[Sari R. S. Sparrow]

Lanka played the dirtiest most and wrong type of play which was never expected from the trained up soldiers. In Colombo they just bashed their vehicles into jewellery and other shops as a first measure and then looted out everything that there was. And, then seeing that the people are hung by the nearest pole they don't move a hair. Here is something which is barbaric and leading on to genocide, half-way home. This is the very type of thing that happened and one feels very-very sad about that.

As chance has it the other aspect of it is this, that, still the Tantilians are not being settled properly. And I am very glad that one of our emissaries and a traind hand has today gone or is going to settle things to the best advantage of the people. They are not keing selted properly. They are being herded about homeless and hamletless and nothing with them is left. Su that part of it is, where we have to focus our attention. that is how to help them from this distance. Their supplies are inadeghatemedical, household and anything for that matter-and you cannot expect much from the Goverment of Sri Lanha at the moment because they themselves are dithering. They are now sure of their own standing as to where they stand in relation on this opisode.

The other point, which has been raised is as to their leanings to wards any kind of supe r-powers. Yes, it seems to be quite clearly; understandable that the leaning is there. To what extent it may mature is not easy to predict. But one thing I feel certain, geo-strategically speaking, that this particular tsland is of great importance and when one notices that, already there is so much of movement forward creating a sphure of influence into the Indian Occan and around by a Super Power knowing especially. What Trincomalce is 1 know Trincomalee as being one of the finest bases in South Asian seas, one of the naval best and it is very attractive, attractive strategically to anybody for that matter. And when that type of move forward, creeping move forward, by certain super powers is noticed with other intentions which we do not have to discuss now, one feels a little bit upset. Anyway, we have to watch that thing very carefully as India and I am very glade to notice that the vein of thinking all around the House is just one, that, we stand for the Sri Lanka Tamils. At their back. as one nation, we do stand. I come front the North, but I want to assure you, Sir, I have got the feelings of my friends, of my own area. They feel as one with every Tamilian down South and we will stand for you through thick and thin. cume what may. So, this is the mood of the House and it is a pleasure to notice that. Ultimately what it may form in the way of situations is very difticult to predict. All 1 can say is that the way, the adroit manner in which our Government and High Command is handling this issue is andecd very steady and very commandable and incidently forceful, althou:h at may not look that way, but forceful, geo-sirategically and geompulietically it is. And I think the best mark that I can give to our High Command and our Government is that it has handed the isste very adronly, yet with force enough which is felt in the uir. Wath these words, I thank you sery much for giving me an cpportuitity to speak.

IHE PRIME MINISTER (SIIRIMATI INDIRA (iANDHI): Mr. Speaker, Sir, last week I informed the House about the ontcome of my talks with presiderit Jayowardene`s Special Envis. Imncdistwly afterwards. Mr. G. Amirthalingam the Leader of the Oppostion in the Sri Lanka parliament and Secretary-General of the TULF the main party reptesenting the Sri Lanka Tamils, Ifft Jalina for Delhi. Since his arrival on August 14, he has had taks with me in addition to mectings with cur Foreign Minister and other members of our Cabinet and parliament members of various parties. Yesterday, I onece again telephoned to president Jayewardəne.

I should like to inform the House of the result of the latest developments. On behalf of the TULF, Mr. Amirthalingam has also weicomed cur offer of good offices, which, he sa'd has introduced a basic change in regard to negotiations between his party and the Government of Sri Lanka. For many years, he and his party has sought fulfilment of the legitimate rights and aspirations of the Tamil people of the island within a united Sri Lanka, but had failed to get any helpful response. On the contrary, the Tamils have been increasingly harassed, and the latest outrages against them have left them tolally without confidence in negotiations Mr. Amirthalingam and his colleagues did not find it possible to come to the negotiating table on the basis of past offers. However. he feels that as a result of India's etforts, the picture hats changed and, although differencens between the two sides rematin deep, there might now be some possibility of a solution.

The basic need of the hour is to bring a sense of security among the propte of Sti Lanka. This in turn can restore confidence in their living together and in warking out permanent solutions which are satisfactory to the Tamil minerity as well as to the Sinhala majority. The seateh for that permanent solution also needs to be undertuken as arickly as posvible.

This can bost be attempledat the conference table. As I have previously said, it is for th Sri Liankan Government to decide how and when a conference with the Tamil leaders call be brought. But because of our profound concer?, we have effered to help in whatever way we tan. To arrive at ally setalement, it is necessary for both sides to tatk to each other. To facilitate this process of dialogue and to give effect to our good offces, I have offered lo send a special envoy to meet President Jayewardene and others. During my telephone call last evening, President Jayewardenc agreed to my suggestion. Accordingly, I have asked one of our distinguished and experienced diplomats SHRI G. Parthasarathi to undertake this deligate and important task. Ho will visit Colombo next wiek.

I asked Presdent Jayewardenc about the latest conditions generally regarding security and specially in the refugee camps. He told me that they were steadily returning to normal and that only a few thousands now remained in the camps. In reply to my question about relief supplies, he said they had enough food and clothing but would get in touch with our High Commissioner should anything more be needed.

President Jayewardene and $\mathbf{I}$ argeed to remain in regular contact. He also agred that his brother, with whom we had useful talks, would continue as his special Envoy.

During the repeated discussions in this House, hon. ivembers have expresscd their strength of feelings at the course of events. All sections of the pcople all over our country share these feelings, which tanseend party and other diffice ences. I am particularly aware of the deep anotions of our brothers and siste's in Tammadu over these tragic happening, As I said in the utherHouse, the agony of the Tamils in India and elsewhere is that of our entire nation. The brutalty and insensate violence to which the Tamils of Sif Lanka have been subjected were vividly desenbed by Mr. Amirthalingam in his talks here. My Government and I personally been conveying our own anguish and concern to the Coverrment of Sri Lanka.

At the same time, we must always beer in baind the effect of anything we say or do. Nearly all hom. Members have recognised the delicacy and dificults of the situation with which we have to aleal. I am grateful to them for this understanding, and for the suppot they have wiven to Government's approach.

In the circumstances, restraint combined with filmness is callud for. These mast continue to determme our policy. Above all, we wish to assist in bringing about an atmosphere which is free of commanal tension aid conducive to the efforts of the Sri Lankan leaders of all communities to achieve a lasting political settement. We hope both sides will take soncrete steps towards that end. This is what $I$ want my envoy to pursue with pres dint Jayewardene and others concerned.
