Title: Need to construct a National Highway from Gwalior to Kalpi to commemorate the sacrifice of Rani Laxmibai.

DR. BHAGIRATH PRASAD (BHIND): During the first War of Independence in 1857, Rani Laxmi Bai of Jhansi led the most crucial movement to oust British regime in India. The most decisive drive from Kalpi to capture Gwalior was observed keenly all over the world. The success of Rani could have changed the fate of India. India could have been independent 90 years before, in 1857. Indians could have been saved from slavery of Britishers for almost a century.

The valour, commitment and sacrifice of Rani could not receive the due recognition and appreciation in the history. It is now high time to give her a due place in the history of the first war of independence. Though she could not succeed but she laid the foundation of a freedom struggle which culminated into the independence of India in 1947.

I request the Government of India to construct a national highway from Gwalior to Kalpi to commemorate the great sacrifice of Rani Jhansi who conducted a valorous journey from Kalpi to Gwalior.
