OBSERVATION BY SPEAKER

[English]

MR. SPEAKER: Hon. Members, I must congratulate you all for the orderly debate today. The standard of the debate indeed was very high. Despite differences of opinion, approach and outlook, I have no doubt, hon. Members had kept uppermost in their

Today, the country is passing through a very difficult time. There are many problems facing us which need to be tackled. The need of the hour is that the country should remain united to face all the challenges and take the country on its journey to build a strong and prosperous India.

Hon. Members, I am sure, the House would join me unreservedly in appealing to all sections of our people to maintain peace and harmony and promote mutual trust and continue their struggle unitedly with a firm resolve to bring about a total revolution for a bright and prosperous India. Being the chosen representatives of the people belonging to this august House, all of us have to address ourselves most earnestly and sincerely to the task of nation building forgetting all our differences. We have to remind ourselves all the sufferings and sacrifice made by millions of our countrymen to achieve freedom from foreign yoke so that we do nothing which may jeopardise our freedom and dignity. This way alone we can redeem our debt to those martyrs and fulfil the dream of the father of the Nation. Thank you very much.

The House stands adjourned sine die.
