and

(c) whether it is also a fact that the non-repairs have left the canal un-navigable and coal supplies to Bengal are held up?

The Minister of State in the Ministry of Irrigation and Power (Shri Alagesan): (a) No; Sir.

(b) and (c). Do not arise.

खाद्या तथा कृषि मंत्रालय में उप मंत्री (श्री श्री ० ० यामस) : (क). १९६१-६२ के सभी खाद्यान्नों के उत्पादन के प्रति अनुमान अभी तक प्राप्त नहीं हुये हैं। खाद्यान्नों की मांग का ठीक ठीक अनुमान लगाना भी कठिन है, क्योंकि यह मांग कई बातों पर निर्भर करती है जिनमें से अधिकांश का ठीक ठीक अनुमान भी नहीं लगाया जा सकता है। अनुमान है कि १९६२ में सरकारी भण्डार में से लगभग ३५ लाख मीट्रिक टन खाद्यान्न का वितरण किया जायेगा। मांग की अपेक्षा उत्पादन में लगभग इतनी ही कमी समझी जा सकती है।

(ख) भविष्य में होने वाले आयात का कार्यक्रम बताना जन हित में नहीं होगा।

(ग) भारत सरकार को संयुक्त राज्य अमेरिका से अपेक्षित गेहूँ की मात्रा प्राप्त हो रही है और इसमें कोई कठिनाई नहीं है।

(घ) संयुक्त राज्य अमेरिका सरकार के साथ जो मई, १९६० का पी०एल० ४८० करार हुआ था उसके अन्तर्गत हो रहे आयात के अलावा भारत सरकार के लिये ४ लाख मीट्रिक टन गेहूँ आयात करना जरूरी है। आस्ट्रेलिया से गेहूँ की यह खरीदारी साधारण बाजारों की आवश्यकता के अनुसार हो रही है।

(ङ) आस्ट्रेलिया और संयुक्त राज्य अमेरिका से जिस भाव पर गेहूँ का आयात किया जा रहा है, उसका बताना जन हित में नहीं होगा। आस्ट्रेलिया का गेहूँ सफेद किस्म का है जो कि न्यूनधिक संयुक्त राज्य अमेरिका के पश्चिमी सफेद गेहूँ से मिलना जुलता है। भारत में आस्ट्रेलिया और अमेरिकी गेहूँ का बिक्री भाव बोरी का मूल्य सहित रु० ३०.५१ प्रति क्विंटल है।

The weir for the new power station, which was about 50 p.c. complete, has also been destroyed together with power channel. The loss is estimated to be about Rs. 2 lakhs.

(b) Estimates for these have not so far been finalised.

(c) Supply of power to Imphal town as well as the neighbouring localities, namely, Mantri Pukri, Ching Moirang had to be suspended for a short period. This has since been restored by pressing the diesel power plant available at Imphal into service, and by diverting some surplus power from the power stations at Thoubal and Moirang.

(d) The Director General Geological Survey of India has been requested by the Central Water and Power Commission to investigate the cause of the damage.

The Deputy Minister in the Ministry of Transport and Communications (Shri Mohiuddin): The facts are that

K. Arora. Commander of the aircraft managed to land the aircraft safely at Lahore. The injured pilot was rushed to Mayo Hospital, but inspite of medical assistance rendered, he succumbed to his injuries.

Increase in Railway Passenger Fares

188. Shri Nambiar: Will the Minister of Railways be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that 2nd and 3rd class passenger fares for short distance travel, particularly between three to ten miles, have been increased by more than 10 per cent contrary to the proposals made in his Budget speech; and

(b) the formula by which these increases are effected?

The Deputy Minister in the Ministry of Railways (Shri S. V. Ramaswamy): (a) and (b). The relevant portion of paragraph 8 (page 4) of the Railway Budget Speech in the Parliament on 19th April, 1962, regarding revision of passenger fares, reads as follows:—

“8. The bases of the proposed fares, class-wise, are shown in the Supplement to the Explanatory Memorandum on the Budget which is being circulated with the Budget papers. The percentage increase proposed in first class fares averages to about 15 per cent, while that for second and third class fares would be a little under 10 per cent.”

The proposals made in the Railway Budget Speech were therefore to be considered in conjunction with what was clearly indicated in the Annexure to the Supplement to the Explanatory Memorandum on the Railway Budget circulated to the Parliament with the Budget papers in April, 1962. In the aforesaid Annexure, the following remarks were given:—

“The overall average increase on existing Second Class fares approximates to 8.65 per cent.”

“The overall average increase on existing Third Class fares approximates to 9.85 per cent.”

It was therefore made quite clear that the fares for second and third classes were to be revised in such a manner that the overall average increase worked out to a little less than 10 per cent. It was not stated that for no distance would the increase exceed 10 per cent. While in some cases, particularly for short distances, the increase is more than 10 per cent, there are also cases where there has been no increase at all or an increase of very much less than 10 per cent.

Irrigation By Tube-Wells

195. Shri Kashi Ram Gupta: Will the Minister of Food and Agriculture be pleased to state:

(a) what per hour minimum water-discharge capacity (in gallons) of a tube-well is regarded as economic for agricultural irrigation purposes;

(b) the average total cost of such a tube-well;

(c) what are the Running Expenses for such a tube-well and the power required for the same both to be based on an average working day of eight hours; and

(d) how much area is irrigated in an eight hours working day by tube-well of the capacity asked for in part (a) above?

The Deputy Minister in the Ministry of Food and Agriculture (Shri A. M. Thomas): (a) The economics of tubewell irrigation is governed not only by its water discharge capacity but also by its depth which influences the cost of construction and running, by the source of power for running it, viz., whether it is hydro-electric power, steam generated electricity, diesel generated electricity or diesel engine, by the cropping pattern in the commanded area and by the irrigation rates which can reasonably be levied from the cultivators. These factors vary considerably from area to area and it is not possible, therefore, to determine the minimum water discharge capacity of an economic tubewell without reference to the area in which the tubewell is to be constructed. However, from the experience of States in which large areas are being irrigated by tubewells, it can be said that the minimum discharge varies between 25,000 gallons per hour in Gujarat and 33,000 gallons per hour in Bihar.

(b) The average cost varies from Rs. 65,000 to Rs. 90,000.

(c) The average running expenses vary from Rs. 12,700 for a diesel engine operated tubewell to Rs. 7,750 for tubewell run by hydro-electric power, for 5,000 hours and 4,000 hours respectively. The power requirement would be 27 H.P. for diesel engine in Gujarat and 15 H.P. for electric motor in Bihar. The tubewell will not be economical if it is worked for only eight hours a day.

(d) The area irrigated varies from 200 acres to 400 acres.

As soon as the bridges and earth work are completed, the railway will lay the siding.

(a) The damage to Railway track (including bridges) so far, during the current rainy season after 1st June 1962) has been assessed roughly at Rs. 11:00 lakhs.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) A Committee was appointed by the Indian Council of Medical Research to evaluate the progress made by the National Filaria Control Programme and to suggest measures for controlling Filaria. A note summarising the findings of the Committee and the recommendations made by them is laid on the Table of the House. [See Appendix I, annexure No. 22].

Copies of the report have been forwarded to the State Governments for implementation.

In so far as the Government of India is concerned, the following decisions have been taken on the relevant recommendations of the Committee:—

- (i) Three additional centres on the lines of the Filariasis Training Centre, Ernakulam (now shifted to Kozhikode) recommended by the Committee will be set up by the Government of India and all expenditure in that connection would be incurred by the Central Government during the Third Five Year Plan period. It is proposed to establish two centres, one each in Uttar Pradesh and Andhra Pradesh during the current financial year and the third centre (location not yet decided) during the next year.

- (iii) The pilot B. malavi project in Kerala State will be implemented and financed entirely by the Central Government.

Flooding of Poona-Bangalore Highway

210. Shri Mohsda: Will the Minister of Transport and Communications be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that river Malaprabha often obstructs the traffic on National Highway (Poona-Bangalore Road) By flooding almost every year near Mugut-Khan Hubli in Belgaum District;

(b) whether Government are aware that public are greatly inconvenienced due to this blockade being repeated quite often in the rainy season; and

(c) if so, whether Government propose to raise the height of the bridge over the said river?

The Minister of Shipping in the Ministry of Transport and Communications (Shri Raj Bahadur): (a) The bridge across the river Malaprabha on the National Highway from Poona to Bangalore is a submersible bridge. In normal years the traffic is interrupted four times a year for about a day each time. However, in years of abnormal floods the maximum interruption to traffic was for about four days.

(b) and (c) In view of the inconvenience caused to the public by the submergence of the bridge during floods a high level bridge in place of the existing submersible one is to be provided but the same has been given low priority as there are a number of other crossings on National Highways where no bridge exists. The present position is that it has not been possible to provide 27 major bridges required on the National Highways during the Third Five-Year Plan due to paucity of funds. Efforts are being made to obtain more funds to provide for these missing bridges. The question of providing a high level bridge across the Malaprabha river will be re-considered in the light of funds available.

(c) whether it is a fact that several cases of food adulteration in Delhi have been reported in the newspapers recently; and

(b) if so, the action taken by Government in the matter?

The Minister of Health (Dr. Sushila Nayar): (a) and (b). The report of the sub-committee has not been considered by the Central Committee for Food Standards. However, the various suggestions for making amendments to the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954 have been considered by an ad-hoc Sub-committee appointed by the Planning Commission. The Sub-committee have recommended inter-alia that the Act be amended to provide for—

- (i) representation on the Central Committee for Food Standards for the Indian Standards Institute, Municipal Corporations etc.;
- (ii) security deposit by the vendor alongwith the licence fee and forfeiture of the same on the infringement of the conditions of licence;
- (iii) more stringent punishment under section 16 of the Act to the offenders.
- (iv) a minimum fine of Rs. 500/- in the case of first offence; and
- (v) administration of the Act by the Central Government.

The recommendations are under consideration.

(c) Reports have appeared in newspapers recently in regard to the presence of a lizard in a bottle of aerated water, a rat in an ice slab, an insect in a bottle of milk and a cricket in a bottle of beer.

(d) The reports have been brought to the notice of the authorities concerned for taking suitable necessary measures for the prevention of recurrence of such incidents.

परिवहन तथा संचार मंत्रालय में नौ-वहन मंत्री (श्री राज बहादुर) : (क) और (ख). जी हां। पुल के लिये जगह चुन ली गयी है। पुल को मिलाने वाली सड़कों के निर्माण के लिये भूमि लेने का काम पहिले ही पूरा हो गया है। प्रस्तावित पुल को मिलाने वाली सड़कें राष्ट्रीय राजमार्ग की बाहरी सड़क का काम भी देंगी। पुल निर्माण कार्य तथा इससे सम्बन्धित प्रारम्भिक सर्वेक्षण और कुछ आंकड़े इकट्ठा करने का काम भी पूरा हो गया है। धन उपलब्ध न होने के कारण यह कार्य तीसरी पंचवर्षीय आयोजना में शामिल नहीं किया जा सका। फिर भी इस परियोजना को चतुर्थ पंचवर्षीय आयोजना काल में शामिल किये जाने की आशा है।

Mr. Speaker: The House will now take up further consideration of the following motion moved by Shri S. K. Day on the 6th August, 1962, namely:—

"That the Bill to provide for the incorporation and regulation of a corporation for the purpose of development of agricultural produce and certain other commodities on cooperative principles and for matters connected therewith, as amended, be passed."

Shri Trivedi.

Shri U. M. Trivedi (Mandsaur): Before I proceed with this, I want to raise a point of order on this question and seek your clarification whether the procedure adopted in allowing clause by clause discussion of this Bill yesterday was in order or not. The point was raised yesterday and the hon. Deputy-Speaker who was in the Chair proceeded with the debate. I refer to rule 75.

Mr. Speaker: If the House has proceeded with it and the Deputy Speaker has allowed it, I am not a court of appeal.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: I am not appealing to you as a court of appeal; I want this clarification because this question will again come up.

Mr. Speaker: When it comes up again whoever is in the Chair will take a decision; I cannot take any abstract interpretation.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: It is patent on the face of it.

Mr. Speaker: The Deputy Speaker was in the Chair; he has allowed the discussion. The House has passed the clauses. There is nothing that can be raised now on this question and we cannot discuss whether that discussion was intra vires or in conformity with the rules or not; that cannot be taken up now.

Shri Tyagi (Dehra Dun): I beg to submit that the question that arises is a question of procedure; whether you or the Deputy Speaker can go against the rules because a wrong ruling given may not go as a precedent for future. It is for that clarification that your ruling is needed. The House has agreed to the ruling because we have passed those clauses and so, as you say, we cannot take any objection to the procedure because it was regularised by the Deputy Speaker. But now the relevant question before the House is: whether you or the Deputy Speaker have the right to over rule the bylaws.

Mr. Speaker: We have no authority to over rule the law or other rules. But the difficulty is, whatever the Chair decides, that is the right interpretation at that moment. Therefore, if the Deputy-Speaker has taken a decision in those particular circumstances, on a particular case, for those circumstances and for that particular case that is the right decision and I cannot sit in judgment over that. If it is an abstract interpretation of any rule, that would be a different thing.

Shri Tyagi: Will you agree that it will not go down as a precedent for the future?

Mr. Speaker: Every case is to be decided on its merits when it comes.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: It is not a question of every case. It is a question of the rule itself. The rule is very clear, and if we want to change the rule we must change it. The application of the rule is such that it is going to occur just now, in one minute or in another half an hour. The point at issue is very simple.

Mr. Speaker: Order, order. I request the hon. Member just to appreciate my difficulty. If it is likely to arise within half an hour, I will be here and he can raise it, and I can give a decision. That would be a different thing altogether but now, without anything being before us, I cannot take an abstract question of a rule or procedure and then give my advice or my judgment on it. Probably I might be called at that moment to give my own ruling. That is a different thing altogether. At this moment, when there is nothing before me, I cannot review or revise or just modify whatever has been done by the Deputy-Speaker. It would be only a fruitless discussion if we enter into it. I would request the hon. Member to proceed with his speech.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the second reading of this Bill was hurriedly gone through. The grouse of the House is that one could not come prepared to argue the whole matter on account of certain peculiarity of the procedure which was adopted in rushing through this Bill. The first and foremost thing in this Bill was that the financial memorandum on which I raised an objection was supplied to me a minute before the third reading started. It was impossible for anyone to go back on what has taken place. Once the rushing has been done and once the various stages had been completed, it was extremely difficult for me to offer a proper criticism on the various provisions of this Bill.

However, my objection to this Bill, as I have said, is this. Even at this stage, I do not think it will be improper for the Government to agree that the nomination of all the members under clause 3 should be reconsidered and reconsidered at the Governmental level. Nominating all the members and then having a close preserve for themselves and providing perhaps a remuneration by way of honoraria or by way of fees, or whatever we may call it, to so many members, will be a sort of appointment to sinecure posts of persons who are favoured by the Government.

With these few words, I would request the Minister of Community Development to look into this matter even today and agree that this nomination must be left to the hands of this House and be made as suggested by me.

Shri Inder J. Malhotra (Jammu and Kashmir): Sir, yesterday also I stressed one point, that this law should be extended to the State of Jammu and Kashmir. I would again request the Minister to take whatever steps are necessary for the extension of this law to Jammu and Kashmir State.

I listened very attentively to the speech of Shri Trivedi yesterday and today also. I do not understand why he has got some apprehension that by passing this law and by the creation of this Corporation, something very undesirable is going to happen to the country. On the contrary, I think that basically it is a very simple change in the law. Previously the Board was taking care of all the things now mentioned as functions of this Corporation. There is a little technical change that instead of the Board, now the Corporation will be functioning. I think by the formation of such a Corporation, the co-operative movement would, in every sphere of its activities, definitely receive better encouragement, and incentive.

Regarding nominations of members, I do not totally agree with what Shri Trivedi has mentioned. But I would certainly say that the nominations of all the members should not be left to the discretion of Government, but some non-official agencies, especially representatives of cooperative societies and organisations, should also be allowed to serve in this Corporation.

Dr. L. M. Singhvi (Jodhpur): Sir, Speaking at the far end of the debate, I have not much to say. But I do want to invite the attention of the Minister very emphatically to the fact that there are certain provisions which ought to be reconsidered even at this late stage, because these clauses are not in consonance with the known principles of law and with the general trends of legislation in this country.

Mr. Speaker: How can the Minister reconsider at this stage when the House has passed all the clauses?

Dr. L. M. Singhvi: These clauses may really make this piece of legislation a very unwholesome one.

Mr. Speaker: He may give his opinion, but how can the Minister reconsider at this stage?

Dr. L. M. Singhvi: Not only the Minister, but the House also, because it so happens that in the parliamentary form of Government, if the Minister so chose, perhaps he would carry the party with him and then, of course, the House would be of that mind. If we look at clause 6, we find that the Central Government may remove from office any member only by giving him a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against the proposed removal. Neither the grounds on which a person may be removed are stated nor is it mentioned that a statement of the grounds would be furnished to him as to the cause of his removal. This is entirely repugnant to the entire scheme of legislation in this country. I think this is a matter which does deserve reconsideration in the hands of this House.

There is another matter to which I invite attention of this House and that is clause 21, which says:

The Central Government, if it is of opinion that the Corporation has failed to carry out its functions under this Act or that for any other reason it is not necessary to continue the Corporation, may, by notification in the Official Gazette, dissolve the Corporation from such date as may be specified in the notification."

This provision also, I think, runs counter to the very principle of the existence of a corporation. The main justification for having a corporation is to provide it, to arm it with a certain measure of autonomy, and if the Central Government can abolish or dissolve this corporation at its sweet will and discretion without any prescribed procedure of law, then it would not be in accordance with the very purpose which has been stated by the Deputy Minister, while he opened the discussion in the House, and the Minister while he was replying to the debate.

The Minister of Community Development, Panchayati Raj and Co-operation (Shri S. K. Dey): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would not like to burden this House with another speech today. Whatever I had to say on the various points raised yesterday on this Bill, I have attempted to cover as comprehensively as I could. A few points have been raised by the hon. Member Shri Trivedi, today, and I would, very briefly, like to answer those points.

He said that the paper which is supposed to be the financial memorandum attached to this Bill was submitted very late. I would only like to mention that actually there is no financial statement called for in this Bill for the simple reason that there is no special amount intended to be given to this Board. As I explained yesterday, every year this House sanctions a certain allotment to the Ministry for co-operative development. A portion of that allotment is routed through the Co-operative Development Board. It is not possible, therefore, for the Ministry to anticipate what allotment this House is going to make from year to year and what portion actually will be spent through the Board. We can only give the past indications in the statement.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: Is it a charitable society?

Shri S. K. Dey: The only other thing on which an estimate perhaps would have been possible was the expenditure on establishment. This I mentioned at the very beginning, even before even the Bill was taken for first consideration, as you will find if you will kindly refer to the proceedings yesterday, and then we circulated a paper elucidating what we had to say to the House within about half-an-hour of the point at which this Bill was taken into consideration.

Shri Trivedi has mentioned that it is the intention of the Government to make this Board a close preserve of either the Government or the ruling party. There is no question of anything being a close preserve. I mentioned yesterday that it is an organisation that is being brought into being for close collaboration between non-official representatives of the co-operative movement and the representatives of the various ministries and agencies of Government which are closely involved in the development of co-operation in this country.

There is no question of any honorarium because no one who is a member in this draws any honorarium from the Board. The only expenditure that is incurred for the members is the expenditure for attending the meetings like travelling expenses, out-of-pocket expenses etc.

So far as nomination is concerned, I had already mentioned yesterday why we could not introduce into the working of this Board a system of election. It would immediately inject group politics, party politics and other things. It is expected to be an agent of the Ministry for routing of certain expenditure and for promotion of the co-operative movement.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: Are you running a charitable society so that people will go and attend its meetings for mere out-of-pocket expenses? Is it a charitable institution?

Shri S. K. Dey: There are still people in this country—we are very happy—who are prepared to champion a worthy cause by taking out-of-pocket expenses.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: Call it a charitable society, and we all will go.

Shri S. K. Dey: All co-operatives are expected to be that. In this country, Sir, all office-bearers in co-operative institutions, even today, at least the bulk of them, work in an honorary capacity.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: And then they will cut each other's throat.

Shri S. K. Dey: Then, we shall examine the point made by Shri Gupta.

Shri Inder J. Malhotra: My name is Malhotra and not Gupta.

Shri S. K. Dey: I am sorry. We shall examine the question with reference to Jammu and Kashmir.

As for the clauses in the Bill being undesirable and unprogressive, as the hon. Member, Dr. Singhvi, mentioned yesterday and repeated today, I believe a lot of the so-called undesirable features of any, can be corrected by the rules of procedure which we shall be very careful in framing. So, I move:

“That the Bill, as amended, be passed”

Mr. Speaker: The question is:

“That the Bill, as amended, be passed”

The motion was adopted.

ASSAM RIFLES (AMENDMENT) BILL

Mr. Speaker: The House will now take up the consideration of the Assam Rifles (Amendment) Bill.

The Prime Minister and Minister of External Affairs and Minister of Atomic Energy (Shri Jawaharlal Nehru): Sir, I beg to move:

“That the Bill further to amend the Assam Rifles Act, 1941, be taken into consideration.”

This is a very simple Bill and I do not think I should take up the time of the House to go into the details. The first object is that the Assam Rifles Bill should apply to a larger area than Assam itself. In fact, even now the Assam Rifles are functioning round about Manipur and other parts which are not in Assam. Therefore, it is only fair that this should apply to that larger area. So, instead of specifying particular places where they should function and this should be applied, we have stated that the Act will apply to the whole of India. Naturally, the Assam Rifles are usually stationed in the north east.

The second amendment deals with certain protection, certain powers and functions in these areas. These are difficult areas. Here I am not referring to Nagaland, because it hardly applies to Nagaland. Because, in Nagaland other measures apply and the army is there. But in other areas which have not been declared for the purpose, the Assam Rifles cannot function adequately without these powers.

I find that there are some amendments to the Bill. I have considered them, but I cannot accept any of them because they take away the protection given to these people, take away their authority to some extent which it is necessary in those places.

As a matter of fact, the rules and procedure that apply are the Criminal Procedure Code. But we cannot rigidly apply the Criminal Procedure Code to those areas, because it will create difficulties. So, special provision is made in clause 3 of the Bill for departures from the regular procedure.

Mr. Speaker: Motion moved:

"That the Bill further to amend the Assam Rifles Act, 1941, be taken into consideration."

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: (Barakpore): Mr. Speaker, as far as the amendment goes in its efforts to give powers of police officer to the riflemen on duty in NEFA, Nagaland and other border areas, the amending Bill seems all right. But there are one or two points which I would like the hon. Prime Minister to clarify.

On the question of conferring magisterial powers on the Commandants and Assistant Commandants there seems to be a certain amount of fear in the minds of people in Nagaland and NEFA. They feel that it is much better that the riflemen who are actually going to carry out the police duty come under the civilians and the magisterial powers should be wielded by the civilian authorities. As a matter of fact, I am told that in Nagaland they have already applied for the setting up of a police force. I believe the Ministry has considered it and will probably be giving its consent to it. If this be so, it will mean that a certain section of those who will be carrying out Police work will be under the civil authority while another section, that is, the Riflemen under the Assam Rifles, will be under the authority of the military Commandants and the Assistant Commandants. There is, I believe, in these areas a sort of feeling between the military and the semi-military powers which are the Assam Riflemen. As a matter of fact, there is a growing estrangement between the two. The men of the Assam Rifles are the people who bear the brunt in the border areas. They have to face all the difficulties of the situation there and they do not enjoy the same benefits which the military does. As it exists now, the giving of magisterial powers to the Commandants and the Assistant Commandants may lead to certain bad results. Therefore since we are developing to a large extent the civil authority under those who are loyally co-operating for bringing Nagaland back to peace and within the orbit of the Indian Union, it is better that we allow these people to function under the civil authority as far as possible. Therefore this question of conferring magisterial powers on the Commandants and the Assistant Commandants is a point which needs some clarification as to why it is being brought about.

Regarding the question of giving the powers of a Police officer to the Assam Rifles, this will apply not only to those who will be functioning in NEFA, Nagaland and other border areas but will also apply to all places, that is, wherever the Assam Rifles will be functioning whether it is Tripura, Manipur or any other part of India. Here again, there will be a proper civil authority functioning. There will also be the Police force there. So, again here you will be giving a semi-military organisation full powers of a Police officer. Whether that will be right or not will have to be looked into.

But, on the whole, I think that in the peculiar circumstances of the border areas of NEFA and Nagaland where there are no regular Police forces as yet, until such time as the regular Police force comes into existence this power of search and arrest may be given. This is what I would like to point out, that is, as soon as there is a regular Police force established there whether the Assam Rifles should continue to have the powers of a Police officer and whether magisterial powers should be conferred on the Commandants and the Assistant Commandants or whether they should remain with the magistracy, that is, with the civil courts that exist in NEFA, Nagaland and these areas, must be considered carefully.

Mr. Speaker: I think I should call the hon. Minister now.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: (Mandsaur): No, Sir.

Mr. Speaker: When no hon. Member stands up what should I do?

Shri U. M. Trivedi: I had sent a chit saying that I would wish to speak on this.

Mr. Speaker: Someone should rise in his seat so that I can call him.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: I am sorry.

Sir, the position to be considered about the Assam Rifles (Amendment) Bill is whether we should have a consolidated law for controlling the various armed forces of India appointed by the Government of India. The Central Government has got authority under the Assam Rifles Act to control the appointment to the Assam Rifles and virtually that flows from the provision contained in the Seventh Schedule, List I, entry 2. This creates a good deal of difficulty in the administration of law. Article 33 of the Constitution of India prevents the application of fundamental rights where the question of the armed forces is concerned. On the one hand, we have this civil police force whose personnel is not discharging the duties of the military, or the Navy or the Air Force, yet, it is governed by the term Armed Forces of India. This question of these Armed Forces of India came to the forefront during this election for the first time. During this election, a move was made to secure votes for the ruling party from the so-called Armed Forces, namely the Central Reserve police forces and the Assam Rifles. The personnel number somewhere about 30,000. All these 30,000 votes were votes for the ruling party. Because, the Commandant concerned and the Assistant Commandant concerned saw to it that the postal ballot paper was filled up in his presence. No rifleman, no sepoy, no soldier would dare to displease the Commandant.

The particular question that comes before me is the provision of article 136 of the Constitution by which any order made under any law which governs the Armed forces is not appealable even in the Supreme Court of India. It creates a sort of conflict. I know, notwithstanding such provisions, somehow, some advocates do succeed in side-tracking these provisions because the Assistant Commandant and the Commandant are designated as Second class and First class magistrates which is being now done here in this case. Therefore, it is meet and proper that the Government should recast the provisions whereby this Police force has been created. This police force must not be classified as the Armed Forces of India. It is this classification which must change when this amendment is being brought. The object of the amendment is, to my mind, not a desirable one. Assistant Commandants are not trained in the administration of law. The Commandants are neither so trained. The net result is this. Here is a soldier alleged to have done any harm to another soldier. The clause says:

“Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, the Central Government may invest any Commandant or Assistant Commandant with the powers of a Magistrate of any class for the purpose of inquiring into or trying any offence committed by a rifleman and punishable under this Act or any offence committed by a rifleman against the person or property of another rifleman or of any person acting with or assisting the Assam Rifles."

My whole objection patently is against this provision. I know of several cases because I live at a place where the Central Reserve Police has its headquarters. This difficulty always arises. One rifleman or one soldier is not liked by the Assistant Commandant. A fake case is made out. He makes a complaint that this man has stolen my cow, has stolen my goat, has taken watch, anything. This trial comes before the Assistant Commandant because this loss has been done to another rifleman. I hope, Sir, that you are following my line of argument. The phrase here is 'any offence committed by a rifleman against the person or property of another rifleman...'. Now, any type or any kind of offence that could be committed could be committed by one rifleman against another; then, the Commandant or the Assistant Commandant will sit in judgment. His judgment will be the judgment of a biased person. He decides what should be done, and he sends the rifleman to jail. Obstructions are created, and sometimes very successful obstructions are there that this sentence which is awarded by the Commandant or the Assistant Commandant, although it may be that of a person functioning as the magistrate under the law prevailing in the Armed Forces, is not challengeable even in the Supreme Court, what to talk of the ordinary courts or the sessions courts.

The drafting of this Bill is not so very bad as that of the Bill which we had yesterday. But the operation of the law which is proposed in the present Bill will require deep consideration, with this object in view namely that biased officers, or officers who would be naturally biased, should not sit in judgment between man and man. In the Army Act, there is a very nice provision that even the slightest bias in a court-martial will disqualify the man who sits as the court-martial, or will disqualify even the judge-advocate. But here, the disqualification will not apply. Therefore, I submit that this may be taken note of by the hon. Law Minister who now seems to be in charge of this Bill, in place of the Prime Minister, and I hope that he will do his best to correct it.

Shri Hem Barua (Gauhati): The Assam Rifles are a para-military organisation, and I would pay a compliment to the boys constituting this organisation, who have done commendable service, particularly in the NEFA and other trouble-spots of the far-eastern regions of India. Whenever there is an abnormal situation anywhere, whether it be in the NEFA or in Nagaland, the services of the Assam Rifles are requisitioned, and they have laid down a very fine record of service for so long. That is why I want to congratulate the boys that constitute this organisation, particularly.

Now, this gives scope to our tribal young men to get into the defence services, in a sense. They get the training ground in the Assam Rifles. During the last World War, under the British regime, the tribal people of the hills of Assam played a decisive part all over the world. They were in the defence services, all over the world, and they were encouraged to be there. But, then, the Assam Rifles, somehow or the other, played the part of an organisation that gave the basic training. That is why I want to congratulate, at the outset, the boys who constitute this service.

The present Bill is a very simple one, but I have my grave doubts about investing the Commandant and the Assistant Commandant with these powers. The Assam Rifles functioned in the hill areas, in the NEFA or in Nagaland, where there were troubles, and where there was no administration such as we have here in the rest of the country. Under those abnormal conditions, certain abnormal laws or abnormal measures had to be adopted, and that was why possibly these measures were adopted. Thus, the Commandant was all in all, or the Assistant Commandant was all in all, I want them to have the powers, so far as the discipline in the services is concerned. But when it comes to a suit of a criminal or civil nature, I do not think that the power should vest with the Commandant or Assistant Commandant.

There is another thing. In the hill areas, particularly in Nagaland, I know there are our jawans, army people, functioning. What about these people? When the civil authorities functioned there—they even now function to a great extent—when the Nagaland or Naga Hills was a part of the State of Assam, I know of army officers telling me about certain benefits the Assam police operating in the Naga hills enjoyed but which the boys belonging to the defence services were denied. For instance, the police officers or policemen working under the auspices or authority of the civil authorities when Nagaland was a part of Assam, enjoyed certain hill allowances for working there. But then the boys who have been working there to quell the hostile activities were denied this privilege. Naturally enough, I came across army men telling me that they were denied these benefits and they should get them. I would say there is some sort of mental agitation among them on this score.

If we have two organisations engaged in a similar type of work but enjoying different privileges, naturally enough there would be some sort of mental agitation. I do not think there was any physical agitation, but there was a mental agitation. If, and it is bound to be, police forces are going to be constituted for this area, for instance, in NEFA, where we are going to have a police force if not today, tomorrow, and in Nagaland as soon as it comes into being—and I welcome the coming into existence of Nagaland as early as possible—when they would have their own police force, and then the benefits or advantages that the police forces enjoy are denied to the Assam Rifles men, naturally enough there might be some sort of mental agitation.

I say that this power vested in the Commandant or Assistant Commandant to try cases would impose a sort of diarchy even in the areas where the Assam Rifles men, particularly, are operating, for instance, in Nagaland. There is a clause by which Government seek to extend the ambit of the Assam Rifles and make these rules applicable to the whole of India. But what about the rest of India? In the rest of India, there is a well-ingrained civil authority. When this power is given to the Commandant or Assistant Commandant to try cases concerning the Assam Riflesmen it might so happen that this power might at times come into conflict with the civil power, and there might be some difficulty. So far as the hill areas are concerned, there might not be any difficulty for the present—but even there I visualise difficulty. But in the rest of India where civil authorities function, there would be a sort of diarchy operating. Therefore, Let the civil rules—because the Assam Rifles is only a semi-military organisation—operate in their case also so that we might bring them on a par with the rest of the citizens of India, in NEFA or Nagaland, wherever they might be.

In conclusion, I would once again pay my compliments to the young men constituting the Assam Rifles who have done a commendable job in the hilly areas of our north-eastern region.

Shri A. C. Guha (Barasat): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think there will be general support for this Bill, particularly in view of the disturbed conditions prevailing on the Assam border and in some places even within Assam. The Assam Rifles force occupies a peculiar position. It is neither a police force nor an army; it is somewhat in between the two. So there seems to be some anomaly as regards its functions and privileges. In some cases—I think in most cases—the members of this force act as soldiers of an army battalion. But sometimes they have to do some police work also. The recent escape of two batches of Naga hostiles from the Assam border to East Pakistan has, I think, brought in a certain amount of criticism on the Assam Rifles as also on the soldiers operating there. Considering the conditions in the Assam border, the existence of the Naga hostiles and also the hostile attitude of Pakistan, it is necessary that the Assam Rifles should be strengthened and given adequate powers to render the service expected of them.

At the same time, it should be remembered that the Assam Rifles Act was passed in 1941, during the second world war. Any enactment passed then relating to the Assam border which was a very much active border during those days must have been passed on the consideration of the war conditions prevailing there. So I think the Act operating so long requires some reconsideration at the hands of Government. It should be considered whether the powers and privileges under the Act should be modelled on normal conditions or the Assam Rifles Act which was passed under war conditions in 1941 should continue as it is.

The House will remember that in 1941 there was a great danger of invasion from the eastern side of India—I should not say that there was great danger, because I think many of us were then welcoming an invasion from that side. Anyhow, in the background of those conditions, this Act was passed. Now, though there are no war conditions there similar to those during the second world war, conditions on the Assam border are very much disturbed. Armed incursions from Pakistan on that border are frequent now. That is why I think certain modifications should be made and new powers given to the Assam Rifles so that they may operate properly.

In the Statement of Objects and Reasons, it has been mentioned that as the riflemen have to operate outside Assam and as they do not enjoy the powers of ordinary policemen, this Bill is intended to give them certain special powers. It says:

“The riflemen are posted for duty in the NEFA, Nagaland and other border areas where there are no regular police forces. During the discharge of their duties, it is necessary for them to make searches, arrests etc. To enable them to make searches, arrests etc., it is proposed to confer on them the powers of a police officer”.

Nagaland is going to be converted into a separate State by an enactment of this House including a Constitution amendment. But as far NEFA is concerned, it continues to form a part of Assam, at least notionally. I do not know whether there would be any legal difficulty for the riflemen to operate in NEFA as policemen. Anyhow, I think today or tomorrow NEFA will have to be separated from Assam. That is the presumption or assumption of this Bill. So, I support the provision to give extended powers to the riflemen, and also the powers to be given to the Commandant and Assistant Commandant for the trial of any offending rifleman in the course of his duty. That is a very essential thing if this body is expected to work as a disciplined military force.

Before concluding, I would like to draw the attention of the Government as also of the Minister in charge to section 12 of the existing Act, which reads:

“The Central Government may, as regards the Assam Rifles, make such orders and rules consistent with this Act.”

But these rules are not placed on the Table of the House. It is the convention now that the rules made under every Act are laid on the Table of the House. Though there is no amendment to that effect, I hope the Government will adhere to the convention in this case also, and that you, Mr. Speaker, as the custodian of the privileges of the House, will see to it that this provision of subordinate legislation is brought under the control of this House, so that the rules framed under section 12 may be laid on the Table of the House.

With these few words, I support this Bill.

Shri Tyagi (Dehra Dun): I am completely in support of the proposal this Bill contains. I do not think there is any valid objection to the practicability in working of these clauses.

My hon. friends who are not aware of the army discipline might perhaps feel that some additional powers given to the Assam Rifles might be misused. That might be a doubt in the minds of many, but factually speaking the army is strong not only because of its training, but primarily because of its self-sufficiency as far as discipline is concerned. If cases of indiscipline that occur in the army were to go to outside courts, and if soldiers were given the privilege like ordinary citizens to approach civil and criminal courts in every case, the discipline will be gone altogether, these cannot be any discipline in the army. Therefore, armies are kept absolutely self-sufficient as far as their internal discipline is concerned. It is for this reason that the army is strong. Human psychology is such that they are better disciplined and a better-knit group, speaking psychologically, if they are self-sufficient from all points of view. So, in the army, the authorities provide them with food, with clothes, every little need of a soldier is met by the army itself.

Shrimati Renu Chakravartty: The Assam Rifles' conditions are different from those of the army. They do not get all the benefits of the army.

Shri Tyagi: That is what I am coming to.

Therefore, actually speaking, the army is strong because there is no outside influence or outside interference in its discipline. It is for this purpose that the Minister has rightly thought of giving power to the Army Commanders to enquire into cases of indiscipline within the force.

This is a police force, no doubt. It goes out into an area which has mostly a difficult terrain, and particularly now when Paikstan is hurling all sorts of threats both from the east and the west, it is very appropriate that this Assam Rifles must be strengthened from the point of view of their rights, privileges and authority. In that terrain it is not possible for a soldier to get a warrant of arrest from a magistrate. A magistrate is not easily available. On the spur of a moment, culprit might escape into the wild terrain. If you have to surround his house and search, how can you wait for a magistrate to give you a warrant? Therefore looking to the type of duties they are expected to perform—they are practically soldiers for all purposes—they must be garbed with all police powers, and therefore these powers are rightly given.

My hon friend perhaps objected to the idea of magisterial powers being given to Commandants and Assistant Commandants to try any offences committed by the subordinate soldiers. After all, we have to care for the liberties and the privileges of the citizens also. We cannot allow a policeman to go amok and do anything unlawful to the citizens, because the primary care of this House is to protect the rights of all citizens, and it is for this purpose that authority is given to Commandants and Assistant Commandants to try those soldiers, so that the soldiers might know that if they commit any excess on the citizens they will be tried immediately and punished. That must be always before them. It is a sanction with the officers to proceed in the affair in a legal manner so that the soldiers may not act against the law. For this purpose, the magisterial powers must also be with the senior officers, so that the soldiers might not go amok. There may be cases of shooting going on by rebels, or outsiders, Pakistanis, for instance, infiltrating, and action may have to be taken. So, there must be some curbs. They should not be given the fullest liberty to go any way they choose, or start shooting any man. It is very essential that when the soldiers are given greater liberties, there must be greater curbs also in the use of those rights. I think the proposals contained in this Bill are very well-balanced, and I think it will add to the efficiency of the Assam Rifles.

I have some experience of the Assam Rifles. I know they have got a very bright history of service rendered in the past. They are really a very disciplined force. For all practical purposes they are in army, and their discipline is as good as the discipline of the army, but because they have to perform these duties and functions of the nature of the police, these police powers must be given to them, so that they may be more effective, and in the interests of the security of the border areas of the country, these powers must be given. I support this Bill.

Dr. M. S. Aney (Nagpur): May I ask a question of Shri Tyagi. Shri Trivedi has stated that so far as the misconduct of the soldier against any outsider is concerned, he has no objection to the appointment of the Commandant as a magistrate. His main objection is that in a dispute between one soldier and another soldier, the advantage which he gets under military law of an appeal against the court martial is not provided for here, it is denied here. He wants that point to be cleared.

Shri Tyagi: That is already there. In the Assam Rifles Act there is a provision for appeals. If a junior official gives a punishment, it is not final; the soldier can go to the senior officer. Discipline can be maintained only if these disciplinary proceedings are vested in the Assam Rifles themselves. If they were to go outside authorities they will become as bad as the civil administration is becoming. Everybody has got a right to appeal here and there.

Shri D. C. Sharma (Gurdaspur): Mr. Speaker, Sir, no child of India can claim ignorance of the splendid role that the Assam Rifles have played in the security of this country, especially the defence of our border. I feel that no Member of Parliament can say that the record of those persons who constitute the Assam Rifles has been of such a nature as not to make every Indian feel grateful to them. I, therefore, approach this Bill with feelings of pride and thankfulness; and I think that is the prevailing climate in this House also when they are dealing with this Bill.

Now, what are these Assam Rifles? There are some persons who say that they are like the Army; there are other persons who say that they are like the Police. I feel that the Assam Rifles are the bulwark of our safety on the border and they partake of the characteristics of both these units of defence in our country.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath (Hoshangabad): Para-military.

Shri D. C. Sharma: They are the Army plus and the Police plus. It speaks very highly and creditably of the work they have done so far that we are extending their powers beyond the borders of Assam. If their record had not been very good, I think, we would not have come forward with this Bill. Their services are now in demand not only in Assam but also everywhere; and, therefore, we are trying to give them those powers which they will need in the discharge of their duties.

What are the powers that we give them? We are trying to see that they do not suffer from any legal disabilities when they go to work outside Assam. For the purpose of the administration of the Assam Rifles we have 3 categories of persons, the Commandant, the Assistant Commandant and the Rifles. It is a regular hierarchy here as there are in other services, in the Army or in the Police. I feel that due weight is given to these cadres so far as privileges are concerned. The Commandant is going to have those powers which are worthy of him and the Assistant Commandant is going to have the powers which he requires. At the same time, the riflemen are also going to get some powers so that they can deal with those problems which arise in the course of the discharge of their duties.

The fact of the matter is this. These persons have to work in those areas where normal conditions do not prevail. Somebody has been talking about dyarchy, dyarchy between the Assam Rifles and the Police. I think that dyarchy is to be found more in the imagination of the hon. Member than elsewhere. These people work in those areas where work is very difficult and when normal policemen and normal security persons cannot work. Therefore, the question of dyarchy will not arise in the case of these men. Therefore, I believe to give them some powers and privileges is not to give them powers and privileges at the expense of the police or any other person. It is just to arm them with those powers by means of which the effective discharge of their duties becomes possible. There is no dyarchy involved in this and they are not going to be opposed to the police or opposed to any other body. So this is not treading upon the toes of any other force in this country.

It is necessary that they should be able to discharge their duties to the persons amongst whom they are placed. They have to do their onerous duties. Therefore, they have the ordinary powers of arrest and certain other things. It is not only that. They have not only to preserve order where they are but they have also to observe discipline among themselves. It is therefore said in the Statement of Objects and Reasons—

“To facilitate the inquiry and trial of offences committed by riflemen, it is also proposed to confer magisterial powers on the Commandants and Assistant Commandants.”

There are some persons who have taken objection to this. They have said that whenever such duties are performed, there is an element of bias involved in it. I feel that the question of bias can be imported into any human relationship. There is no human relationship known in this world which cannot be accused of bias. Husbands have been accused of bias. Wives have been accused of bias; sometimes fathers have been accused of bias in favour of some children. So, bias is a weakness which is inherent in human nature. And, I do not think anybody in this world can claim that he is free from bias of one kind or other. But I must say that when we look at the records of the courts martial and the records of the judicial decisions of the Army people and also the Assam Rifles, we come to the conclusion that they have been as free from bias as it is humanly possible. Whereas the normal human being suffers from so many different kinds of bias, these persons are there only suffering from one pull and that is the pull of keeping the security of their country and the pull of doling out justice to those persons who are risking their lives, who are undertaking very difficult jobs under their command. Their loyalty to the staff, their loyalty to the country are such things that will minimise the element of bias to the most infinitesimal point. Therefore, I think, the importation of bias into this relationship is something which is not wholesome.

But, I would like to make one suggestion. These persons are doing their duty under very difficulty and trying circumstances. All honour to them. When we are saddling them with difficult duties, we must also look to the aspect of their privileges. I do not say that they do not have enough privileges. They have some privileges. But I feel that corresponding privileges should be given to them, corresponding with the increase in their duties. I hope the hon. Minister in charge of the Bill will look into that aspect and will see to it that the Assam Rifles do not suffer in this respect in comparison with any other similar body of men who are doing similar work.

As Shri Guha pointed out the rules which are going to be framed under this Act will be laid on the Table of the House as is the normal practice so that if some of us want to raise any discussion on that we should be in a position to do so. With these words, I welcome this Bill and I send my regards to all those persons who are trying to guard our borders and are doing a difficult job splendidly well in the best traditions of our army and of our country.

श्री यशपाल सिंह (कैराना) : अध्यक्ष महोदय, जो यह बिल हमारे सामने आया है उस की स्पिरिट में मुझे कोई एतराज नहीं है। लेकिन मैं यह समझता हूँ कि जब हम जुडी-शिअरी और एग्जिक्यूटिव हर जगह अलग करने जा रहे हैं तो कोई कारण नहीं है कि

आसाम राइफल्स के मामले में हम एक्सेप्शन करें। दूसरे यह भी है कि नागालैंड की जनता, जिस के रिप्रेजेंटेटिव्स यहां पार्लियामेंट में बैठे हुए हैं और जो बकायदा भारत का अंग है, उस के अन्दर एक पुलिस आफिसर को जुडीशिअरी के अख्यारात दे देना कुछ भला मालूम नहीं होता।

मैं यह चाहता हूँ कि हिन्दुस्तान की रक्षा हो और देश के हर एक मनुष्य के अन्दर यह भावना पैदा हो कि उस के अधिकार सुरक्षित हैं। नागालैंड में जो लाखों की तादाद में हमारे लोग हैं उन्हें यह मौका मिलना चाहिये कि वे यह सोचें कि इन्साफ उन्हें मिलेगा और अधिकार उन के उन को मिलेंगे। ऐसी हालत में यह समझ में नहीं आता कि हम क्यों एक पुलिस के आफिसर या आर्मी के आफिसर को यह अधिकार दे दें कि वह जब भी और जहां जाँ चाहे गोलियाँ चला सके। इसलिये मेरी दख्खास्त यह है कि वहां की जनता का सहयोग पाने के लिये और नागालैंड का विश्वास सुरक्षित रखने के लिये हम वहां की जुडीशिअरी और एग्जिक्यूटिव को अलग अलग रखें। नागालैंड में इस वक्त हमारे विश्वासपात्र लोगों की, वफादार लोगों की, तादाद ज्यादा है। उन के प्रेम और विश्वास को सुरक्षित रखने के लिये भी यह जरूरी है कि हम वहां पर जुडीशिअरी और एग्जिक्यूटिव को अलग अलग रखें।

इस मामले में मेरी दख्खास्त है कि जहां तक आसाम की और नागालैंड की हिफाजत का ताल्लुक है, उस सवाल में हम सब लोग एक हैं, लेकिन जो जनता हमारी है उस में हमें विश्वास पैदा करना पड़ेगा। साथ ही यह भी है कि जब हमें एक बहुत बड़े शत्रु के खिलाफ लड़ना है तो छोटे छोटे मसाल को गुडविल से, प्रेम से, सद्भावना से हम को तय करना पड़ेगा। इसलिये आवश्यक है कि वहां के हर एक मनुष्य में यह स्पिरिट पैदा

की जाये कि जो राष्ट्र विरोधी तत्व हों उन को वहाँ के लोग खत्म कर सकें। लेकिन इन्साफ करने के अधिकार को कभी भी फौज या पुलिस के आदमी को नहीं दिया जा सकता। दोनों के अलग अलग दिल दिमाग हैं, उन की अलग अलग ट्रेनिंग हैं, दोनों के अलग अलग संस्कार हैं। इसलिये इस आदरणीय सदन से मेरी दुर्बास्त यह है कि पुलिस को या फौज को जुडीशिअरी के अख्यार न दिये जायें।

जहाँ तक इस विधेयक की स्पिरिट का ताल्लुक है, मैं सहमत हूँ और मुझ से पहले जो माननीय सदस्यों ने कहा है उस से भी मैं मुत्तफिक हूँ, लेकिन एक मैजिस्ट्रेट के अख्यार मैजिस्ट्रेट के पास रहने चाहियें और पुलिस के अख्यार पुलिस के पास रहने चाहियें।

Shri J. N. Hazarika (Dibrugarh):
Sir, I fully support this Bill because by this Bill we are going to extend the services of the Assam Rifles not only in the border areas in Assam but in many other places. I think this Bill is already delayed. This Act was passed in 1941 in order to see that the eastern borders are carefully secured. Now we have got troubles not only in that border but also in the northern border and, therefore, the extension of its services is very much needed.

Secondly, Assam Rifles is a police force as well as a military force. It is military in the sense that it is working for the security of that area and it is police because it goes to the aid of the civil authorities for keeping the normal law and order. That is why there is no justice in denying them this kind of power given to the police officer. So, this provision is most welcome so that the commandant or the assistant commandant could settle disputes specified in the Bill. There will be more discipline and more strength in the Assam Rifles. Therefore, I support the provision granting this power as envisaged in the Bill. I support the Bill and request the House to pass it.

The Minister of Law (Shri A. K. Sen): Mr. Speaker, before I say anything else, may I express the gratitude of the Government for the almost universal appreciation of this House for the splendid work done by the Assam Rifles and in the most trying circumstances. I have no doubt that when this deep appreciation is conveyed to the members of the Assam Rifles they will appreciate the same in the spirit in which it has been expressed here. We wish them well and I have no doubt that this House will assist them in the best possible way whether by altering the existing Act in a suitable manner or otherwise so that the difficult work they have to handle not only in Assam but in the periphery is done faithfully and to a successful conclusion.

May I say that most of the rather sceptical remarks of certain hon. Members have, I think, been made as a result of lack of understanding of the purpose and scope of the alterations suggested in the Bill. The second clause is absolutely necessary. There has been no criticism against that clause because the Assam Rifles are today operating in Nagaland and in NEFA and tomorrow possibly in other areas and, therefore, it is absolutely essential that the Act must apply to the whole country instead of being confined to Assam only. Alteration of section 10 has been necessitated simply because of the fact that today the operations are not conducted by the commandant or the assistant commandant in person everywhere. In the olden days there were hardly any operations undertaken which were not conducted under the direct supervision either of the commandant or of the assistant commandant. But today the ordinary members have spread in most places and they operate without the commandant or assistant commandant being present in person. So, they have to carry out many orders on their own responsibility and according to the strict law of torts which obtains in this country as in other countries they would be liable, possibly, to claims and mere citation of a lawful order would not be enough. That would have been enough if the assistant commandant or the commandant was present. Under the Act as it stands at present that protection to the ordinary rifleman who has to perform onerous duties was absent. It is, therefore, most necessary that the immunity that is granted to the commandant and the assistant commandant should in all fairness be extended to the ordinary infantryman who is called the rifleman under the Act, who performs most of the important duties today. I have no doubt that when that is appreciated no objection could be raised to it.

What is it that we intend to extend to him? First of all, there are the privileges which are granted under section 125 of the Indian Evidence Act and also the other provisions like sections 42 and 43 of the Police Act which were extended to the commandant and the assistant commandant. Section 125 of the Evidence Act prevents the extraction of any evidence from a rifleman or a policeman with regard to the source of information. This is most important. When they have to operate on secret information in disturbed areas, it is of the utmost importance that the sources of information should not be disclosed. That is why under section 125 of the Evidence Act, it was not competent for a magistrate or a police officer to compel to disclose his source of information and that immunity is extended to the ordinary rifleman because he has to act on that information received from many friendly sources in disturbed areas like Nagaland where he has to operate. Then, in any suit or proceeding, the commandant could receive complete immunity by citation of the lawful order, but the riflemen could not. Now, that power is extended to the riflemen under sub-section (2) of section 10 of the original Act.

Then we provide the necessary corollary that such plea may be proved by the production of the warrant or order. Just merely by producing a warrant or order he shows the lawful authority and gets immunity which was originally extended to the commandant and the sub-commandant only.

Then, under sub-section (4) we extend the immunity of sections 42 and 43 of the Police Act which was extended only to the commandant and the sub-commandant. This puts a limit of time within which proceedings shall be brought. This is in line with the Public Authorities Protection Act obtaining in England so that a public officer performing difficult duties may not be under the threat of prosecution or subject to a civil proceeding hanging over his head for years; and before evidence can be obliterated or evidence will disappear, a reasonable limit of time is set for the launching of any proceeding against all such officers. We have the Public Authorities Protection Act; we have the Judicial Officers' Protection Act and various other Acts which provide us with a particular time-limit within which proceedings are brought. This was originally available to the commandant and the sub-commandant only. We now extend it to the others.

The whole thing has been necessitated by reason of the fact that today the operations are so widespread that it is impossible for the commandant and the sub-commandant to be present in person everywhere, and the ordinary rifleman is to take over the duty of the commandant in many areas. It is the altered nature of the duties which has necessitated the extension of the original immunities available only to the commandant and the sub-commandant to the ordinary infantrymen.

With regard to section 10A, all that we have provided is that the commandant and the assistant commandant who have the power to enter upon an adjudication will be invested with powers of a first-class magistrate.

In trying offences against the Act itself by members of the forces, let us not confuse it with offences which are committed outside the forces. That would be open—the civil and criminal acts—to the ordinary courts. This is in answer to the hon. Member, Shri-mati Renu Chakravartty who raised a little apprehension with regard to that. With regard to the offences committed under the other provisions, the ordinary courts shall function. These adjudications are in relation to the offences under sections 6 and 7 of the Act itself, where the members of the forces are made liable for breaches of discipline, disobedience of the lawful orders and other acts of commission and omission which are made punishable for the purpose of preserving discipline of the forces. When an ordinary infantryman refuses to obey lawful orders the punishment is up to transportation for life. With regard to these offences the forum for adjudication is, like the martial law tribunal, the commandant and the sub-commandant of the force itself. It is there, therefore, that we have given him the power of the first-class magistrate.

Some of the amendments are designed to convert them into a court and make them liable to the proceedings under the Criminal Procedure Code. That would be impossible to work out because like all martial law courts, they have to follow all the necessary essentials of a regular court and yet they must be governed by the Criminal Procedure Code, and that will make them subject to the incidence of the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, such as revision and various other fetters that will make it impossible for such tribunals to function.

These are my submissions and I commend the motion for consideration of the Bill to the acceptance of the House.

Mr. Speaker: The question is:

“That the Bill further to amend the Assam Rifles Act, 1941, be taken into consideration.”

1339 (A) LSD—7.

The motion was adopted.

Mr. Speaker: Now, the House will take up clause-by-clause consideration of the Bill.

Dr. L. M. Singhvi (Jodhpur): Sir, I am aware that it is possible under the rules of procedure for the Speaker, either when there is no amendment or when the Speaker may deem fit, to allow the clause-by-clause discussion on the same day on which the motion for consideration is made. But I submit, and this I submit particularly because yesterday a similar point of order was raised in this House.

Rule 75, the language of which is clear, is intended to debar any clause-by-clause discussion of the Bill on the same day on which a motion for consideration under rule 74 is made. Now, it is true that in case when an amendment is not made or when the Speaker may so desire or may consider it proper under rule 88, in his discretion, may allow a clause-by-clause discussion on the same day, but since the normal rule of procedure under rule 75 is that a clause-by-clause discussion will not take place on the same day, the Speaker must say that notwithstanding the normal rule of procedure under rule 75 he allows a clause-by-clause discussion on the same day.

I submit that rule 75 actually covers the normal rule of procedure and rule 88 is an exception or adaptation of it. Since the exception has been put into operation, the Speaker may say that notwithstanding the ordinary rules of procedure he allows a clause-by-clause discussion under rule 88.

Shri Tyagi: In that case the Speaker has got the right to allow it.

Mr. Speaker: In the first place, the hon. Member must realise that at least the Speaker has the power to take up clause-by-clause consideration, and because I have called up the next stage, and took up clause-by-clause consideration, there cannot be any objection to that.

Secondly, I do not agree with the hon. Member that rule 75 debar discussion on clauses on the day on which general discussion is held. He has put that interpretation on the wording of rule 75. He will kindly look into it, and to the stage where we are. The heading indicates what we have to do. It says, "Discussion of principle of Bill". The emphasis is not on the day on which any motion referred to is taken up for consideration. But the emphasis is, and the objective is, on the day when it is taken up for consideration or on any other day to which it might be postponed and consideration might be had, on the nature of the discussion; that is, what discussion shall it be. It would be only on the general principles of the Bill and the details of the Bill shall not be discussed during that stage. This is the objective of this rule 75. Of course, because the words "on the day" are written, it might be interpreted that it is intended that on that very particular day, further progress of clause-by-clause consideration might not take place. But if we just see the whole arrangement of the rules, we will come to this conclusion that here we are only on the discussion. After rule 75, we come to "Persons by whom motions may be made" and then "Notice of amendments". Finally, it is under rule 86 that we come to the stage of mode of moving amendments. It says:

"When a motion that a Bill be taken into consideration has been carried, any member may, when called upon by the Speaker, move an amendment to the Bill..."

After that, clause 88 provides that,

"Notwithstanding anything contained in these rules, the Speaker may, when a motion that a Bill be taken into consideration has been carried, submit the Bill, or any part of the Bill, to the House clause-by-clause."

Therefore, the interpretation which the hon Member put on rule 75 is not the correct one that when the general discussion is over, we cannot discuss it clause-by-clause on the same day. That was not the intention of that rule. If there is any misapprehension on account of the words "on the day", that is amply laid at rest by rule 88, which gives the power to the Speaker to take up the Bill clause-by-clause. So, when I take up clause-by-clause, there ought not to be any question about that.

Shri Tyagi: In that case, yesterday's ruling by the Deputy-Speaker was also quite in order, there was nothing objectionable.

Mr. Speaker: There is no objection to that.

Dr. L. M. Singhvi: I wish to submit that the very reason which you mentioned that the words "on the day" are not to be emphasised because of what is contained in rule 88 and rule 90, may be adduced in favour of my point, because if this was the normal procedure, no exception need be incorporated. From the fact that an exception has been provided, it is very clear what the normal procedure is. After all, the expression is "on the day". A day will mean a day and it will not mean the period of discussion on the same day.

Mr. Speaker: What it means to me I have said and I have given the decision. Now, we take the Bill clause-by-clause.

Mr. Speaker: The question is:

"That clause 2 stand part of the Bill".

The motion was adopted.

Clause 2 was added to the Bill.

Clause 3- (Substitution of new section for section 10)

Mr. Speaker: Shri Bade has given notice of some amendments, but he is not present. Is Shri P. R. Patel moving his amendments?

Shri P. R. Patel (Patan): Yes, Sir. I am moving amendments Nos. 5 and 6. I beg to move:

- (i) Page 1, line 16, after "authority" insert "or in discharge of duty" (5)
- (ii) Page 1, line 20, after "the act" insert "or evidence" (6)

Mr. Speaker: Does he want to say anything?

Shri P. R. Patel: I do not want to say anything. But I would say one thing....

Mr. Speaker: Would that one thing not be included in anything?

Shri P. R. Patel: The idea in amending section 10 of the main Act is to give protection to the riflemen. To remove any suspicion, I want to add the words "or in discharge of duty", to give more protection to the rifleman. That is the only idea behind it and I hope the Minister will accept it.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Sir, I submit that there is a curious inconsistency between the provisions of sub-clause (2) and sub-clause (3) of the proposed new section 10. A close look at both these sub-clauses will substantiate the point I am about to make. Sub-clause (2) provides that,

"(2) In any suit or proceeding against a Commandant, Assistant Commandant or rifleman for any act done by him in pursuance of a warrant or order of a competent authority,— mark the words "competent authority"—

"it shall be lawful for him to plead that such act was done by him under the authority of such warrant or order."

Sub-clause (3)—the last portion, the tail-piece of this sub-clause reads like this. I would rather read the whole sub-clause:

"Any such plea may be proved by the production of the warrant or order directing the act, and if it is so proved, the Commandant, Assistant Commandant or rifleman, as the case may be, shall thereupon be discharged from liability in respect of the act so done by him, notwithstanding any defect in the jurisdiction of the authority which issued such warrant or order."

Mark these words again: "Notwithstanding any defect in the jurisdiction of the authority". Sub-clause (2) makes it clear that it should be a competent authority. The word 'competent' is very well defined in law. Competent means not only competent in terms of powers, but also competent in terms of jurisdiction. Unless the authority has powers vested in it with regard to jurisdiction as well as power, it is not a competent authority.

Sub-clause (3) says that the person has got to produce a warrant or order to prove to the court or the investigating authority that whatever act was done by him was done in pursuance of a warrant or order issued by a competent authority. But sub-clause (3) goes further and says "notwithstanding any defect in jurisdiction", which means it is not a competent authority.

Mr. Speaker: It would be declared under the rules that such and such authority would be competent authority and would exercise jurisdiction within such and such areas. Supposing a competent authority having jurisdiction in a particular area, by mistake, issues a warrant for an area which is not within his jurisdiction....

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: How can he be competent for that area?

Mr. Speaker: It was a competent authority to issue warrant for a particular area.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: 'Competent' means competent in all respects. How can it be partly competent and partly incompetent?

Mr. Speaker: A magistrate has jurisdiction within a territorial limit. He can make a mistake by issuing a warrant outside it. That would be a mistake. He has no authority to do it. He has no jurisdiction to do it.

Shri P. R. Patel: Then it would be an illegal warrant.

Mr. Speaker: Maybe, but the person who exercises functions under that warrant must be absolved of the responsibility. The question is to safeguard and provide protection to the rifleman. Suppose the competent authority makes a mistake. The rifleman is to be protected, because he bona fide obeys the order of the Commandant or whoever issues it. That rifleman must be protected, whatever action you might take against the man who was not competent to issue the order. So far as the rifleman is concerned, he has not done any fault. If he has obeyed the orders under the bona fide belief that the man superior to him has authority to issue that order, he should not be punished, whatever other proceeding may be taken against the man who has made that mistake.

Shri Tyagi: My friend seems to have misunderstood it. The authority is not in any way relaxed in sub-clause (3). It says, "notwithstanding any defect in the jurisdiction". Suppose the authority issues a warrant and he is to arrest somebody. But that man absconds to some area which is not within the jurisdiction of that authority. He has to run and arrest that person in the other area. Therefore, the warrant was duly issued by a proper authority, but the jurisdiction regarding the area in which it has to operate may change.

Mr. Speaker: That would be a different thing altogether. If the warrant only authorises the rifleman to arrest a man in one particular area and the man has gone to the other area, then the rifleman cannot proceed further, because it would then mean that he goes beyond the powers given to him by the warrant.

Shri Tyagi: What I was submitting is this. Suppose a warrant was issued, say, in a Pargana and the man concerned absconded beyond that Pargana or jumped a few yards on the other side. So long as the warrant was issued by a proper authority, the change of jurisdiction has been given.

Mr. Speaker: If the warrant says that he must be arrested and apprehended within that Pargana, the rifleman would not go outside it. If he goes, then he goes beyond the powers given to him by the warrant. But if the warrant says that such and such a man is to be arrested wherever found, then the warrant is issued beyond the jurisdiction or competence of that authority. In that case, certainly, the rifleman should not be punished. He should not be punished if there is a defect in the warrant. Simply because he has obeyed the orders issued by the competent authority and the authority was not competent to issue such a warrant, he should not be punished.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Mr. Speaker, Sir, you will be pleased to see, and the House will also appreciate, that this clause (3) is wide in its application. It does not apply to riflemen only. It applies to Commandants, Assistant Commandants and others, who are fairly superior officers, who may commit acts in pursuance of a warrant or order issued by some other higher authority. I do not know under whom a Commandant will be functioning.

Mr. Speaker: Whoever might be acting to execute that warrant will be safeguarded. He will be protected. If the competent authority is somebody else, then the executing authority will be safeguarded and protected in case there is some defect in the warrant so far as the jurisdiction is concerned.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Doubt still lingers in my mind, Sir, whether we can, in that case, still retain the words "competent authority" in sub-clause (2).

Mr. Speaker: Let us hear the Law Minister and see whether he can remove the doubt of the hon. Member.

Shri A. K. Sen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what you have said is perfectly right. This is a well known provision, of giving immunity to officers and men who have to act under orders of superior authorities and who cannot question the jurisdiction of such superior authorities each time there is a warrant or an order. Apart from the question of warrant or order, let us take the question of a requisition. It authorises the requisitioning of property not being household effects or implements of trade or agriculture. Let us say that a magistrate issuing the order of jurisdiction directs a Commandant or a rifleman to take possession of certain goods which happen to be household goods or implements of agriculture. They cannot say that the magistrate has no jurisdiction to order the requisitioning of articles of agriculture or articles of trade. Yet he does so. Can the rifleman question him? A rifleman has to carry it out. When he is hauled up in a judicial proceeding for damages, he shows the warrant or order. Then there is a complete discharge so far as he is concerned. This is in order to restrict the English Law of Torts which applies in this country, where the citation of superior authority is no defence. That is why there is the Judicial Authorities Protection Act. Shri Kamath has been a judicial officer himself. He knows that he has immunity under the Judicial Authorities Protection Act which, even if he passed an order without jurisdiction, gave him immunity provided he acted bona fide.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: That is not on all fours with this.

Shri A. K. Sen: This is on all fours, because the magistrate would be guilty if he acts without jurisdiction according to Torts but for that immunity.

Even now the Judicial Authorities Protection Act remains as a good piece of law, otherwise no judicial officer can function if he is made liable as in Torts for every act where he oversteps his jurisdiction. That is the point, Sir, and, if I may say so with all respect, you explained it, and I do not know why Shri Kamath who while acting as a magistrate himself having enjoyed the immunity throughout should have any doubts now.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: That is old history. I did not do any such act.

Shri A. K. Sen: Even if he did he would not have been made liable.

Shri A. K. Sen: This simple provision of immunity is necessary.

Regarding Shri Patel's amendments, if you look at page 1, line 20, you will find that it is completely out of place if we add the word "evidence". When the production of the warrant or order gives the immunity, where does evidence come in? There is no evidence here. The order itself is the evidence.

His next amendment on page 1, line 16, is also, you will find, out of place. The whole of this section is meant to cover cases of vicarious liability where the officer or the rifleman concerned acts on the order or warrant of a superior. There is no question of any discharge of duty here.

Shri Lahri Singh (Rohtak): The words "in good faith" should be put in here.

Shri A. K. Sen: I am very sorry, Sir, the hon. Member has not tabled any amendment. Good faith is written into such things, as you know it yourself. Any act done in bad faith takes out the provision for immunity and the officer pleading immunity cannot avail himself of the immunity if it is proved that he acted in bad faith. Bad faith removes all immunity, that is the central principle of law, and that need not be cited here.

Shri Lahri Singh: The defect may arise somewhere. The words "good faith" must be added here. It should read: "notwithstanding any defect in the jurisdiction of the authority which issued such warrant or order in good faith". Otherwise it will become very difficult to control such things. You cannot give such an unlimited authority. If you do not add these words, knowing fully well that he has not got the authority a person may do it.

Mr. Speaker: We are here protecting the men who execute the warrant and not those who issue it.

Shri Lahri Singh: When a man goes to execute the warrant he may get into some conflict and he may be murdered there. What will be the position then. That is why I say that the words "good faith" must be added here.

Shri Tyagi: How can a rifleman know that the warrant has been issued in good faith or in bad faith?

Shri Lahri Singh: The authority which issues the warrant must do it in good faith.

Mr. Speaker: We are not concerned here with the competent authority, whether its powers are bona fide or mala fide. We are only concerned with those people who are to carry out the warrants.

Dr. M. S. Aney: The riflemen must act in good faith. Because he acts in good faith he enjoys the immunity. If he does not act in good faith he can have no immunity at all.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: May I, Sir, request you again to remove another little doubt which is in my mind with regard to....

Shri Tyagi: He is so full of doubts that it is difficult to remove them.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: It is good that all doubts are removed before an Act is passed, because as the Gita says: "संशयात्मा विनश्यति" whoever has got any doubt, unless that is removed....

Mr. Speaker: But Gita presumes that the one who removes his doubts shall have faith in it.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: All of us have got faith in the Gita.

Now, with regard to the proposed amendments to clause 10 of the parent Act—the last two sub-clauses of this clause 3 of the Bill—clauses 10A(1) and (2)—, the first sub-clause seeks to confer powers on the Central Government to invest any Commandant, Assistant Commandant or rifleman with any of the powers or duties conferred or imposed on a police officer or any class or grade by any law for the time being in force. The next one proceeds to confer powers on the Central Government by investing any Commandant or Assistant Commandant—no rifleman here; that is proper—with the powers of a Magistrate of any class for the purpose of inquiring into or trying any offence committed by a rifleman.

Now, with regard to the second one, I would like to ask, before I proceed to the first, whether Government proposes to invest any of these Commandants or Assistant Commandants with, say, the powers of first class magistrates, because they are not well-versed in magisterial matters and they are not experienced magistrates. It is wrong to invest a raw Commandant with the powers of a first class magistrate. I hope the Minister will realise and appreciate that the powers of a first class magistrate should not be conferred on a raw person who has not had the experience of a third class or second class magistrate. I wonder whether the Minister can give an assurance on behalf of the Prime Minister, who is in charge of the Bill....

Shri Tyagi: What about honorary magistrates?

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: They begin as third class, become second class and then first class magistrates. They do not straightway become first class magistrates.

Mr. Speaker: He might come to his main point.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: I would like to know if he can—perhaps he can; I do not know; I suppose he is fully in charge now—give an assurance here that there is no such intention of conferring powers far in excess of that for the time being enjoyed by the particular person, either Commandant or Assistant Commandant. It will be wholly unfair to confer very high magisterial powers on a person who has no experience of any magisterial work at all.

Coming to the other point, I hope it is far from the intention of the Government to confer both police powers and magisterial powers on the same person, though within the ambit of these provisions the Government can do whatever it likes. The same Commandant or Assistant Commandant can be chosen, if he is a favourite of the Government, if he is in the good books of the Government, and invested with both police powers and magisterial powers. It does not debar the Government from conferring both powers on a particular person. I would request for a guarantee from the Government here—not merely an assurance but a guarantee—that the same person will not be invested with both police and magisterial powers, because under sub-clause (1) he can be invested with police powers . . .

Mr. Speaker: What are these powers being conferred for? For what objective? They are not to try civilians or do something of that nature. This is for the internal discipline between riflemen, as is done in the army or anywhere else. They must have those powers because they will have to deal with their subordinates and they have to maintain discipline. This is only for that purpose. Why should the hon. Member fear that they will not be able to rightly exercise their powers, so far as their subordinates are concerned? They are quite competent to exercise those powers.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: I am very grateful to you for the light you have thrown on this matter.

Mr. Speaker: If it is light at all.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: But the difficulty is—it will not be a major difficulty—so far as the army is concerned, there is a set law and salutary conventions and practices developed governing these matters. But here we are legislating in a manner which has created and produced certain obscurities, and those obscurities should be removed. Now, the Assam Rifles may function as you have stated earlier, anywhere in the whole of India, even in Bengal.

Mr. Speaker: I have not been able to throw any light. So, I would ask the Law Minister to do it.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Let him throw it, if he can.

Shri A. K. Sen: I do not know if I can discharge this heavy responsibility of dispelling the doubts which appear to be springing from a recital of the Gita. I think it will require Lord Krishna himself to dispel such doubts.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Gita removes doubts. You have not read the Gita.

Shri A. K. Sen: With great respect to Shri Kamath, I may say that I have read it a thousand times.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Then why do you say that doubts emanate from the Gita? Gita dispels doubts; does not create doubts.

Shri A. K. Sen: I know.

Mr. Speaker: I ought to confess that there must not be any dispute about whether one has read it so thoroughly.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Sir, on a point of order.

Mr. Speaker: Why should there be a quarrel on that?

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: The Minister says that it has arisen on account of reading of the Gita. It is wholly wrong. He is not right. Gita does not create doubts at all.

Mr. Speaker: Order, order.

Shri A. K. Sen: I was going to say that the doubts of the Gita were dispelled by Lord Krishna. None of us can arrogate to ourselves that high position. Therefore, let us confine ourselves to doubts more mundane.

Mr. Speaker: But Shri Kamath does not assume that he is Arjun.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: I may like to be Arjun, but first, who will be Sri Krishna here? I would like to know that.

Shri A. K. Sen: What is in his mind God alone knows. We can only know his mind from what he says. But he has been expressing nothing but doubts on a matter which, in my humble submission, admits of no doubt, as you have rightly pointed out.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: You are a Minister and, therefore, you have no doubts.

Shri A. K. Sen: Sir, as you have stated, these powers have been conferred only for the purpose of adjudicating the breaches of discipline and such other matters enjoined by the Act for the purpose of preserving the discipline of the force and to ensure that this force acts as an efficient semi-military force. That is all. And for this purpose I am afraid, we shall be absolutely wrong if we think that others will be better suited to judge than these officers themselves under whom they act and they have to act. Therefore, in my submission, the Act rightly gives powers to these officers to determine the offences and to give the necessary punishment. Take the Martial Law Courts. How are these officers, who are not trained lawyers or trained magistrates, as Shri Kamath was once, called upon to adjudicate upon offences which would even justify the award of death penalty, which are done very often? And these officers discharge their duties admirably. If on any points of law they need guidance, the Judge-Advocate-General is called upon to assist them. So also here I have no doubt that no assurance is needed to be given, either on behalf of the Prime Minister or myself, or the Government, because the public and this House, I have no doubt, have greater confidence in the Government than Shri Kamath that they would not call upon such officers as would not be capable of discharging these responsibilities.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Let us hope so.

Shri A. K. Sen: After all, these are our own people, our own infantrymen, our own officers. We have as much concern for them as anybody else.

With these words, I request that these amendments may not be pressed.

Shri P. R. Patel: I would like to withdraw my amendments.

Mr. Speaker: Has the hon. Member the leave of the House to withdraw his amendments?

Some hon. Members: Yes.

The amendments Nos. 5 and 6 were, by leave, withdrawn.

Mr. Speaker: The question is:

"That clause 3 stand part of the Bill."

The motion was adopted.

Clause 3 was added to the Bill.

Clause 1, the Enacting Formula and the Long Title were added to the Bill.

Shri A. K. Sen: On behalf of the Prime Minister I beg to move:

"That the Bill be passed."

Mr. Speaker: The question is:

"That the Bill be passed."

The motion was adopted.

14.09 hrs.

EXTRADITION BILL

Mr. Speaker: The House will now take up consideration of the Extradition Bill.

The Minister of Law (Shri A. K. Sen): On behalf of the Prime Minister, I beg to move:

"That the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals be taken into consideration."

14.09½ hrs.

[MR. DEPUTY-SPEAKER in the Chair.]

It will be remembered that this Bill was introduced and referred to a Select Committee in the last Parliament.

The Joint Committee submitted its report and the Bill underwent revision as a result of the suggestions made in the Joint Committee. The suggestions made were not of a very basic character excepting with regard to the deletion of the offences which were specified separately for Commonwealth countries. The Joint Committee thought that the same offences should hold good with regard to the Commonwealth countries as with regard to the rest of the world so that, it will be remembered, the old odious crime of treason which was specified as applicable to extradition for Commonwealth countries might be omitted altogether from the list of extradition offences.

The Law Commission which went into the subject felt that the extradition law of this country needed immediate revision. We had been so long governed by two separate Acts of the British Parliament with regard to this matter. The first was the Extradition Act passed by the Parliament in England and the second was the Fugitive Offenders Act which was also passed by the Parliament in England. With regard to the Fugitive Offenders Act it was held by the Supreme Court in 1955 that that Act no longer applied after India became independent because it only applied to British possessions and India was not a British possession.

With regard to the Extradition Act, this was practically impossible of application because it only applied to such countries as were specified by Orders in Council by the British Crown and we would certainly not be governed any more by Orders in Council passed by the British Crown. It was, therefore, thought imperative that the law of extradition should be consolidated and a new law should be passed to be applicable to this country.

The scheme of this Act follows the well-known principles of international law which enjoin that as a part of our obligations in the comity of nations we should help each other in extraditing such criminals as ought to be extradited subject to some safeguards for the purpose of determining whether the criminal is actually a criminal or not or whether he is sought to be taken away only on political grounds or not. For this purpose safeguards have been provided enjoining upon adjudication before an extradition order is made.

The Act takes recourse to two separate procedures, one for the Commonwealth, that is chapter III, and the other for non-Commonwealth countries; but the offences are the same. The only difference between the Commonwealth countries and the non-Commonwealth countries is that in regard to the Commonwealth countries the Central Government has to endorse the warrant issued by a Commonwealth country as is recognised for this purpose as coming within the purview of the Act. It has to be notified by the Central Government as to which particular Commonwealth country comes within the purview of Chapter III. After it is so brought within the purview of Chapter III, its warrant would operate on being endorsed by the Central Government and would then be executed by a magistrate after such enquiry as is enjoined in Chapter III itself.

In regard to the non-Commonwealth countries there has to be prior adjudication and prior determination of a prima facie case and thereupon a warrant is to be issued by the magistrate concerned.

The subject is more or less of a non-controversial nature. We have provided in the Bill sufficient safeguards for the purpose of seeing that no one is extradited for offences which are of a political nature. That safeguard, it will be noticed, will be found in clause 31 which says:

“A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered or returned to a foreign State or commonwealth country—

(a) if the offence in respect of which his surrender is sought is of a political character or if he proves to the satisfaction of the magistrate or court before whom he may be produced or of the Central Government that the requisition or warrant for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offence of a political character;”

May I suggest a verbal alteration which is of a grammatical nature, namely, for “with a view to try or punish him” it should be “with a view to trying or punishing him”? Those letters have gone out; otherwise, it will be grammatically wrong. May that be treated as corrected without a formal amendment?

It further says:

“(b) if prosecution for the offence in respect of which his surrender is sought is according to the law of that State or country barred by time;”

so that a man may not be taken away to face proceedings which have already become barred.

Then, it provides:

“(c) unless provision is made by the law of the foreign State or commonwealth country or in the extradition treaty with the foreign State or extradition arrangement with the commonwealth country, that the fugitive criminal shall not, until he has been restored or has had an opportunity of returning to India, be detained or tried in that State or country for any offence committed prior to his surrender or return, other than the extradition offence proved by the facts on which his surrender or return is based;"

That means that extradition cannot be sought on one ground or one offence and the criminal, once being sent away, being tried for some other offence. That is impossible. Unless the magistrate is satisfied that that country has got such a law, a fugitive criminal will not be surrendered.

Then, it says:

"(d) if he has been accused of some offence in India, not being the offence for which his surrender or return is sought, or is undergoing sentence under any conviction in India until after he has been discharged, whether by acquittal or on expiration of his sentence or otherwise;

(e) until after the expiration of fifteen days from the date of his being committed to prison by the magistrate."

Fifteen days are given so that he can move the higher courts against the order.

These are the main provisions of the Bill and I submit once again that it is of a non-controversial nature. The two Acts which cover the field having become obsolete after our independence it is now absolutely necessary that we frame our own law on the subject. The matter originally went through a Joint Committee and their suggestions have been incorporated for the better, if I may say so with respect. Therefore I submit that this motion may be accepted.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: Motion moved;

"That the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals, be taken into consideration."

Shri H. N. Mukerjee (Calcutta Central): Mr. Deputy-Speaker, Sir, I wish I could offer unqualified support to the Bill which has been placed before the House by my hon. friend, the Law Minister, but, I am afraid, I cannot do so. As a matter of fact, yesterday, perhaps a little too late in the afternoon, I had sent in notice of an amendment asking for the circulation of this Bill for the elicitation of public opinion by the 15th October, 1962. If you permit me, I would like to move that amendment, that is, the motion for circulation.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: It was given at 4 O'Clock yesterday?

Shri H. N. Mukerjee: Perhaps it was sent to the office a little late; I do not quite know. But, in any case, since . . .

Shri A. K. Sen: He may move it. I have no objection to it. But may I be supplied with a copy of it because I do not have one?

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: He may move it.

Shri H. N. Mukerjee: Sir, I beg to move:

"That the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by October 15, 1962."

I do not wish to be considered to be dilatory. I am asking for this elicitation of public opinion which in this kind of case will surely be expert opinion because I do feel that it is very important that while we have our own Extradition Act it should be as good as we ought to make it. This reminds me that I do not know for what reason the Government has proceeded in regard to this matter with something like precipitate haste. On the last occasion, sometime in August

[Shri H. N. Mukerjee]

1961 the last Parliament was asked to discuss the Extradition Bill. It so happened that Government wanted to have it passed at once. It was on account of many Members in this House belonging to different parties insisting that this matter should be given a closer consideration that the Government had to agree to reference of the matter to a Select Committee. I know the Select Committee did a very good job of work. All the same, this House has not had the opportunity of having the report of the Select Committee before it and the last Parliament was dissolved before we could discuss the report of the Select Committee. Now, by an unfortunate coincidence, perhaps, the Extradition Bill is put before the House on the first day of the session. It is very difficult for so many of us to make up our mind about a measure of this description. I could tell you, I personally wanted to suggest that this matter be referred to a Select Committee again. But, I did not have the time to talk to Members belonging to different parties and groups in this House and I could not produce the names of people who agreed to be on the Select Committee. I feel, therefore, that the Bill, as presented before us, is by no means as simple, clear and non-controversial as the Law Minister has described it to be, and exactly on those points which had agitated the House in the last Parliament satisfaction has not been fully given. That is why I suggest that more consideration is given to this very important measure.

The Law Commission had considered different Acts and the Law Commission had made an observation that it was necessary to have our Extradition Act finalised. The Law Commission had expressed a desire if not in very unambiguous terms that it should be consulted in the matter. To the Fifth Report of the Law Commission, there was a special note appended by one of its Members Dr. N. C. Sen Gupta, who had made a special point of it. He had discussed the Extradition law of the country and pointed out certain obligations which he said ought to be clarified by any legislation we are going to have on the subject. The Law Minister said a little earlier that the Law Commission had expressed its desire for the finalisation of the Extradition law. But, he did not tell us whether the Law Commission's views in regard to this matter have been ascertained. As far as I know, the Law Commission has not been asked to give a report on this matter. I feel that this is not the right way of proceeding in regard to this kind of legislation. I say this because,—if I may be permitted to do so, I shall quote from the Minute written by Dr. N. C. Sen Gupta, a Member of the Law Commission in the Fifth report of the Law Commission,—pages 89 and 90—Dr. N. C. Sen Gupta said:

“But, with regard to other foreign countries, India had the advantage of Extradition treaties by the British Government with those countries. The question whether these treaties continue or not is not at all free from ambiguity. Questions arise whether India is a party to such treaties within the meaning of paragraph 4 where the treaties were concluded not with India specifically but with Britain on behalf of the entire British Empire. Secondly, if the treaty exists, whether the advantage of it or the obligations under it have passed to India or to Pakistan also remains obscure.”

I would not have referred to this unless I had seen on page 2, in sub-clause (d) of clause 2 of the Extradition Bill a proposition made by the Government that—minals, and includes any treaty or agreement relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals made before the 15th day of August, 1947, which extends to, and is binding on, India."

It happens to be a fact that before our Independence, the British Government got us to be a signatory of certain international documents where matters in relation to extradition had also been introduced. For instance, in Oppenheim's International Law, Sixth Edition, edited by Lauterpacht, on page 649, there is reference to a Convention signed at Geneva on 16th November, 1937, in accordance with which twenty three States undertook to treat as criminal offences acts of terrorism including conspiracy and participation in such acts, and in some cases to grant extradition for such offences. Apart from India, no Member of the British Commonwealth of Nations signed this Convention. But, India was made to sign this Convention when she was a part of the British Empire because, particularly, in those days—this was in 1937—the British wanted to clamp down upon what they called political terrorism. They wanted to declare political terrorism, however you describe it, as an extraditable offence, and India was made a signatory to this. I do not quite know what our position is in regard to this kind of international agreements into which we have entered particularly when it says in clause 2, by definition that extradition treaty here includes any agreement relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals made before the 15th day of August, 1947. I emphasise this because, as everybody knows, it is extremely important that we make our stand in regard to non-extraditability of political offenders the basic plank of our Extradition law. The Law Minister was at pains to point out that in this Bill before us, provision has been made to that effect. But, as a matter of fact, what we discover is that even in comparison with the Bill that was placed before the last Parliament, the emphasis on the question of political offences not being extraditable is rather low as far as this particular Bill is concerned. In the first Bill, old Members of the House, some of them will perhaps remember that as early as clause 4 there was prominent mention of the fact that political offences would not be extraditable. I do not know if Members noticed that when the Law Minister wanted to refer to the provision where political offences are being declared non-extraditable, he had to fumble for a while and then had to look up clause 31 among the miscellaneous provisions where this particular safeguard has been incorporated. I do not mean to say that clause 31 is any the less potent than clause 4 or clause 3. What I mean is that having had the kind of experience that we have had, it is important that in our Bill in regard to extradition, we put the right kind of stress on the immunity which we give to political offences. After all, there is the very famous case of Savarkar. The heroic Savarkar jumped into the sea from the British P & O boat near Marseilles. The French police, acting definitely in connivance with British authorities, broke all canons of international law, captured Savarkar and handed him over to the British authorities. After that, the matter was agitated and ultimately the International Court at the Hague gave the decision that it was wrong of the French police to have handed over Savarkar because he was a political offender, to the British. But, the French police did so. The thing had already been done; that was what the Hague Court said, and therefore, the wrong could not be rectified. That was what Savarkar's case ultimately came to and this wrong was perpetrated on us. So many of us had to go for shelter to such places as Pondicherry, or Chandernagore or elsewhere in order that we may have some immunity from the arm of British authority. I need not go into the details. I need not mention Aurobindo or Subramania Bharati and so many other people. This fact of political offences being non-extraditable is not only a principle accepted in international law, it is a principle which, to us, is so dear because we have already had experience in regard to political offenders having been made to suffer so much as Savarkar was made to suffer.

Therefore I feel that in regard to political offences we should take a more clear, a more strident and a more unequivocal stand. Therefore, whenever there is a kind of ambiguity which I feel when I find references in Lauterpacht to this convention which India signed in 1937, I feel rather disturbed about it and I want our Government to come forward with very serious clarifications.

I notice also that in regard to the Commonwealth, the Select Committee was very insistent in the last Parliament that the differentiation between the Commonwealth countries and the rest of the world should not be there at all. And ultimately what happened was that treason, which was included as an item which was extraditable and which was put in the Commonwealth list, was omitted, and then ultimately the two lists, that is the Commonwealth list of extraditable crimes and the non-Commonwealth list of extraditable crimes, were done away with and one single list had been brought into the picture. That is an advance, there is no doubt about it, and I welcome it. In so far as Government accepted the advice of the Select Committee I welcome it.

But Government does not go far, as far as they should, normally, legitimately.

The Law Minister was at pains to explain how in regard to a Commonwealth country what is necessary is that there should be a warrant issued by the proper authority and all that we at this end are able to do is to certify that the warrant is properly signed and executed. In regard to non-Commonwealth countries which may ask for somebody to be extradited, they have to issue a warrant, they have to communicate it to us through their Embassies or other instrumentality, and then our magistrates would look into the matter, and only if a prima facie case can be made out against that particular person who is sought to be extradited, then alone can we act in that matter. But in the case of the Commonwealth what happens is, a Commonwealth magistrate, let us say in U.K. or Pakistan or whatever it may be—the Commonwealth is an expanding family and therefore perhaps to that extent we welcome it, I do not know—anyhow, from a Commonwealth country a magistrate sends out a warrant for the extradition of Mr. X. And we do not go into the merits or demerits of the matter at all. We do not even examine the prima facie case. We merely countersign the warrant, and the fellow is clamped in jail. Why should this happen?

I was a little astonished, but it was a pleasant surprise to find that even such a paper as The Statesman, which is not particularly anti-Commonwealth, wrote in its Calcutta Edition of the 26th of June, 1962, that this discrimination should not be there at all. It referred, in particular, to this—I am quoting from its editorial article on the 26th of June, 1962. It says:

“Whereas, for instance, a foreign State must make out a prima facie case (complete proof is in the nature of things too much to demand) before securing return of an alleged offender, a Commonwealth country scheduled (all existing ones are scheduled, and new ones are expected to be scheduled by notification) need merely have its domestic warrant for his arrest endorsed in India; and this is done simply by verifying that it is a genuine document.”

And it goes on to say:

"Is there really a valid case against putting Commonwealth and foreign States on equal terms, and demanding at least a prima facie case from both?"

Surely, why can't we treat the Commonwealth countries and the non-Commonwealth countries in a matter like extradition on the same level?

What happens actually? Let us say the Government of Pakistan wants to get hold of somebody. It sends a warrant and we cannot even go into the prima facie nature of the accusation against the man concerned, and we have to certify that the warrant is all right, if it is all right, and the man has to go. The Law Minister says the man will not go if the offence is of a political nature and so on and so forth. But the onus is on the man to prove in that case, and he is far away from his country even to fight his case in that manner, and our magistrates are not having a look at the prima facie nature of the case at all. This is a matter which is of very great importance.

I do not see why this Chapter III should remain at all. The only raison d'être, the reason, for the existence of Chapter III in this Bill is that there is a different provision, a different way of dealing with Commonwealth countries' demands for extradition and the demands of other countries for extradition. I would suggest that Chapter III should go altogether, that all references to discriminatory treatment as between Commonwealth countries and non-Commonwealth countries should go out altogether and that is very necessary because of the peculiar circumstances in which we find ourselves. And these days, as I was saying, these political offences can be put so expansively and all that, and you never know what is what. And therefore the more safeguards we have the better for everybody.

Then again, Government under this Bill proposes to take powers to extend the Schedule of extraditable offences with the qualification that they must be punishable, if committed in India, under the Indian Penal Code or any other law. Now, what is the point of this I do not quite know. At page 15, in the Second Schedule—this schedule relates to extradition offences in relation to foreign States other than treaty States or in relation to commonwealth countries—item 18 refers to any offence which if committed in India would be punishable under any other section of the Indian Penal Code or any other law. This kind of an omnibus provision is absolutely unnecessary. Why can't we make our extradition law something clear, crisp and nobly worded so that it can be a declaration to the rest of the world as to how we look upon the whole matter of extradition. Extradition is not a legal duty imposed upon us: extradition is only something done because in the international community you cannot allow with impunity criminals to go about from one country to another. That is why extradition is there in the picture. Why can't we make that point very plain?

As a matter of fact, as far as Commonwealth countries are concerned, what is the kind of treatment that we get? When somebody like, for instance, Bhupat—my friend Mr. Kamath knows him very well not only because of the euphonious nature of the two names, but he belongs to Madhya Pradesh.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath (Hoshangabad): No to Rajasthan.

Shri H. N. Mukerjee: I am sorry, to Rajasthan.

Shri Harish Chandra Mathur (Jalore): He is not from Rajasthan.

Shri H. N. Mukerjee: Now, Bhupat goes to Pakistan. He never got back, we never got him back. I do not know, if Government comes forward and says "We do not happen to have an extradition treaty with Pakistan" it is a very queer situation. Pakistan is a Commonwealth Country, scheduled or listed here. We have not got an extradition treaty with them and we cannot get things done. If our criminals, the wrongest kind of criminals run away to Pakistan, we cannot get them back. Yet we say, "All right, therefore we give Pakistan all these facilities." Now, what is all this? Where do we go from here?

Then there is the infamous case of Mr. Phizo. I do not know, Mr. Phizo might look upon himself as a political rebel and that sort of thing. But here is Phizo who is, from all accounts, guilty of all sorts of practices which cannot even remotely come under the definition of political offences, perhaps. If that is a debatable matter, that is a different proposition. But here is a man like Phizo who goes to a country like the United Kingdom, with which our relations are of the most cordial nature and most continuous nature, a non-stop sort of relationship, and yet we cannot do anything about it. He goes to Pakistan, he goes to the United States of America, and God knows to what other country, to carry on propaganda against our country. We get no advantage at all, and yet with all the generosity in the world we are offering, only to these Commonwealth countries, certain particular facilities. I do not understand it at all. That is why I feel that this matter of extradition is a lot more serious than the Law Minister poses it to be. It requires a great deal more application; it requires more thought; and it requires more of an attempt to familiarise ourselves with the extradition laws of different countries. For instance, I am not very deep student of this kind of thing, but I looked up certain books and I discovered that countries like France and Germany have a law that they do not extradite their own nationals. If their own nationals have committed a crime abroad, they punish those particular nationals of theirs in their own country according to their own law; they do not extradite them. I do not say that let us accept it. Britain and the USA do extradite their criminals and send them abroad for trial. It may be that this is a better procedure. I am not laying down the law in regard to this matter. But, have we gone into this matter carefully enough? Do we follow the British pattern just because we have inherited the British pattern? Or do we, when we have got this opportunity of putting this extradition law on a permanent statutory basis, have the obligation of looking up what the law is in different countries in regard to this matter? But we do not do so.

Then, again, in regard to political offenders, who can we not take up an attitude which would be something like a declaration to the rest of the world? We have not had a revolution of the sort of the French Revolution, and so we cannot have a declaration of the rights of man; but something like that we can have incorporated here. In so many Constitutions, it is there. I find or instance in this book by Lauterpacht, the Sixth Edition of Oppenheim, that:

"In article 12 of the Constitution of the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic (May 11, 1925), the right of asylum is given".

Here, it is put in French, and it reads as follows:

"tous les etrangers persecutes pour leur activite politique ou leurs convictions religieuses."

which means:

"all foreigners persecuted for their political activity or their religious convictions."

Can we not put something like that on our statute-book? It is something like a gesture, something like a moral proclamation which should come fittingly from a country like ours, which always takes a 'Hölier-than-thou, attitude' in so many international matters; Why can we not do that? Why can we not, when we formulate our law, start on a clean slate, right in a different way rather than merely follow the drafting procedures of the time of Sir X, Y or Z or, God knows what other British celebrity in the past?

I feel, therefore, that there are so many matters which require to be looked into very carefully. If a Select Committee could be agreed to by Government, names could be collected a great deal more easily than by a very humble individual like myself. Having had no other alternative, I suggested that the matter be circulated for the purpose of eliciting public opinion. On the last occasion, perhaps, if I may say so in all humility, I had to interrupt the Law Minister, and it was largely because of the obstruction that I produced that the matter was referred to the Joint Committee in hot haste, but nothing came out of it, because the Joint Committee's report fizzled out, when the last Parliament was dissolved, and we are more or less hanging in mid-air, and we have been presented with this document, and we are being told by Government that "This is a simple law, a non-controversial law, we have corrected the discrepancies in regard to discrimination in favour of the Commonwealth, and, therefore, the House should accept it." I do not think that the matter is so simple. It is a very complicated matter. It is a very serious matter. The Law Commission itself had expressed a desire to be consulted in regard to this matter. At least, let us consult the different lawyers in this country, politically-minded people in this country, public-spirited citizens of our country, and let us, after a while—the heavens would not fall if we delay the passage of this particular Bill by two months—pass this legislation, after we have considered the matter with the seriousness that it deserves.

Shri Hem Barua (Gauhati): I have gone through this Bill very carefully. At the same time I have listened to the speech delivered by Shri H. N. Mukerjee very carefully. He has dealt with the subject in a very laudable way, and pointed out the lacunae that are there in this piece of legislation. I feel that this legislation depends on a reciprocal basis. Unless the other countries respond to our pious intentions, this piece of legislation would be only a scrap of paper; there is no doubt about it.

Shri H. N. Mukerjee has mentioned about the case of that noted criminal Bhupat who escaped to Pakistan. In spite of the fact that Pakistan is in the same Commonwealth as we are, he could not be extradited or brought back, because there was no treaty of that sort with that country. There are other instances of such a failure of this piece of legislation. That is what I would say.

Some time ago, we discussed the report on the Aligarh University, and it is a shame to say that some people in the administration were connected with the misuse of the university funds, and quite a few of them who were connected with the misuse of the university funds simply escaped into Pakistan. Those fugitive criminals are there even now, and they could not be brought back only because of the fact that we do not have any treaty with Pakistan or that Pakistan does not want to respond to our request. In spite of the fact that in the list of the Commonwealth countries, Pakistan is put in, Pakistan has not responded. Therefore, I say that the success or implementation of this piece of legislation depends entirely on good-will and mutual understanding. Wherever there is no mutual understanding or there is absence of mutual understanding, it is bound to be a scrap of paper and nothing else. Therefore, I say that as regards the provisions of this Bill, some of them are objectionable, and some of them are unlaudable, but the spirit behind it is laudable, but that spirit cannot be implemented unless and until there is some sort of reciprocity coming from the countries round about us.

[Shri Hem Barua]

The definition of the term 'extradition treaty' in clause 2(3) strikes me as a most wonderful thing. It reads thus:

" 'extradition treaty' means a treaty or agreement made by India with a foreign State relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals, and includes any treaty or agreement relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals made before the 15th day of August, 1947, which extends to, and is binding on, India;".

Shri H. N. Mukerjee has drawn the attention of Government to the comment made by Dr. N. C. Sen Gupta, affixed to the Fifth Report of the Law Commission where he positively says that it is doubtful and it is ambiguous. I would also say that this clause which has been incorporated in the Bill suffers from ambiguity. Now, what about those laws or those treaties or agreements that Britain entered into with different countries when we were not free? This piece of legislation seeks to make these treaties and agreements binding on India, and on the basis of those treaties and agreements, we want to see the implementation of this piece of legislation. But here is a jurist who has pointed out that there is an ambiguity in these treaties and agreements, ambiguity in the sense whether the rights or obligations accruing out of these treaties or agreements pass on to India or to Pakistan. That is the trouble, and yet this clause is being incorporated, and it is on the strength of this that extradition is going to be secured or an attempt is being made to give it a legal sanction. I just want to quote Dr. N. C. Sen Gupta. He says:

"But with regard to other foreign countries, India had the advantage of Extradition treaties by the British Government with those countries. The question whether these treaties continue or not is not at all free from ambiguity. Questions arise whether India is a party to such treaties within the meaning of paragraph 4 where the treaties were concluded not with India specifically but with Britain on behalf of the entire British Empire. Secondly, if the treaty exists, whether the advantage of it or the obligations under it have passed to India or to Pakistan also remains obscure."

Therefore, the anomaly of this situation can be realised very clearly, and I would like Government to examine this particular aspect of the matter whether these treaties and obligations entered into by British India are obligatory on us or not, and how far they are valid or not. I would like them to examine the validity of these treaties and agreements and then alone have a clause like this incorporated in this Bill; or else, it would be absolutely meaningless. I have already stated that this piece of legislation can succeed only in an atmosphere of goodwill and mutual understanding, and that mutual understanding must be an international understanding.

Now, there are special provisions made with respect to Commonwealth countries. We have friendly relations with Britain, no doubt. We have still friendly relations with Britain possibly because of the lesson that Gandhiji taught us. Gandhiji wanted us to oppose the British system of administration in this country, not the individual Britisher. That lesson has gone deep into the psychology of our people. It is possibly because of that that we have friendly relations with Britain which once ruled us. Or it may be that we have emerged out of a colonial system and when a country emerges out of a colonial system, a country that is nascent in its development, a country like India cannot cut herself away from Britain. That may be the reason.

Shri H. N. Mukerjee has made a passing reference to Mr. Phizo. Here is a man who is responsible for all the trouble in Nagaland. Here is a man who is accused of genocide, a man who is wanted on charges of murder, a man who made the Nagaland run red with blood. This man has escaped to Britain with a false passport, an El Salvador passport. The British Government came to know about it. But what happened? Britain gave him ample scope and opportunity to boost up the false claim of an 'independent' Nagaland. He went about launching a campaign of slander and calumny against this country under the nose of the British authority. There were people who encouraged him positively to indulge in all sorts of campaigns against India. This might be on the popular level. But I would cite one instance of the official attitude. The hot haste in which Britain granted him British citizenship must be an eye-opener to us. We did not ask for the extradition of Phizo—there is no doubt about it. On the other hand, it is also a fact that had we asked for this extradition, possibly we would not have succeeded. We did not ask for his extradition or repatriation to this country for obvious reasons. There are reasons for that. But on the other hand, if we had asked for that, in spite of our friendly relations with Britain, in spite of the fact that we are in the same Commonwealth, in spite of the fact that we are bound by the same ties, possibly Britain would not have responded. I base this idea on the facts before me, the fact of Britain encouraging Phizo to carry on a campaign of slander against this country and the fact of Britain granting Phizo in hot haste British citizenship.

Clause 31(a) of the Bill puts some restrictions on surrender of fugitive criminals. It says:

"A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered or returned to a foreign State or Commonwealth country if the offence in respect of which his surrender is sought is of a political character....".

I am not opposed to this provision. It is a welcome provision. But the fact remains that it is very difficult to distinguish between treason and political offence. The line of demarcation between the two is very difficult to draw. That is the trouble. Therefore, I would have liked a clearer definition of political offences and treasonable offences. As Shri H. N. Mukerjee has quoted, in the Geneva Convention of November 1937, there was an attempt made to define a political offence. It was a Convention which was signed by 23 States which had undertaken to treat as criminal offences acts of terrorism including conspiracy, incitement to participation in such acts, and in some cases to grant extradition for such offences. India was a signatory to this Convention. Under these circumstances, the difficulty arises as to how to define them, how to describe them, how to discover the real idea lying behind this definition. In the context of things today, any honest political difference can be interpreted as treasonable.

I remember Bertrand Russell once asked, 'Who is a rebel?'. Any man who tries to question the existing status quo in life in the social or political structure or any man who tries to throw splinters on the painted veil of life is dubbed as a rebel and his action is described as rebellion'. If rebellion can be described in so cheap a term, as it is very often done, anything can be brought within the ambit of 'political offence' and the arm of the law would be there to create all sorts of trouble in the country.

Then again, under clause 31(b):

"A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered or returned to a foreign State or Commonwealth country if prosecution for the offence in respect of which his surrender is sought is according to the law of that State or country barred by time".

I do not understand this. How could a criminal action be barred by time? I do not know of any legislation existing in any country where action against criminal offence is barred by time. I can understand this about civil suits, litigation and all that. But this is not a case of litigation. How could action against criminal acts be barred by time? This was criticised during the discussion we had last time also. In the Statement of Objects and Reasons, the Prime Minister says that most of the suggestions made during that discussion are incorporated in this piece of legislation, but the trouble is that most of the helpful suggestions made are not incorporated in this and the Bill remains where it was. If it were a case of litigation, it could have been barred by time. There are countries which have laws like that, but I do not think any country has a law which imposes a limitation of time on action against criminal offences.

There is a chapter dedicated to Commonwealth countries. So far as the law is concerned, why should there be a distinction between Commonwealth and non-Commonwealth countries? How do offences of a criminal nature change in the climate of Commonwealth or non-Commonwealth countries? Offences are offences: criminal offences are criminal offences. They wear the same appearance, but here provisions are made according to which there is a difference between criminal offences related to Commonwealth countries and the same offences related to non-Commonwealth countries. By that the Government has succeeded in doing only one thing, making the Bill heavy and bulky, nothing more than that. If a criminal is dangerous for a Commonwealth country, he is equally dangerous for a non-Commonwealth country also, but that is not the position here. There is a difference sought to be made, a sort of discriminatory treatment for a Commonwealth country. As Shri H. N. Mukerjee has said, a warrant can be issued, the only question is whether the signature is valid or not. And then a man can be clapped down, he will lose his liberty. There is no probe, there can be no probe into his conduct or offence, whatever that might be. That is the trouble.

15 hrs.

The Second Schedule gives a list of crimes that might come within the ambit of this law. There are some very insignificant items coming in for extradition. For instance, item No. 6 is theft, extortion, robbery and dacoity. I can understand dacoity because we want the dacoit Bhupat to be brought back to our country, but not theft. There might be a theft amounting to a few naye paise, and if this is liberally interpreted, that might also be an offence. Item No. 4 is kidnapping, abduction, slavery and forced labour. I can understand slavery, forced labour and abduction, but kidnapping of a particular sort is a natural thing, at least in the urge of man and in society, whatever it might be.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: You understand it, but do not appreciate it, do you?

Shri Hem Barua: I do not appreciate it, I do not welcome it, but I understand it is natural in society, but that should not be made chargeable.

Shri Kashi Ram Gupta (Alwar): But kidnapping is an offence.

Shri Hem Barua: I said of a certain sort.

Shri Kashi Ram Gupta: What is the certain sort?

Shri Hem Barua: Possibly you also understand, a certain sort you know. Whatever that might be, it is a long and comprehensive list, but towards the bottom we find Item No. 18 which says:

"Any offence which if committed in India would be punishable under any other section of the Indian Penal Code or any other law, and which may, from time to time, be specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette either generally for all foreign States or for all commonwealth countries or specially for one or more such States or countries."

I am not ready to give this blanket authority to the Government, because the list made is already comprehensive. If the Government gets this power, it might be misused. Since the list is comprehensive, I do not think the necessity of an extra clause or provision like this in the Bill exists.

There are ambiguities and lacunae in most of the provisions, at least in some of the provisions, and this Bill, there is no doubt about it, was drafted in haste, and the suggestions that were made during the discussions last time were not taken serious note of though the Statement of Objects and Reasons states otherwise. Because this is a very serious matter which concerns the liberty of man, and is going to bring about a revolution in international relationships, I would say that this Bill needs consideration. It must not be hustled. It is just on the legislative anvil. I join Shri Mukerjee in suggesting to the Government that if it is possible, and I take it that it should be possible, to circulate this Bill for public opinion because it concerns the liberty of the human being, the liberty of the man in the street.

Shrimati Renuka Ray (Malda):
Liberty to kidnap also?

Shri Hem Barua: I did not say like that. I did not say that liberty to kidnap should be provided, but then I would say that since it concerns the liberty of man, it needs deeper understanding, it needs deeper realisation, it needs deeper consideration, and I request the Government to give deeper consideration to the provisions of the Bill before debating it in this House.

Thank you very much.

Shri D. C. Sharma (Gurdaspur): I have listened very attentively to the two speeches that have been made on this Bill before me.

I think Shri H. N. Mukerjee is a perfectionist, and I believe perfection is a quality you cannot have in any kind of legislation which is devised by human beings, far less in a piece of legislation which affects our relations with other countries. I believe one of the fundamental points in legislation is this, that we learn as time passes, and that our legislation also improves in the light of the experience that we gain from our own country and from other countries. Therefore, I believe that this cry for perfectionism, which has been equated with the desire for delay is not a very desirable thing.

It has been said that it should be referred to another Select Committee. After all, a Select Committee will consist of the Members of this House, as the first Select Committee did. I believe that those Members have pooled their brains as far as this thing is concerned, and we have got the best out of them. I do not believe much will be gained by circulating the Bill for public opinion. I think very few persons understand what the Extradition Bill is, and very few persons will be interested in it even if they understand it. So, what has been done has been done in the interests of our international relations, in the interests of our relations with the Commonwealth countries, and in the interests of our relations with those countries with which we have some treaties.

One thing has been forgotten by the persons who preceded me, and it is this, that the essence of this Bill is reciprocity. We give only what we receive, and we receive only what we give. I do not think there is any favoured nation treatment given to any countries of the Commonwealth or any foreign country or those countries which are called Treaty States here. I do not think any such thing has been done. After all, our relations with all the three types of States are going to be governed by the basis of mutuality. They will get the treatment which they give us. We will deal with their offenders as they deal with our offenders. Therefore, I think that this reciprocity which is the fundamental basis of this Bill has been overlooked by the persons who have talked of favoured nations.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: But reciprocity is not the basis of our foreign policy.

Shri D. C. Sharma: The difficulty with you is this. When you are speaking, half of your words get lost in your beard. So, I do not understand what you are talking about.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: You understand reciprocity to which I referred.

Shri D. C. Sharma: I was submitting very respectfully that the essence of this Bill was the sense of give and take, and I think it is a very healthy thing. But there is one question which I want to ask, and it is this. I refer to Clause 2(d).

It reads:—

“‘extradition treaty’ means a treaty or agreement made by India with a foreign State relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals, and includes any treaty or agreement relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals made before the 15th day of August, 1947, which extends to, and is binding on, India.

Here, I have a list of countries which we have had extradition treaties before 15th August, 1947. It is surprising to know that number is very very large. We have had treaties with Albania, Argentina, Austria-

Belgium, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Ecuador, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Hungary, Iceland, Iraq, Italy, Liberia, Luxembourg, Mexico, Monaco, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Salvador, San Marino, Spain, Switzerland, Thailand, U.S.A., Uruguay, Yugoslavia.

Shri Hari Vishnu Kamath: Very long list indeed!

Shri D. C. Sharma: We have our treaty obligations with so many countries. I feel that in some of those countries the pattern of Government has changed very much. I do not stand in judgment over the pattern of their governments. I do not say that the pattern of government is good, bad or indifferent. But, in some of those countries the governments which were holding the field then are quite different from the governments which are holding the field now. I think their values have changed. I believe some of their laws have undergone modification. I believe their politics are different from what they used to be. I believe that some of them have revised their Penal Codes. All that has been done.

Now, I want to ask if it is in the interests of our country to keep up treaty obligations, so far as extradition is concerned, with these countries. And, if we are doing so, may I know if the Law Ministry has studied the new constitutions that have come into force in those countries, the new laws that have been promulgated in those countries and the new set-up that some of those countries have now. I believe that the Law Ministry is leading us into this very big thing in a way, if I may use that expression, blindfoldedly.

Now, what is happening in some of those countries? In Czechoslovakia, now, I think the definition of crime is quite different from what it used to be when we entered into treaty obligations with them. Similarly, in other countries, the definition has undergone a change. In Cuba, for instance, I heard that what is political action now was not political action before the 15th of August, 1947. In the same manner, in Spain, what is political action today was not there before 15th August, 1947. Thailand has also undergone some kind of revolution. All these countries are there. We had treaty relations with Portugal also. Portugal has changed very much; and I think we do not have anything to do with Portugal.

I want to ask the Law Minister very respectfully if he is going to amend this legislation, to modify it or if he is going to stick to it as somebody will stick to some hoary tradition of his family or to some ancient tradition of his land. I feel that more thought should have been given to this list than it has been given. I feel that it is due from the Law Minister that he should study the extradition laws of those countries and place a statement on the Table of the House to show how far they can be honoured.

Dr. M. S. Aney (Nagpur): When?

Shri D. C. Sharma: As soon as he can.

Dr. M. S. Aney: After passing this Bill or before passing it?

Shri D. C. Sharma: As soon as he can. I do not think it can be done before the Bill is passed. But he should place this statement at least afterwards, showing in what way the extradition laws of those countries, the laws which they have passed recently, are going to affect our country.

Unlike Prof. Mukerjee and some other friends of mine, I believe in the Commonwealth relationship which my country has. I believe in that relationship even though the Commonwealth is a very expanding family. I think there should be no family planning as far as this Commonwealth is concerned. I want the number of Commonwealth countries to increase; I want that we should have our relations with them. So far as these Commonwealth countries go, I do not think we have any treaties with any of them. Even if we have any treaty with anyone, I feel that we have not been served well by any of these countries.

Take, for instance, the case of Pakistan. I do not think Pakistan can point out to any fugitive criminal, according to the laws and constitution of that country, who has found shelter in this country. I do not think there has been any instance of that kind. Similarly, I do not think there has been any fugitive criminal, in this sense of the word, from the United Kingdom whom we have given shelter in this country. But, so many persons who have committed crimes in my country find shelter in Pakistan. Of course, the classic case was given by my friend, Shri Mukerjee; it was the case of Bhupat. Bhupat has, somehow, come in the limelight in the newspapers. But, there are so many other persons who have committed crimes here and gone across the borders. We cannot lay our hands upon them. Again, the case of Phizo was referred to by Shri Mukerjee. I also feel very sore about it. I am not talking about his political activities; I am talking about his non-political activities. Certain charges of murder and something like that are pending against him. He found asylum in the United Kingdom; not only that; he also became a citizen of U.K. Now, he is free to go wherever he likes. He can go to Pakistan and create trouble for us; he can go to U.S.A. and create trouble for us; and he can go to the United Nations and do some propaganda against us. So, I feel that whereas the countries mentioned in that list have extradition relations with us, which are almost obsolete, the countries with which we should have relations and which should serve us on a basis of reciprocity are not coming forward. I hope that when this Extradition Bill is passed and when we have mutual treaties, something will happen. I feel that Indian public opinion is very sore that some persons who can create trouble—I am using the word in the widest sense—in our country could have found asylum in some of those Commonwealth countries. Not only that, but that they should have become citizens of those countries.

I will now refer to the Second Schedule now. In spite of the objections taken by the hon. speaker who preceded me, it is very comprehensive and drawn up with a great deal of care. I am very happy to find that some of the anti-social crimes which are defacing the world today and which are a sad blot on humanity have been listed in it and I hope this list would be a deterrent to those who commit crimes against humanity. A gentleman who preceded me said that we could understand decoity being included but not theft. He does not perhaps know what thefts also form part of anti-social crimes and if one theft does not have much effect, so many thefts can have a cumulative effect which affects the morale of any country. That is why it has been included. Again, objection was taken to kidnapping. We are aware that there are gangs of kidnapers here and they mutilate children and maim them and now and then we read about them in newspapers. All these anti-social crimes have been clubbed together in this list. Then there are some crimes which are very daring in their nature assault on a vessel. All these things have been included and this list has been made as foolproof as possible. One of the problems aching the world is immoral traffic in women and girls. There is another problem—slave labour. So many international conventions have been held on this subject. It is good that we are having this Schedule in order to put on the black list all these crimes.

Some persons have taken objection to clause 31, especially 31(a). I feel that all the sub-clauses of clause 31 are humanitarian in nature, if I may use that word. They are a guarantee against the wrong application of the Extradition Act and an insurance against harassment of citizens from some other countries who may find asylum here. I am happy at the safeguards provided to these persons who may be declared as criminal offenders of some country. For instance, you cannot take a person to task if the offence is barred by time.

[SHRI MULCHAND DUBE in the Chair]

You cannot hold a person responsible for an offence committed prior to surrender. It says here that he shall not be detained:

“...or tried in that State or country for any offence committed prior to his surrender or return, other than the extradition offence proved by the facts on which his surrender or return is based.”

Thus, we can say, that this a Bill which safeguards the liberties of citizens and clauses 31 and its sub-clauses are very happy pointers in that direction. Our country has a very splendid record in its dealings with these persons who have been thought to be guilty of some political offence or something of a political character. I am proud of that record. This thing has been enshrined in clause 31(a) of this Bill. No one will be handed over to any other country if his crime is of a political character. Some persons asked the question: what is the political character? We all know what things are of a political character and it is good that it has been left vague like this. If it has been defined more particularly, there would have been trouble for those persons who sometimes are up against certain forces in their own country and who seek asylum in some other country.

I do not say that there is no room for improvement or that it does not contain imperfections. I hope that it will be improved as our experience of its working grows and as our knowledge of conditions prevailing here improves. With these words, I commend this Bill and I hope that it will receive the approval of the House.

Shri Gauri Shankar (Fatehpur): Sir, I stand to support the amendment moved by Shri Mukerjee. This is a very important Bill under the present circumstances. A long list of certain countries has been mentioned. Our treaties with those countries on the 15th of August 1947 were there and our relationship with them were friendly at that time. Now, circumstances have changed with time; some countries are antagonistic at present and unless the list is revised it would not be safe and proper to undertake this legislation and so it becomes very necessary that before it is legislated it is circulated for eliciting public opinion. It is again a very delicate thing because it affects our international relationship with other countries. We have to be very cautious and take only such steps so that we improve our position and we do not allow such criminals to take refuge in other countries so that no action can be taken against them. There are instances when our nationals, criminals, have migrated to other countries and have been given refuge there and were treated as nationals of those countries. As Shri D. C. Sharma said, there is a limit to reciprocal dealings. We cannot agree to reciprocal terms with countries which are not friendly to us.

Then I find that there are so many anti-social crimes which have not been included in this Bill, and actually they are the most important items. As has been pointed out just now, there have been cases of kidnapping of girls. I find that there have been mass conversions also by foreign missionaries and nothing has been suggested as to whether they have been intentional or wilful or there has been coercion. There should be some measures taken to safeguard such activities also. I find there is no mention of it in the Bill.

Again, as has been pointed out rightly, the provisions of clause 31 are there, but if they are allowed to stand as they are and are allowed to be passed like that, we are going to meet with harm later on. Under these circumstances, in order to have a congenial atmosphere and in order to ensure full reciprocity, we have to see that this Bill undergoes drastic changes, and for that purpose, eliciting of public opinion is very essential.

If we undertake this legislation in haste, then it would be no remedy. As has been just remarked, there was a Joint Committee and there was a report made, but with the change of circumstances, with the change of relationship with other countries, it is still very important to have an idea about the changed circumstances and then to legislate according to the changed circumstances to ensure reciprocity only with those countries which are on friendly terms with us. Otherwise, it would be futile. We may do full justice to the criminals of other countries who are on antagonistic terms with us, but those countries would not do the same thing for us. So, we have to give due consideration to these aspects.

Without going into details of the provisions of this Bill, I would submit that I stand to support the motion that this Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion before it is brought in for legislation.

Shri K. C. Sharma (Sardhana): Chairman, Sir, I welcome this Bill because it is of utmost necessity that a Bill like this should be brought before Parliament and passed. I do not understand much of the difficulties put forth by Shri H. N. Mukerjee and his hon. friends. The simple fact is this: does any society, any country, anywhere in the world, like or does not like peace and tranquillity among its own people in its own land. If it likes, then it stands to reason that if a criminal or a murderer runs away to Pakistan by just crossing two miles on the border, that man should be brought to book. If we do not have treaty, for instance, with Pakistan on this matter, there would be neither peace and tranquillity in India nor in Pakistan.

As to the matter about political consequences—what the consequences would be—it is nothing, for the simple reason that a criminal is a criminal, who does something which is an offence under the law of the land, an offence against his own people. Such a man deserves no sympathy whatsoever. The only difference between the law of the land operating within the jurisdiction of a country and the extradition provisions is that we come to certain agreements with certain other countries that those criminals should be brought back to us and be properly punished. If the criminals on the other side run into our country, we will send them back. Here, it is a question of simple natural justice. This comes through an evolution.

I now put a straight question. You want that your country should develop and have certain amenities which may be good. You want certain engineering skills should be learnt from other countries which are friendly to us. But does it stand to reason that you will have no peace and tranquillity in your own land when you have the help of the United Kingdom administration or the United States administration but will have their engineering skill? Though you want to have the wherewithal and add butter to your bread tomorrow by getting money or expert advice from them, you will not just like your wife and children to sleep in peace and tranquillity in your own homes with just the help of the United Kingdom administration or the United States administration. Is the butter on the bread more important than peace and tranquillity? The conditions being such that it is impossible in the present conditions of the world that countries should not have treaties among themselves to feel and be ensured of peace and tranquillity and to do justice to the criminals and punish the criminals, wherever they are, for the acts which they have done against society. As to what is the necessity for this measure has been gone through and enshrined in three different Acts. Some of them are not those which have been passed after India became independent and could not be well applicable to India, and therefore the need has arisen of a new legislation, as it is, is good enough to proceed with.

As to what will happen tomorrow—that this difficulty or that difficulty will arise and so on—need not trouble us much. I beg to state that the law is what is called a fundamental, dynamic continuum. It continues on the principle of natural justice; yet it changes and it is dynamic. On the fundamental aspects of human life, it will have its salutary effects and will serve humanity as it has been serving humanity since man was called civilised and had some idea of settling peacefully the disputes that arose in the community. So, there need be no trouble about it. What will happen tomorrow or what will be this definition and that definition are things which the law will take care of, because it is a continuum. It is a fundamental and dynamic thing. It changes also as the needs and conditions of society change.

With these words I support this Bill and I think it need not be circulated for eliciting public opinion for the simple reason that it is in continuity with the law that is now in existence. So, the Bill need not be circulated. The Bill as it is, in good and it should be accepted.

Dr. M. S. Aney: Mr. Chairman, the motion before the House is for consideration of the consolidated measure in respect of extradition. The matter contained in the Bill is not a new one. It is more or less a consolidation of the law that was existing previously, certain aspects of it which they thought proper have been adopted.

Some hon. friends have suggested that the Bill should have been circulated for public opinion. I would not be sorry if it is sent for circulation and more opinion is elicited thereon. Nor would I be sorry even if the Bill is referred to a Select Committee. But the point is that the Bill even as it deserves to be considered by us seriously for this reason. The necessity for a proper consolidated Extradition Bill is better felt now, and the Bill is more urgently needed now than it was when this country was not an independent country at all. After 1947, the conditions have completely changed. Moreover, because of the development of the means of communication, the conditions of communication have also changed enormously. We have been brought into closer contact with almost the whole world. Not only that. Accessibility to places of the longest distance in the world has become more possible. Therefore, offenders of other countries have easy access to come here and offenders of our country have easy access to go to other countries. Under these circumstances, it is necessary for us to see whether the old law does not require to be changed by us or not. Both on account of the change in our own status after the independence of our country and on account of the changes in the environment in which we have to work and administer our own country and keep up our relations with other countries, the necessity for changing the extradition laws and consolidating them and putting them on a proper basis would be understood by any reasonable man.

The fact is that extradition law is in a way part of international law. Those who want to have international existence and relations cannot do without having an extradition law. It is, in fact, a sign of the civilised status of a nation which has got its own extradition law to deal with other people and other nations. In view of these things, the Bill that is brought here in our opinion deserves to be considered by us. I believe we can leave it to the good sense of the authorities to think over the matter and judge it in the light of their experience. There is nothing so very revolutionary or striking in this law as to make us feel that if this Bill is passed today, we are trying to introduce any dangerous principle.

Regarding the distinction between Commonwealth nations and other nations, although I want our country to remain a part of the Commonwealth I do not like that distinction to be here. After all, our co-existence as a Commonwealth nation has not done so much good to us as we thought it would lead to. On the other hand, it has become a source of inconvenience to us in several ways. We can remain in the Commonwealth, but we have to find our own way to carry on in this world. So, for the present, when we recognise our existence as a Commonwealth nation, there is no harm in admitting that fact in this law also. But the sooner the occasion comes to do away with that thing and to make our law such that we may deal with all other countries in the same spirit of equality, friendship and cordiality as with this particular set of Commonwealth nations, the better it will be. In doing that, it is only recognising a fact which exists today, though it may not be very pleasant, because our recent experience of the Commonwealth has shown that those whom we thought to be our best friends and with whom our association, we thought, would lead to profit, are thinking of doing something to advance their countries in their own way and we find that it is causing damage to us in the economic sphere also.

The story which has been told by our friend, the hon. Finance Minister, yesterday in his statement is not a very encouraging one. However, the world is like that and it is in this world that we have to live. So, if we put in the word "Commonwealth" here, we recognise the condition under which we are working at present. Anyhow, I know, the real success of extradition law does not lie in making this law, but in making the extradition treaties with other nations. There, we have to deal with other nations on the principle of reciprocity. Therefore, when we actually deal with other nations, we are sure that our Law Ministry and the External Affairs Ministry would take all the care to see that we give to other nations only that which we are able to get from them. If that principle is kept in mind there is no harm in our passing this Bill and allowing the Government to carry on extradition measures on the basis of this law. For this reason, I give my support to this Bill that has come up here for the consideration of the House.

सभापति महोदय, सदन के महान नेता ने जो बिल यहां पेश किया है, सचमुच में यह बड़ी दूरदर्शिता का घोटक है। दूरदर्शिता तथा विषयबद्धत्व की भावना का यह तकाजा था कि इस तरह के किसी बिल को यहां लाया जाता और उस को पास करवाया जाता। बहुत ही उपयुक्त समय पर इस बिल को इस सदन में उपस्थित किया गया है।

मैं आप को बतलाना चाहता हूँ कि हमारा निकटस्थ मित्र-देश नेपाल है। उस की सीमा हमारे देश से सटे हुए है, उस देश की

सीमायें, हमारे देश से मिलती हैं। देखने में आता है कि वहां के लोग दिन दहाड़ खून खराबे करते हैं और इधर आ कर छिप जाते हैं। कोई कानून ऐसा नहीं है कि जल्दी ही आप ऐसे अपराधकर्मियों को उस देश को सौंप सकें। हमारे सम्बन्ध नेपाल से बहुत अच्छे हैं। हमारी महत्वपूर्ण नदी-घाटी योजनायें वहां उस देश में चल रही हैं। लेकिन जब इस तरह की बातें होती हैं तो उस का असर जरूर पड़ता है। ऐसा भी मुना जाता है कि एकाध अपराध-कर्मी इधर से भी अपराध करके उधर चला जाता है और कई तरह के अपराध कर के वापिस आ जाता है। इस वास्ते यह बहुत जरूरी था कि इस तरह के बिल को सदन के सामने पेश किया जाता और पास किया जाता।

हमारे देश के महान नेता ने जो यह बिल पेश किया है, इसे सारे देश की हार्दिक सहमति मिलनी चाहिये। इस बिल को लाने की आवश्यकता इसलिए और भी महसूस की गई कि सुप्रीम कोर्ट ने अपने एक फैसले में कहा था :—

Further the Supreme Court in its judgement in the State of Madras vs C. G. Menon (reported in 1955 Supreme Court Reporter 280) has held that after India became a Republic, the Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881, has ceased to apply to India.

ये बातें इस आबजैक्ट्स एंड रीजंज में लिखी हुई हैं। यह एक स्पेसिफिक केस है। इस को देखते हुए भी यह जरूरी हो जाता है कि इस बिल को पास किया जाय और सारे देश का इस बिल को हार्दिक समर्थन प्राप्त हो।

मैं एक ऐसे इलाके से आता हूँ जहां पर नेपाल और भारत की सीमायें एक दूसरे को छूती हैं और एक देश के लिये दूसरे देश के अपराधकर्मियों को जोकि दफा ३०३ (खून) और दफा ३६५ में वर्णित अपराध भी करते

हैं, सौंपना बहुत मुश्किल हो जाता है। इस वास्ते हमारे देश के महान नेता ने जो बिल पेश किया है, उसे हमें एक मत से पास कर देना चाहिये।

इसमें यह भी कहा जाता है कि इस बिल को सिलैक्ट कमेटी को रेफर किया जाय और उक्त समिति को रिपोर्ट देने के लिये कहा जाय। लेकिन हमारे महान नेता ने तो आबजेक्ट्स एण्ड रीजन्स में पहले ही लिख दिया है :—

“The Bill was referred to a Joint Committee and the Committee presented the report on the 30th November, 1961. The Bill, as reported by the Joint Committee, could not be taken up for consideration in Parliament for want of time and it lapsed on the dissolution of the Lok Sabha.”

इसलिये यह अब जरूरी नहीं है कि इस को किसी सिलैक्ट कमेटी के पास भेजा जाय।

उसमें जो धारा ३१ रखी गई है, वह बड़ी सुन्दर है। अगर कोई देशभक्त अपने देश में कोई राजनीतिक काम करता है या अपने देश की स्वतंत्रता के लिये लड़ता है और वह यहां आ कर शरण लेता है तो उस को सरेंडर नहीं किया जाय। धारा ३१ में कहा गया है : —

31. A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered or returned to a foreign State or commonwealth country—

(a) if the offence in respect of which his or her surrender is sought is of a political character or if he proves to the satisfaction of the magistrate or court before whom he may be produced or of the Central Government that the requisition or warrant for his or her surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him or her for an offence of a political character.”

इस की बहुत सी धारारों समीचीन हैं, समय के अनुसार हैं। जिस तरह से विश्व के देशों में

स्वतंत्रता की लड़ाई चल रही है, उस स्वतंत्रता के अभियान में अगर देशभक्त लोग किसी दूसरे देश में जा कर शरण लेते हैं तो वह एक जायज काम होता है।

इन सब बातों को देखते हुए इस महान् सदन को अब बिना इस पर कोई ज्यादा वक्त लिये इस बिल का पूरा समर्थन करना चाहिये और इसीलिये मैं भी इस बिल का तहे दिल से समर्थन करता हूँ।

Shrimati Renuka Ray: Mr. Chairman Sir, I was while listening to the debate on this Bill that I felt compelled to say a few words. Shri Mukerjee and some other subsequent speakers raised a certain objection I think Shri D. C. Sharma also read a list of the names of the countries with which we have extradition treaties. Their objection to this Bill being passed or the Act being brought into force now is that these treaties with the countries with which we have these extradition treaties in the past were entered into before 1947. That, I think, was the main contention of some of the hon. Members who spoke. Sir, I am not a lawyer, but from a reading of this Bill it seems to me quite obvious that this does empower the Central Government to make such modifications, exceptions, conditions and qualifications as may be deemed expedient for implementing the treaty with that State”—that means a treaty State or any other State according to clause 3(3)2. This is also explained later on in the explanation given in the Bill. Under these circumstances, I do not think the point raised by some of the hon. Members does provide a sufficient excuse to keep this legislation pending. In view of the fact that unless we have some Act immediately to give legal sanction to the agreement as the old Act no longer operates, those fugitive criminals who should be extradited from India cannot be sent back to the countries concerned, and vice versa it is absolutely essential that this Bill should be passed without any delay. Since the point made by hon. Members has actually been met, as I mentioned earlier, I do not see any reason for this objection being raised. Prof Sharma said that there are some countries like Cuba and Czechoslovakia with whom we have extradition agreements but where such agreements may have to be changed in view of the fact that changes have taken place in the constitutional structure in those countries. Shri Mukerjee was probably thinking of some other countries where changes have taken place. But, whatever be the nature of such countries, even if we pass this Act, it is possible, in the notification that will be made for the Government to make such changes, modifications, qualifications and exceptions as it thinks fit because it is a reciprocal thing. The Extradition Act is not an Act which India only has passed agreeing to send fugitive criminals from other countries. A similar gesture is made for India by the other countries. It is a mutual agreement.

That brings me, Sir, to the question of commonwealth countries. Why is there this discrimination between commonwealth countries and others? I presume the distinction is there because the commonwealth countries give similar facilities to India. That also is a matter of mutual agreement. I do see the point raised that in view of certain recent happenings in the United Kingdom in particular, it may not be always necessary for us to stick to agreements in other matters of importance to us. We find that the mother country of the commonwealth itself does not feel that it is necessary to stick to agreements in the past. But as the Bill stands today, I think, we can pass it quite safely, because we find that in clause 12(1), it is said:

"This Chapter shall apply to any such commonwealth country to which, by reason of an extradition arrangement entered into with that country, it may seem expedient to the Central Government to apply the same."

That means that if the Central Government does not wish to apply it to any commonwealth country it need not do so. Therefore, I think the point made both by Shri Mukerjee and Shri Hem Barua on this score has been met.

As for Shri Hem Barua's point that theft and kidnapping are lesser offences, I am afraid, Sir, hon. Members of this House and the country outside will agree that it is not so and the fact that Schedule II includes theft and kidnapping is correct.

Sir, I did not get up to make a long speech. I think the difficulty raised does not really obtain because the Government retains the power to make the necessary changes even in the treaties which they have entered into before 1947 by notification.

Lastly, I think it is very necessary, if we are thinking in terms of one world, that criminals of one country when they go to another country do not escape on that account, and an Extradition Act should be operating in all the countries. I am sure that so far as we are concerned it will be applied in such a way as will fit in with the changed conditions in those countries with which we may have had agreements before 1947.

With these words, Sir, I support this Bill.

Shri Lahri Singh (Rohtak): Sir, there is no doubt that the Extradition Bill should be passed. There is no dispute on this point. But the most important point is that a distinction has been made between fugitive criminals of a commonwealth country and those of other countries. Clause 11 particularly refers to that point. It says:

"Nothing contained in this Chapter shall apply to fugitive criminals of a commonwealth country to which Chapter III applies."

In the first place, Sir, there should not be any distinction because if such a distinction is made the most important point that will come in is the one that is of a political nature.

There is also one ambiguity. Clause 7 of Chapter II says:

"(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provisions, the magistrate shall, in particular, take such evidence as may be produced in support of the requisition of the foreign State or commonwealth country...."

On the one hand, we say in clause 11 that the Bill only applies to countries other than commonwealth countries and, on the other, in clause 7 the magistrate is empowered to take evidence even in the case of a foreign State or a commonwealth country. It further says:

"...and on behalf of the fugitive criminal, including any evidence to show that the offence of which the fugitive criminal is accused or has been convicted is an offence of political character or is not an extradition offence."

Therefore, here it has been particularly mentioned that even in the case of fugitive criminals of commonwealth countries the magistrate can go into the matter and take a decision. Clause 11 says that it cannot be done. It will create some difficulty because afterwards it will be pleaded that the magistrate cannot do it under clause 11 whereas in clause 7 it has been clearly provided that the accused can lead evidence. Therefore, I request that this distinction made in clause 11 should go. When clause 7 is there, there is no need for this Clause 11. Clause 7 applies to fugitive criminals of commonwealth countries as well as other countries.

Secondly, under clause 31, if the offence in respect of which his surrender is sought is of a political character or if he proves to the satisfaction of the magistrate or court before whom he may be produced or of the Central Government that the requisition or warrant for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offence of a political character, a fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered or returned to a foreign State or commonwealth country. So, a fugitive criminal of a commonwealth country can, according to clause 31, take up this plea but he cannot lead evidence. So, a distinction has been made between clause 7 and clause 17. In one case he can lead evidence. But, according to clause 11, he cannot lead evidence; he cannot take advantage of it.

Again, in clause 31 it has been provided that he can satisfy the magistrate. Why this ambiguity? How can he satisfy the magistrate when you do not give him the right to lead evidence. So, my request to the Law Minister is that even in clause 31 a person should be allowed to lead evidence to satisfy the court. The ambiguity should be removed. Because, there is an apprehension that in the long run the magistrate will not be able to utilize clause 31 for persons claiming that they are being prosecuted on account of having committed an offence of a political nature. Because of this ambiguity, in the long run the magistrates will feel helpless. There is no remedy because he cannot go to the High Court; he cannot file a revision. At the same time, the hands of the magistrate are restricted. So, I would submit that this ambiguity should be removed.

[श्री कुं० कृ० वर्मा]

जा सकती। ऐसी हालत में यह कहना कि इस बिल को जल्दी लाया गया है या इस को पब्लिक की राय जानने के लिये सरकुलेट किया जाना चाहिये ठीक नहीं है। मैं समझता हूँ कि इस में देर करना ठीक नहीं है और ज्यादा उचित यही होगा कि इस बिल को हम पास करें। इस में अगर कोई संशोधन या सुधार करना है तो हम इस समय वैसा कर सकते हैं। लेकिन इस में देरी करना उचित नहीं है।

दूसरी चीज डिस्क्रिमिनेशन के बारे में कही गई। यह कहा गया कि हप मैन वलथ कंट्रीज और दूसरे कंट्रीज के बीच डिस्क्रिमिनेशन करते हैं। एक ही जुम है लेकिन हम दूसरे तरीके इस्तेमाल करते हैं। जितने पूर्व बक्ता बोले हैं उन्होंने ने यह स्वीकार किया है कि एक्स्ट्राडिशन एक्ट का एक आधार लेन देन, रेसीप्रसिटी या गिव एंड टक ही हो सकता है। जब यह बात स्वीकार की जाती है तो मेरी समझ में दूसरे देशों के सम्बन्ध में जो कानून बनाया जाय उस में रेसीप्रसिटी के सिवा और कोई आधार नहीं रखा जा सकता। ऐसी हालत में हम को कामन वलथ देशों के नागरिकों को और दूसरे देशों के नागरिकों को जिन से हमारी ट्रीटी होगी वही सुविधायें देनी होंगी जोकि हम चाहते हैं कि हमारे देश के नागरिकों को उन देशों में मिल। इस बारे में कोई दो राय नहीं हो सकती। और इस बात पर यह कहा गया कि डिस्क्रिमिनेशन किया जा रहा है। क्या यहां के लोग यह चाहते हैं कि हमारे देश के नागरिकों को अन्य देशों में न्यायसंगत सुविधायें मिल। अगर हम चाहते हैं कि हमारे देश के नागरिकों को न्यायसंगत सुविधायें मिल तब तो हम भिन्न भिन्न तरह के कानून बना सकते हैं। लेकिन अगर हम ऐसा नहीं चाहते तो हम को एकसां कानून बनाना चाहिये। इसलिये यह बात अनुचित है कि हम इस मामले में कामन वलथ कंट्रीज के लिये एक तरह से सोच और जो दूसरे फारिन कंट्रीज हैं उन के लिये दूसरे तरीके से सोचें।

मैं समझता हूँ कि क्लॉज २ के सब क्लॉज डी० में जो डेफोनीशन दी गई है एक्स्ट्राडिशन ट्रीटी की उस के आधार पर शक जाहिर किये जाते हैं और डिस्क्रिमिनेशन की बात कही जाती है। उस में कहा गया है :

“‘extradition treaty’ means a treaty or agreement made by India with a foreign State relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals, and includes any treaty or agreement relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals made before the 15th day of August, 1947, which extends to, and is binding on, India;”

इसी डेफोनीशन में यह क्वालिफिकेशन रखी गई है

“is binding on India”

हम लोगों के लिये एक सेफगार्ड तो इसी डेफोनीशन में मौजूद है और हमेशा यह देखना होगा कि वह ट्रीटी इंडिया पर बार्डिंग है या नहीं। लेकिन एक मजबूत सेफगार्ड और इस बिल में रखा गया है जैसाकि अभी माननीया लेडी मेम्बर ने बतलाया कि क्लॉज ३ में यह दिया हुआ है :

“The Central Government may, by notified order, direct that the provisions of this Act other than Chapter III shall apply—

- (a) to such foreign State or part thereof; or
- (b) to such commonwealth country or part thereof to which Chapter III does not apply;

as may be specified in the order.”

तो ट्रीटी वगैरह जो भी बात हों, सेंट्रल गवर्नमेंट को पावर दी गई है कि वह अपने नोटीफाइड ऑर्डर में इसकी व्यवस्था कर सकती है।

“(2) The Central Government may, by the same notified order as is referred to in subsection (1) or any subsequent notified order, restrict such application to fugitive criminals found, or suspected to be, in such part of India as may be specified in the order.

(3) Where the notified order relates to a treaty State,—

- (a) it shall set out in full the extradition treaty with that State;
- (b) it shall not remain in force for any period longer than that treaty; and
- (c) the Central Government may, by the same or any subsequent notified order, render the application of this Act subject to such modifications, exceptions, conditions and qualifications as may be deemed expedient for implementing the treaty with that State."

इस में मैं यह समझता हूँ कि जो शुबहान सेक्शन २ क्लाज डी के बाबत उठाये गये हैं उन का हल मैकगन ३ में काफी दिया हुआ है। इस के होंते हुए मैं नहीं समझता कि उन शुबहान की कोई आवश्यकता है और न कोई वजह हो सकती है और न ही वह आधार हो सकता है इस बात के लिये कि यह बिल पब्लिक ओपीनियन एलिसिट करने के लिये घुमाया जाय।

इसके अलावा एक बात और भी कही गई, शर्मा जी ने शायद, यह कि ट्रीटी स्टेट्स की एक लॉग लिस्ट है और यह कि जब वह एक्स-ट्रीडीशन ट्रीटी की गई थी उस वक्त में वहाँ की गवर्नमेंट का सैट अप वहाँ की गवर्नमेंट का ढाँचा दूसरा था जबकि इस वक्त वह तमाम बदल गया है। ठीक है बदल गया है। वहाँ भी बदल गया है और यहाँ भी बदल गया है। लेकिन किसी देश का स्ट्रक्चर बदल गया हो और गवर्नमेंट वहाँ की बदल गई हो इस से हम लोगों से क्या सम्बन्ध। हमें तो यह देखना है कि अगर उन के साथ में कोई ट्रीटी हुई है और वह और करने जा रहे हैं तो हम

1339 (Ai) LSD—9.

भी और कर सकते हैं। सवाल यह है कि जो एक्सट्रेडीशन ट्रीटी उन के साथ में हुई है वह कुछ रेसीप्रोकल चीज है कि नहीं। अगर वहाँ पर हमारा कोई सिटीजन किसी मुसीबत में मुब्तिला होता है, कोई अप्रॉक्स करता है अथवा कोई बात करता है तो उस एक्सट्रेडीशन ट्रीटी के मुताबिक अगर वहाँ की गवर्नमेंट एकदम से बदल गई हो बिल्कुल चेंज हो गई हो लेकिन वह उस को और करती है और उस के मुताबिक वह चलती है और हमारे सिटीजन को वह मुविधायें, राइट्स और प्रिविलेज देती हैं तो क्या वजह है उस का करेक्टर बदला करे। हम यह मुविधा और वह प्रिविलेज उन के सिटीजंस को यहाँ देने के लिये तैयार हैं। और जैसेकि अभी बताया गया कि मैकगन ३ में इस का काफी प्राविजन किया गया है जिस में कि सेंट्रल गवर्नमेंट इन सब बातों पर मोच विचार कर सकती है। ऐसी हालत में मैं नहीं समझता हूँ कि वह लॉग लिस्ट होने से वहाँ की गवर्नमेंट का करेक्टर चेंज होने की वजह से कोई फर्क इस बात में आता है। मेरी समझ में यह कोई मिगनीफिकन्स की चीज नहीं है कोई बहुत एम्पीटेंस की चीज नहीं है और उस की वजह से यह नहीं कहा जा सकता है कि इस बिल के पास करने में कोई दिक्कत है या इसको सरकुलेट करना जरूरी है।

एक चीज और भी कही गई कि इस में मैकगन ३१ के क्लाज बी में यह दिया हुआ है :—

(b) if prosecution for the offence in respect of which his surrender is sought is according to the law of that State or country barred by time;

माननीय बरुवा जी ने इसको क्रिटिसाइज किया और उन्होंने यह बात बतलाई कि क्रिमिनल एक्ट का प्रोसीक्यूशन कहां बार्ड होता है? उस के लिए तो कोई टाइम लिमिट नहीं है। जब चाहे उस अप्रॉक्स के लिए कोई भी शरुस ट्राई किया जा सकता है। यह कहाँ है कि ऐसे अप्रॉक्स का ट्रायल बार्ड है? अब हम के बारे में मुझे बड़े अदब के साथ कहना पड़ता है कि

[श्री कुं० कृ० वर्मा]

अभी अभी हमी ने आसाम राइफल्स अमेंडमेंट बिल पास किया है। इस में क्लॉज ३ के अनुसार जो हम लोगों ने नया संकशन १० बनाया है उसका क्लॉज ४ इस प्रकार है :—

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, any legal proceeding (whether civil or criminal) which may lawfully be brought against a Commandant, Assistant Commandant or rifleman for anything done or intended to be done under the powers conferred by, or in pursuance of, any provision of this Act or the orders or rules made thereunder, shall be commenced within three months after the act complained of was committed and not otherwise.

अभी हम ही लोगों ने एक ला यहां पर पान किया है कि अगर वह थ्री मंथ्स एक्सपायर हो जायें तो आप उस का ट्राएल नहीं कर सकते हैं। आप कोई भी प्रॉसीडिंग उनके खिलाफ नहीं कर सकते हैं। इन क्रिम की चीजें और देशों में भी हो सकती हैं और मैं यह नहीं समझता हूँ कि बरुवा जी ने अभी देशों के ऐक्ट्स को स्टडी किया है और उस की बिना पर उन्होंने यह रिमार्क किये। ऐसी चीजें हो सकती हैं जिन में कि मैं समझता हूँ कि किसी क्रिमिनल ऐक्ट का ट्राएल बाई हों और अगर यहां इस में यह प्राविजन रखा गया है तो हमारे जो ला गिवर्स हैं और जिन्होंने कि इस बिल को फ्रेम किया है वह बधाई के पात्र हैं। उन्होंने कोई छोटा सा भी लैकूना नहीं छोड़ा और इन प्राविजन को भी उन्होंने इन में रखा।

अभी एक माननीय वक्ता ने संकशन ७ और संकशन ११ में कनफिलक्ट बताया। संकशन ७ के क्लॉज २ में यह दिया हुआ है :—

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provisions, the magistrate shall, in particular, take such evidence as may be produced in support of the requisition of the foreign State or commonwealth country and on behalf of the fugitive criminal, including any evidence to show that the offence of which the fugitive criminal is accused or has been convicted is an offence of political character or is not an extradition offence.

संकशन ११ इस प्रकार है :—

11. Nothing contained in this Chapter shall apply to fugitive criminals of a commonwealth country to which Chapter III applies.

चैप्टर ३ के ऐप्लीकेशन के बारे में संकशन १२(१) में यह दिया हुआ है :—

12. (1) This Chapter shall apply only to any such commonwealth country to which, by reason of an extradition arrangement entered into with that country, it may seem expedient to the Central Government to apply the same.

इस में जो कौमनवेल्थ के फ्यूजिटिव क्रिमिनल् होंगे उन के लिए एक दूसरा प्रोसीज्योर दिया गया है। चैप्टर ३ में फ्यूजिटिव क्रिमिनल् वगैरह के लिए जब अलग में एक प्रोसीज्योर दिया हुआ है तो संकशन ७ का प्रोसीज्योर तो उन प्रोसीज्योर के खिलाफ है। चैप्टर ३ में जो क्लॉज १४ है उसमें यह चीज दी हुई है कि फ्यूजिटिव क्रिमिनल् जो वहां के होंगे उन के लिए कोई वारंट वगैरह आता है तो इनडोसमेंट हो जाने में उनको गिरफ्तार वगैरह किया जा सकता है। ऐसी हालत में मैं यह समझना हूँ कि संकशन ७ के क्लॉज २ और संकशन ११ में कोई कनफिलक्ट नहीं है बल्कि संकशन ११ पोजीशन को और क्लेरीफाई करता है : जोकि इस बिल का प्रिंसिपल है कि कौमनवेल्थ कंट्रीज के जो फ्यूजिटिव क्रिमिनल् होंगे उनके साथ में क्या व्यवहार होगा उनके खिलाफ किस तरीके से हम प्रोसीड करेंगे जिन कौमनवेल्थ कंट्रीज के साथ हमारी ट्रीटी नहीं है या फौरन कंट्रीज जो हैं उनके साथ क्या प्रोसीज्योर होगा किस तरीके से हम ट्रीट करेंगे वह दोनों प्रोसीज्योर बिलकुल अलग अलग बतलाये गये हैं। संकशन ७ से यदि किसी

चीज का डाउट पंदा होता था तो सैक्शन ११ उसको और क्लेरीफाई करता है और उसको कंट्रोल करता है बजाय इसके कि उन में कोई कनफिलक्ट हो। ऐसी दशा में मैं समझता हूँ कि जो शुबहात उठाये गये हैं या जो कंट्रिब्यूशंस दिखलाये गये हैं दरअसल वह कोई कंट्रिब्यूशंस नहीं है और उस बारे में कोई शुबहा करने की जरूरत नहीं है। हमारा बिल सैल्फ गफिशिएंट है और कम्प्लीट इन इटसेल्फ है और इस के पास करने में मेरी समझ में कोई दिक्कत नहीं होनी चाहिए। जैसा कि अभी एक वक्ता ने बताया है, यह जरूर है कि जिन वक्त सेंट्रल गवर्नमेंट सैक्शन ३ के मुताबिक अपने आर्डर्स पास करें, उन वक्त काफी एहतियात ली जाये और ऐसा नहीं होना चाहिए कि उन आर्डर्स की वजह से हम किसी दिक्कत में पड़ जायें, किसी फारेन स्टेट या कामनवेल्थ कंट्री से हमारे नाल्लुकात खराब हो जायें या हमारे सिटिजन को, अगर वे किसी ऐसी बात में मुबतिला हो, कोई दिक्कत हो, या उन को किसी तकलीफ का सामना करना पड़े। मैं समझता हूँ कि हम यह कानून सिर्फ यहाँ पर रहने वाले दूसरे कंट्रीज के सिटिजन के लिए ही नहीं बना रहे हैं, यह खाली उन्हीं से सम्बन्ध नहीं रखता है, बल्कि, जैसा कि बताया गया है, इस में गिव एंड टेक का मामला आता है। हमें इस बात का ध्यान रखना है कि हमारे सिटिजन का भी सम्बन्ध इस में है और उन के राइट्स और प्रिविलेजिज को प्रॉटेक्ट करने के लिए यह जरूरी है कि इन बिल को जल्द से जल्द पास किया जाये, ताकि उन को कोई तकलीफ न होने पाये।

Shri A. K. Sen: Mr. Chairman, I am surprised a little that Shri H. N. Mukerjee, speaking on behalf of the Communist group, has opposed this motion and on a ground which appears rather strange to me. He says that this Bill should have been sent for circulation for public opinion before this motion was moved. This Bill went through a Joint Committee of which Shri H. N. Mukerjee was a Member. The report of the Joint Committee was unanimous. It is on the unanimous recommendation of the Joint Committee that changes were introduced and the original Bill suffered alterations, precisely the same changes which were recommended by the Joint Committee of which Shri H. N. Mukerjee was a Member. The Joint Committee thought that there should not be a separate list of offences for the Commonwealth countries which list included offences like treason and piracy. At the time when the motion for reference to a Joint Committee was made, I personally thought that treason should not be there in the list of extradition offences because it was a term of very wide import and some Commonwealth country with which our relation may not be particularly friendly at a particular moment, might use this term treason to cover all sorts of offences. That is why separate lists were completely removed and one list was agreed upon which does not contain any reference to treason or piracy.

[MR. DEPUTY-SPEAKER in the Chair.]

The difference between Commonwealth countries and other countries is one of procedure. The offences are the same. Nothing which falls outside this category of offences could attract the provisions of the Extradition Act. The procedure is different by reason of historical circumstances, because in all the Commonwealth countries, the procedure has been, first of all, endorsement of a warrant issued by the country seeking extradition and then an enquiry followed after the endorsement by the magistrate concerned, whereas in the case of non-Commonwealth countries, the procedure is a little different. There is no warrant issued initially. Enquiry by a magistrate starts on an intimation by the Central Government, and then if the enquiry discloses a prima facie case, the magistrate issues a warrant. Even then the Central Government may intervene and need not automatically issue an extradition order. That is the position. The procedure is different because of historical reasons because in all the Commonwealth countries, the same procedure obtains vis-a-vis our extradition demands also. That is why that procedure was followed. But, on the substance of the matter, no difference is there in the Act itself. The offences are the same and the enquiry is a statutory necessity, a statutory obligation and the magistrate has to satisfy himself before making an order in either case that there is an extradition offence proved and the extradition offence is an offence covered by the Schedule which is the same for all the countries.

Then, there is a further safeguard. Simply because it is an offence within the Schedule, it does not follow that there is extradition as a matter of course. The treaty itself will specify which of the matters would be covered treaty in the case of non-Commonwealth countries and mutual arrangement in the case of Commonwealth countries. Then, there is a further safeguard that in extending the application of this Act to Commonwealth countries or non-Commonwealth countries, as Shrimati Renuka Ray was good enough to point out, the Government of India has been given power to apply with such modifications and alterations as may seem fit and proper. This is clause 3 sub-clause 3 (c) which says:

“the Central Government may, by the same or any subsequent notified order—supposing there is a notified order applying to a particular country and changes occur in that country; a subsequent power of notification is also given—render the application of this Act subject to such modifications, exceptions, conditions and qualifications as may be deemed expedient for implementing the treaty with that State.”

There is a similar provision with regard to Commonwealth countries in clause 12(2), so that the first requirement is a treaty. This is power given to the Government to apply the provisions of this Act for the purpose of implementing the treaty with such modifications as the Government may decide. The same thing for the Commonwealth countries.

Then, there is the further safeguard namely that in one case intimation by the diplomatic representative of the country and in the other case a warrant issued by the Commonwealth country followed by an enquiry in either case. Therefore, all the safeguards show that extradition would not be as a matter of course, but all the safeguards which international law grants on the entire subject are insisted upon.

Then, Shri H. N. Mukerjee said that there was a Geneva Convention on the suppression of international terrorism to which India was a signatory, that Convention still subsists and therefore, though in the Schedule terrorism does not occur, we shall be liable to extradite people on the charge of terrorism. This argument suffers from several fallacies. First of all, even if that Convention was binding today, assuming that is so,—I will show later that it is not binding any more—it does not automatically apply to any extradition arrangement or treaty between India and any other country. The treaty will define which of the offences in the Schedule would be applicable. Secondly, the Schedule itself omits any reference to terrorism. What is omitted in the Schedule cannot be made applicable by any treaty. Because, the Government cannot enter into a treaty in contravention of the Act. It can only enter into a treaty with regard to offences mentioned in the Schedule. Then, the word ‘fugitive criminal’ has been defined as a person who has either been charged with or has been convicted of an offence mentioned in the Schedule. Therefore, nobody is a fugitive criminal unless he is accused of an offence mentioned in the Schedule. Therefore pari passu nobody can be sought to be extradited unless he is charged with or is convicted of an offence mentioned in the Schedule itself.

Lastly, Shri H. N. Mukerjee assumes that the Geneva Convention was never effective. I may point out that it was never effective at all; and it was never ratified after signatures, and, therefore, it never came into operation. It was entered into in 1937 after several assassinations took place in Europe; notably the assassination of the German Ambassador in Paris, the Yugoslav Head of the State and some other acts of terrorism took place in Europe. In 1937, a convention was signed in Geneva, to which India was a party, and the signatories undertook to punish persons guilty of terrorist activity. I am reading this out from a publication by the Soviet Government, by the Academy of Sciences of the USSR, under the wing 'Institute of State and Law'. This is what it says: I hope the authenticity of it will never be disputed by anyone. It says:

"In 1937, the convention for the International Convention for punishment of terrorism was signed in Geneva by the representatives of 24 countries including the Soviet Union."

So, it is not that this country alone signed it. In fact, even now, amongst the East European countries in the Communist bloc, the convention to suppress international terrorism still holds good, and extradition arrangements cover this offence. But, let me read further:

"The signatories undertook to punish persons guilty of terrorist activity, that is—

'(a) of attacks upon the life and health of Heads of States and official personages,

(b) of acts of sabotage directed against State or public property;

(c) of actions creating a danger to a number of human lives;

(d) of the preparations, storing or supplying of any persons with any weapons and other means of terrorism;....

(f) of the preparation for terrorist acts, incitement to terrorism or any form of assistance to terrorists'.

Subsequent events showed that the major imperialist States which signed this convention by no means intended to renounce terrorism as a means of imperialist intervention in the internal affairs of the State. The Convention was not ratified and did not come into force."

So, it never came into force. In any event, even if it did come into force, as I said earlier, unless terrorism was mentioned as an item in the Schedule, there would no fugitive criminal at all charged with the offence of terrorism. A fugitive criminal can only be one who is charged with or who is convicted of an offence as mentioned in the Schedule. Therefore, this point fails. Having regard to the fact that the unanimous recommendation of the Joint Committee was incorporated, I see no reason for accepting the motion for circulation of this Bill for eliciting opinion thereon. In fact, the debate on this motion has disclosed more or less unanimity about the necessity of a legislation of this type. The only controversy was whether this difference between the Commonwealth countries and the non-Commonwealth countries should persist. But as I have explained already, in regard to the substance of the law, it is the same. It is only the procedure which is different, though in either case, an inquiry becomes a statutory obligation, and even after the inquiry, the Central Government are not bound to issue extradition order as a matter of course.

With these words, I once again commend the motion for the acceptance of the House.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: I shall first put the amendment of Shri H. N. Mukerjee to the vote of the House.

The question is:

"That the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by 15th October, 1962."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: The question is:

"That the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals be taken into consideration."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: We shall now take up the clauses. I shall first put clauses 2 to 6 to the vote of the House.

Shri H. N. Mukerjee: I had given notice of certain amendments yesterday, but possibly it was after four o'clock, and, therefore, they could not be circulated. Some had relation to clause 2.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: They have not been circulated, and there was no time to circulate them.

Shri H. N. Mukerjee: If they are barred for want of proper notice, then there is no way out.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: The question is:

"That clauses 2 to 6 stand part of the Bill."

The motion was adopted.

Clauses 2 to 6 were added to the Bill.

Clause 7—(Procedure before magistrate)

Shri Rameshwar Tantia (Sikar): I beg to move:

"(3A) If the Magistrate is of the opinion that the offence, though not of a political nature, is not an offence in terms of the law of the land, he shall discharge the person against whom the extradition proceedings have been instituted." (1)

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: The amendment is now before the House.

Shri Rameshwar Tantia: The object of moving this amendment is to bring this piece of legislation in conformity with the true spirit of the international law. Suppose a person is not guilty under the law of the land but is guilty under the law in the other country wherefrom he has come. It is to cover such cases that this amendment has been moved by me. For example, suppose a person in East Africa or South Africa, let us say, a coloured person, marries a white woman; probably he might be committing an offence under the law of that country, but that would not be an offence in our country. If that person comes to this country, he should not be extradited under this Bill on the ground that he has committed an offence under the law of that country. I think that it is a very reasonable amendment, and it should be accepted.

Shri A. K. Sen: May I say with due respect to Shri Rameshwar Tantia that this amendment proceeds from a wrong assumption that all offences are the subject-matter of extradition? It is only those offences which are mentioned in the Schedule which are the subject-matter of extradition. He will be good enough to see that all offences mentioned there are offences within the meaning of our Indian Penal Code itself, and so it is not offences in general under the law of any country for which extradition can be sought, or which can form the subject-matter of extradition proceedings, but it is only those offences, first of all, as defined in the Second Schedule, and secondly, as covered by an existing extradition treaty. Therefore, these are the two safeguards.

I hope my hon. friend will withdraw the amendment.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: Does Shri Rameshwar Tantia want to press his amendment?

Shri Rameshwar Tantia: No. I would beg leave of the House to withdraw it.

Shri U. M. Trivedi (Mandsaur): I hope that some better explanation will be forthcoming from the hon. Minister. What the hon. Law Minister has said has not been followed by us. What does he mean? Does he mean that the only extraditable offences are those offences which are mentioned in the Indian Penal Code?

Shri A. K. Sen: What I said was that extradition proceedings can only be started against a fugitive criminal as defined in the Bill. A fugitive criminal is defined in clause 2(f) as one who is charged with or who has been convicted of an offence as mentioned in the Second Schedule. Therefore, any offence outside the Second Schedule is not relevant at all. If one examines the offences mentioned in the Second Schedule, one will find that they are all offences which are regarded as such in the Indian Penal Code. Therefore, the point that a man who is charged with an offence which is not an offence under the Indian Penal Code would still be harassed is a point that fails.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: Has Shri Rameshwar Tantia leave of the House to withdraw his amendment?

Several Hon. Members: Yes.

The amendment No. 1 was, by leave, withdrawn.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: The question is:

"That clause 7 stand part of the Bill".

The motion was adopted.

Clause 7 was added to the Bill.

Clauses 8 to 37 were added to the Bill.

The first Schedule and the Second Schedule were added to the Bill.

Clause 1, the Enacting Formula and the Long Title were added to the Bill.

Shri A. K. Sen: On behalf of the Prime Minister, I beg to move:

"That the Bill be passed".

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: Motion moved:

"That the Bill be passed".

Shri H. N. Mukerjee: I am sorry that even at this late stage I have to oppose the motion moved by my hon. friend, the Law Minister, on behalf of the Prime Minister. I am sorry again that an effort has been made to get this Bill passed through this House in somewhat of a hurry, rather, if I may say so with respect to this House, in a cavalier fashion. I say so because certain points had been raised which are by no means trivial, and it was rather disconcerting to hear my hon. friend, the Law Minister, point out that all discriminatory tendencies in the legislation as previously propounded have been removed, that differences between our treatment of commonwealth countries and non-commonwealth countries are of a very minor nature and purely procedural and, therefore, do not go to the essence of the subject.

I am sorry that my hon. friend, the Law Minister, was not present when I was speaking and when so many other members were speaking. But we did try to point out to Government—though we know that Government is usually indifferent to what is said from this side of the House—that even procedurally speaking something is being done now discriminating in favour of commonwealth countries, which is by no means right, which on principle should never be done by this country. I say this not only from the point of view of theory but also from the [Shri H. N. Mukerjee] point of view of practice. From the point of view of theory, of course, it might very well be said with justification that this difference in the procedure in our extradition relations as between commonwealth countries and non-commonwealth countries has no basis at all. But what can be the possible justification of a non-commonwealth country asking for the extradition of a fugitive criminal having to go through the procedural safeguard in this country, that a magistrate in this country would look into the prima facie nature of the allegation brought by the country seeking extradition? In the case of a commonwealth country, which includes all sorts of countries with all kinds of political set-up, with all kinds of peculiar complications in their own political and economic arrangements, what happens is that a warrant comes and all that the officers of our judicial administration can do is to examine whether the warrant is in order or not, and if it is certified to be in order, as having been signed by the proper authority in the country asking for extradition, then, of course, the extradition takes place.

This is a most serious matter. I say this because there are countries like Pakistan, for instance, with which as far as we are concerned, we wish to maintain friendly relations, whatever the provocation, but we know, at the same time, that political life in Pakistan is fettered and truncated in such a fashion that real, serious, genuine efforts to bring about democratic changes in that country are not only frowned upon but are absolutely crushed without any kind of legal safeguard to put a brake on that process at all. We know for a fact that there are so many instances where people have had to come away from Pakistan.

My grouse against this Bill, as I tried to express it when the Law Minister was not present, is that in regard to political offences, this Bill is particularly cavalier, particularly indifferent and particularly negligent. In regard to political offences, our duty as a country should have been to tell the world that we are going to offer political asylum to whoever is suffering for political reasons in other countries including commonwealth countries like the UK or Pakistan. But we are not doing that at all. What is happening? As a matter of fact, a warrant executed in 'X' commonwealth country for what would, to all intents and purposes, be a political offence, to which a cloak would perhaps be put in the shape of certain criminal allegations, would, merely because procedurally it is acceptable, have to be executed on our soil and the so-called fugitive offender will have to be extradited. Why should this happen? That is because of the negligence of the Government in so far as this Bill is concerned of the universally accepted principle that every possible safeguard should be adopted to see that political offenders do not come within the mischief of any extradition law. We are not taking any steps in that direction. I tried to point out, and happily you were in the Chair at that time, that in 1937 we were a party, we were made to be a party because we were not a free country at that time, to a convention which was signed in Geneva, in accordance with which acts of what is called rather peculiarly, political terrorism would be extraditable, that is to say, a political act, but which can be given a sort of quasi-criminal connotation by calling it an act of political terrorism or something like that would not get the immunity which political offences should get under the internationally accepted principles of extradition. We are a party to that, and I tried to find out the position. Unfortunately, for purely technical reasons, some of my amendments were barred, and I am not having any grouse against it, but I wanted a very definite clarification from Government as to what is happening in regard to pre-1947 agreements which India has already entered into. And here in clause 2(d) extradition treaties include agreements relating to extradition of fugitive criminals made before the 15th day of August, 1947. I have brought before the House Oppenheim's Treatise on International Law edited by Lauterpacht, in which there is a specific reference to the international convention which India was made to sign in 1937. England did not sign it, but India did, and by doing that India has given a certain connotation to political offences which goes against the principles laid down in the other parts of this Bill. This is a peculiar thing. That is why I wanted this Bill not to be made perfect. As some of my friends over there tried to insinuate—I have no such illusions about perfection being achievable in the conditions in which we live—but at least I wanted to have this Bill made as good as it could be, but I find this kind of thing all the time.

Then again, I tried to draw the attention of the House to certain things in the Second Schedule which should not be accepted without very careful thought having been given to them. Here is the power which we are giving to Government if we pass this Bill, as we shall I am sure, merely by notification to add to the list of offences already scheduled here in the Second Schedule of this Bill. And what do we say there?

“Any offence which if committed in India would be punishable under any other section of the Indian Penal Code or any other law....”

This is an omnibus provision, and are we going to let go of this without very careful thought? But apparently Government does not want us to give careful thought to this matter. Government behaved in the same manner earlier in the last Parliament, and Government had to be by main force compelled to refer the matter to a Select Committee, and then luckily for Government perhaps, the general elections intervened, and this thing lapsed, and now Government comes on the first day of the session, puts on the agenda the Extradition Bill and calls upon the Parliament to pass it knowing full well that the serried ranks of the supporters of Government here would naturally say “yes” to whatever Government has to offer. This is a kind of procedure which is extremely objectionable, and I do say that not only from the point of view of theory, but from the point of view of practice, certain discriminatory practices continue in this Bill.

I am very sorry to find that the Government party, with all its wealth of legal talent, for some reason or other, put out speakers who had hardly made a study of this Bill and knew hardly a thing about what was actually being contemplated by this Bill. I am sorry to have to say it but I say with respect, whatever respect I can muster in my present mood, that I was very sorry to find that speeches were made in a manner which suggested a complete lack of study of the matters which are relevant to the principles of extradition.

That is how the Government wishes to behave. I do not wish to be dilatory. I do wish that as soon as ever it is possible we have an extradition law of our own. I am completely at one with my revered friend, Dr. Aney, in this matter. I want that in free India we should have an Extradition Act of our own, as quickly as ever it is possible. I did not want to postpone matters, but I only suggested that the heavens would not have fallen if we had waited for two months, if we had received suggestions from outside, if we had got the Law Commission to examine this matter. Some of us may be regarded not very reputable, we are not clever lawyers, but at least the Law Commission could have been asked to give its views in regard to this, and I had indicated to you that the Law Commission itself had suggested that when the extradition law was finally formulated, perhaps it was better that the Commission was consulted. But nothing of that sort is done. Government, in its wisdom, comes before us and says that it has adopted the recommendations made by the Joint Select Committee. I do welcome the Bill in so far as some of the really good elements introduced by the Committee have been incorporated here. Government has not gone as far as it ought to have done; and that is why, in spite of my disinclination to do so, I feel constrained to oppose the passage of this Bill which has been conducted so cavalierly by the Law Minister.

Shri U. M. Trivedi: I will not take long. I endorse the views expressed before us by the Deputy Leader of the Communist Party, Shri Hiren Mukerjee. It is very strange that we are one of the nations in the Commonwealth; and we have all sorts of nations in the Commonwealth. Ours is a democratic country. We have got a neighbour which does not believe in any democracy. We do not know what laws are made there. We do not know what kind of reciprocities are observed by them. We know that many of the fugitives from here—hundreds of examples are there in the reports of our Public Accounts Committee from 1950 onwards—cheats, thugs, those who commit breaches of trust and all sorts of people, who have escaped from here and walked into Pakistan territory are there and we cannot get them back. If this is so, I do not understand why we should have a law whereby we hand over fugitives from law coming from that country. I do not understand why we should have any such arrangement with the Commonwealth ipso facto.

Instead of entering into a treaty on this particular proposition we just make it so because it is a Commonwealth country and that because the Commonwealth have accepted the position of a Commonwealth country, we agree to hand over those who may be alleged fugitive even when we have bitter examples of persons who have been dragged from our soil, like Col. Bhattacharya, and tried and sentenced to 7 years rigorous imprisonment. I cannot understand why we should have an arrangement of that kind in our law whereby we agree, very meekly and mutely, to hand over fugitives against whom any extradition warrant may be issued by that Government. The only explanation available to that person would be that he would have to satisfy the magistrate that he is being shifted for political purposes. I do not know how a person who is produced before a magistrate consucceed in showing that there is some ulterior motive on the part of Government of the nature which I have indicated.

Time is running short. I endorse every word of what has been said by my predecessor. This Bill ought not to be hurried through in the manner in which it is being done. It is a very important Bill which puts a sort of heavy burden on all of us, all the citizens of this country. In view of the fact that we are not on good relations with many of these Commonwealth countries, it would have been proper for us to have paused and considered all the aspects of this Bill before we put down in the Second Schedule item 18.

The point raised by Shri Tantia was a very reasonable one. He belongs to the political party which rules this country; and so he agreed to withdraw his amendment. But the spirit behind the amendment was very sound. We do not know what Government will do and what particular offences of the Penal Code it will notify.

We have put it in our law that bigamy is an offence and that a man can be sentenced for bigamy. But it is not so in Pakistan. So, Pakistan will not hand over any person who has committed the offence of bigamy and gone over to Pakistan and is a fugitive there because it is not an offence there. All these things ought to have been considered. We have done this in order to placate those persons. We are very zealous reformists and we do not know to what extent we will go in calling ourselves reformists and getting certificates from other circumstances. In these circumstances, I do wish to endorse the views already expressed and oppose this Bill.

Shri D. C. Sharma: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not subscribe to the views put forth by the previous speakers that this Bill is being done in a hurry. I do not know what the implication of the word is in the dictionary of my hon. friends. A Joint Committee was appointed; it submitted its report. The report was in our hands during the last session. Now the Bill has come up. I do not know how much time my hon. friends over there want for this Bill so that this Bill may be said to be done, not in a hurry. Due time has been given to the consideration of this problem; due precautions have been taken that the Bill is made as workable as possible. All those things have been done which are done when any Bill of a controversial kind comes up and I do not see any reason why they say that this Bill has been done in a fit of hurry.

The Deputy Leader of the Communist Party charged the Members of the Congress Party with something which should not have been done. He said that the Members of the Congress Party who spoke on this Bill showed lack of knowledge. Do quotations mean knowledge? Simply because you quote from a leader of the Statesman you become learned! Or simply because you quote two paragraphs from the Law Commission or from some other book, you become learned! Certainly not. I think this has been the most uncharitable thing for anybody to say so and for anybody to arrogate to himself deep and profound study and a great study of something and to charge other people that they have studied nothing and know nothing. I feel that this shows the kind of approach which some Members and some parties bring to bear on the problems that are placed before this House.... (Interruptions.) Those Members who have taken part in the discussions on this Bill have done their best and nobody here has any right to sit in judgment upon anybody else. If anybody else does so, we can also sit in judgment upon them; that is the reciprocity..... (Interruptions.)

Dr. M. S. Aney: May I say, Sir, something on a point of personal explanation? Referring to the long list of Committees read by the hon. Member; Shri K. K. Verma, an hon. Member sitting near him said: I do not know whether he has read the constitution of all those countries. Then, I said: "certainly not". That is what I said. If you have that in mind, I admit having made that observation jocularly.

Shri D. C. Sharma: I was not referring to it.... (Interruptions.)

Shri K. K. Verma: May I also explain? I certainly did not ask whether my friend has read the constitutions of those countries which he was mentioning. When it was pointed out that he was reading a long list of countries I said: It does not matter what the political character of that Government is or what changes happened there; we have only to see whether they observe the treaty or not. That is all that I said.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Will the hon. Member take more time?

Shri D. C. Sharma: Yes, Sir.

Mr. Deputy-Speaker: He can continue tomorrow.

17 hrs.

The Lok Sabha then adjourned till Eleven of the Clock on Wednesday, August. 8 1962/Sravana 17, 1884 (Saka).
